Foreword

In 2019, the deep-seated contradictions of global economic development have become prominent, with the trade protectionism and unilateralism impacting the multilateral trading system. The world economy remains sluggish and achieves weak growth. However, economic globalization is still an irreversible trend of the times, and the development of the global MICE industry still remains stable. According to the latest edition of the Global Exhibition Barometer released by the Global Association of the Exhibition Industry (UFI), it is expected that the exhibition industry around the world will continue to grow steadily in 2019.

President Xi Jinping attaches great importance to the development of China's MICE industry. Since 2019, President Xi Jinping has not only personally attended a series of major conventions and exhibitions such as the 2nd China International Import Expo and the Second Belt and Road Forum for International Cooperation, but also sent congratulatory letters to the China International Big Data Industry Expo, the China International Fair for Trade in Services, the first China-Africa Economic and Trade Expo, the 12th China-Northeast Asia Expo, the Fourth China-Arab States Expo, the World Manufacturing Convention, the China International Digital Economy Expo, China Marine Economy Expo and other 20 exhibitions and conventions, proposing that we should make good use of these platforms to promote the implementation of the "Belt and Road" Initiative and make efforts to build a community with a shared future for mankind.

With the leadership of the CPC Central Committee and the State Council, the MICE industry in China has made concerted efforts to meet challenges, seize opportunities, and has made remarkable achievements and important contributions in the following aspects: First, the success of a series of major conventions and exhibitions has effectively promoted the development of the MICE industry. The market scale of the exhibition industry remains the largest in the world; new exhibition forms emerge in endlessly; the business model presents diversified development; the resource integration is increasingly intensified, and the industry structure and regional layout are continuously optimized, promoting the MICE industry from high-speed growth into a high-quality development track. Second, the promotion and influence of the exhibition industry on the development of national economy has been further enhanced, The exhibition industry gives full play to the effects of resource allocation, distribution of elements, and economic radiation, and has played an increasingly important role in transforming economic development modes, leading industrial transformation and upgrading, promoting high-quality economic and social development, and improving the comprehensive national power. Third, the vigorous development of China's exhibition industry has also made positive contributions to building a modern open market system, promoting international economic and trade cooperation, boosting confidence in the world economy, promoting world economic development, and building a community with a shared future for mankind.

In order to fully cooperate with the national foreign economic and trade strategy, give full play to the role of the exhibition industry as an important platform for building an open economic system and promoting the construction of China's modern economic system, constantly expand foreign trade, cultivate new forms and models of trade, and better promote the high-quality development of the exhibition industry, the Department of Trade and Investment Promotion of CCPIT has entrusted the Academy of CCPIT to carry out the formulation of Annual Report on China's Exhibition Economy (2019) (hereinafter referred to as the "Report"), so as to provide authoritative information resources for the exhibition industry, provide reference for relevant government departments to improve exhibition management and service levels, and formulate policies and development plans for the exhibition industry. The Report is released during the annual China Expo Forum for International Cooperation (CEFCO). Since 2005, it has been issued for 15 consecutive years, giving voice to the industry, which has made a certain impact on the MICE industry at home and abroad and played a certain guiding role in the industry development.

Report (2019) continues will the review and outlook of China's exhibition industry, the overview of the development of China's domestic and overseas exhibitions, and the overview of the development of China's exhibition venues. At the same time, it is planned to apply the form of special topics to present the international horticultural exhibition and China development, the world exposition and China development, the new development in government-led exhibitions, the research on the capitalization operation of Chinese exhibition industry, the historical processes of building a powerful exhibition country during 1949~2019, the case study of convention and exhibition economy development in Guangxi Province and other hot topics according to the new development trend of China's exhibition industry in the new era to comprehensively, accurately and timely reflect the status of exhibitions (expositions) held in China.

Several research methods including data analysis, comparative analysis and literature analysis were used in the process of preparing the report to summarize and extract valuable data and information and form conclusions so as to reveal the inherent quantitative relationship, law and development trend of various exhibition indicators.

Data analysis. The domestic exhibition data in China is mainly collected and provided by the Information Department of China International Exhibition Center Group Corporation. The data is sourced from member units of the CCPIT system and domestic public media information (network and print media). Based on the data of 3,547 economic and trade exhibitions with area information collected, the Report will make separate statistics on the number of similar industry exhibitions held by the same exhibition organizers, at the same time, and at the same place if the exhibition organizers clearly distinguish them; the Report will make combined statistics if the exhibition organizers do not clearly distinguish them.

Based on the 1,766 overseas exhibition projects that have been implemented by each exhibition organizer of the exhibition approval and management system of the CCPIT, as of Nov. 13, 2019,the statistical analysis is mainly conducted for data of China's overseas exhibitions that have been implemented.

The relevant data of China's exhibition venues is derived from the database of the Information Department of China International Exhibition Center Group Corporation. According to the statistical standard of the exhibition venue market by the Global Association of the Exhibition Industry (UFI), a statistical survey has been conducted on 431 exhibition venues and non-professional exhibition places in 186 cities (excluding Hong Kong, Macao and Taiwan) and a statistical analysis has been conducted on those professional exhibition venues whose indoor rentable area is more than or equal to 5,000 m^2 and at which more than two economic and trade exhibitions have been held in 2019.

Comparative analysis. Regarding the development of domestic exhibitions in China, the Report analyzes the changes in the number of exhibitions and the exhibition area in 2019 compared with 2018, and makes the comparative analysis from four aspects: regional distribution, scale distribution, industry distribution, and exhibition organizers.

Regarding the development of China's overseas exhibitions, the Report analyzes the overall changes in the number of overseas exhibitions (expositions) implemented, the exhibition area and the number of enterprises participating in exhibitions in 2019 compared with 2018, and makes the comparative analysis from seven aspects: overall situation, exhibition form, regional distribution, important markets, industrial distribution, exhibition organizers, and the status of the CCPIT's participation in overseas exhibitions.

Regarding the development of China's exhibition venues, the Report analyzes the changes in the number and area of exhibition venues in 2019 compared with 2018, makes the comparative analysis from the regional and scale distribution, market and operation, summarizes the change law of each indicator, and truly reflects the development trend of China's exhibition industry in 2019.

Literature analysis. Through the National Library of China, CNKI and Wanfang Database, as well as Bureau of International Expositions (BIE), Global Association of the Exhibition Industry (UFI), International Congress & Convention Association (ICCA), International Association of Exhibitions and Events (IAEE), Association of the German Trade Fair Industry (AUMA) and other authoritative professional institutions, the relevant information and materials as well as research reports on domestic and overseas exhibitions have been widely collected for in-depth research to summarize the characteristics of the development of China's exhibition industry in 2019 and predict the trend of China's exhibition industry in 2020 and even in the future, as well as put forward countermeasures and recommendations for high-quality development of China's exhibition industry based on the actual work of China's exhibition (exposition) industry.

Chapter I Review and Prospect of China's Exhibition Industry Development

Based on the major events of China's exhibition industry in 2019 and the first-hand survey data, the Chapter briefly reviews the overall operation of China's exhibition industry this year, presents an outlook of its development in 2020, summarizes problems faced by China's exhibition industry in its high-quality development, and puts forward countermeasures and suggestions for promoting the high-quality development of the exhibition industry.

I. Development Trend of China's Exhibition Industry in 2019

In 2019, facing the complicated situation at home and abroad especially the severe challenges brought by China-US trade frictions, the development of China's exhibition industry continued to focus on the supply-side structural reform, took the reform and opening up as the driving force, and held exhibitions in the direction of specialization, internationalization, branding and informatization, so as to speed up the construction of a modern exhibition economic system. The quality of the exhibition and the economic benefits were improved continuously, presenting the following five development trends in general.

(I) Domestic exhibitions were transformed to pursue high-quality development, and the regional and industrial structure was further optimized

In 2019, as the socialism with Chinese characteristics entering a new era, China's exhibition economy was transformed from a stage of rapid growth to a stage of high-quality development. One of the important characteristics was that the growth of overall domestic exhibition scale changed from high speed to medium-high speed, and the development of the exhibition industry shifted from the pursuit of quantitative growth to the track of high-quality development. Incomplete statistics showed that, among all the exhibitions of which the area data has been gathered, a total of 3,547 economic and trade exhibitions were organized in China, with a year-on-year decrease of 6.5%; the total exhibition area was 130.48 million m^2, with a year-on-year increase of 0.8%. [①] The industrial structure of the exhibition economy was also subject to major changes. The number of exhibitions in the heavy industry exceeded that in the service industry, jumping to the second place, and rapid growth was achieved in exhibition area. Large-scale exhibitions above 50,000 m^2 accounted for 57.6% of all scale exhibitions, indicating that China's exhibition industry was gradually transformed to large-scale and centralized exhibitions.

① China's domestic exhibition data are calculated by the Information Department of China International Exhibition Center Group Corporation, and mainly come from all member units of the trade promotion system and domestic public media information (network and paper media). Statistics are based on the economic and trade exhibitions with area information collected. When the number of exhibitions is counted, if the organizing party clearly distinguishes a number of similar industry exhibitions held by the same organizing party, at the same time and at the same place, this report will conduct separate statistics; if the organizing party has no clear distinction, this report will provide combined statistics.

A new pattern of coordinated regional and industrial development of the exhibition industry has gradually taken shape. The regional development was more balanced, and the industry composition was gradually optimized. In terms of regional distribution, the number of exhibitions in Northwest China, North China and Southwest China all increased by 28.2%, 16.3%, and 10.3% respectively, while compared with 2018, the number of exhibitions in the Northeast China, East China, South China, and Central China decreased by 21.4%, 17.4%, 3.5% and 0.9% respectively. The exhibition area in Northwest China grew the fastest, with a year-on-year increase of 20.6%, followed by Central China, Southwest China, North China and East China, with a year-on-year increase of 14.0%, 8.0%, 3.9% and 1.9% respectively; while the exhibition area in South China and Northeast China decreased by 12.4% and 0.6% respectively year-on-year. Shanghai, Beijing, and Guangzhou still led the development of the exhibition industry in China, and the development advantages of the exhibition industry in Shenzhen, Qingdao, Zhengzhou, Chengdu, Hangzhou and Chongqing emerged at a faster pace. With the advancement of the development strategies in the Beijing-Tianjin-Hebei, Yangtze River Delta, and Pearl River Delta regions, Tianjin, Wuhan, and Shenzhen also embraced new development opportunities. In terms of industrial distribution, light industry exhibitions, heavy industry exhibitions, service industry exhibitions, agricultural exhibitions and special exhibitions successively were at the top in terms of quantity, accounting for 38.0%, 25.2%, 22.2%, 5.0% and 3.1% respectively.

(II) Overseas exhibitions grew steadily, making active contribution to the co-construction of the Belt and Road

In 2019, with the support and guidance of governments at all levels in China, the overall scale of China's overseas exhibitions (expositions) continued to grow, with remarkable achievements made in structural adjustment. The number of exhibits continued to increase, the exhibition area increased steadily, and the number of exhibitors increased gradually. 91 exhibition organizers across China hosted exhibitions (expositions) in 73 countries, participating in 1,766 projects, with an increase of 94 from 2018 and a year-on-year growth of 5.6%, while the exhibition area reached 921,300 m^2, 91,100 m^2 more than that in 2018, representing a year-on-year increase of 11.0%, and the number of exhibitors totaled 61,000, with an increase of 2,000 and a year-on-year growth of 2.9% from 2018. ② The rapid development of overseas economic and trade exhibitions established an exchange platform for Chinese enterprises to carry out economic and trade cooperation with foreign countries, improved the international competitiveness and international market share of Chinese commodities, and accelerated the pace of "going global" for Chinese enterprises.

At the same time, thanks to the continuous deepening of the "Belt and Road" construction, trade exchanges between China and the countries along the Belt and Road became closer. The demand for enterprises to explore emerging markets increased with the help of exhibitions, and the role of exhibitions in serving the overall economic and foreign affairs became prominent. As many as 77 exhibition organizers across China organized the participation in 697 exhibition projects in 30 countries along the Belt and Road, accounting for 39.5% of the total exhibition projects, down by 2.9% year on year. The exhibition area was 410,000 m^2, representing 44.5% of the total exhibition area, with a year-on-year increase of 8.7%. The number of exhibitors came to 26,000, contributing 42.3% to the total exhibitors, decreased by 1.7% than that in 2018. These exhibitions effectively promoted the trade exchanges between China and the countries along the "Belt and Road", helped Chinese enterprises stabilize and expand the markets in the countries along the Belt and Road, enhanced mutual understanding and friendship between the Chinese and foreign people, and made solid contributions to the high-quality development of the "Belt and Road" construction.

(III) The supply scale of exhibition venues continued to increase, and the market rental rate polarized

According to statistics, the number and area of China's exhibition venues in 2019 continued to increase, and the number of domestic exhibition venues reached 173, increasing by 9 than that in 2018, with an increase of about 5.5%; the total indoor rentable area was about 10.76 million m^2, increasing by 0.92 million m^2 than that in 2018, with an increase of about 9.3%. ③ Among them, Guangdong and Shandong, the two provinces with large traditional venue resources, continued to maintain the momentum of growth. The number of exhibition venues in Shandong increased by 2 compared with that in 2018, continuously ranking top as the province with the largest number of exhibition venues in China; the total area of exhibition venues in Guangdong increased by about 0.32 million m^2 compared with that in 2018, accounting for about 17% of the total rentable area of national indoor exhibition venues, ranking first in China. With the completion of the Tianjin National Convention and Exhibition Center and other large-scale exhibition venues, the imbalance of China's exhibition resources (more in South and less in North) will be effectively addressed. Thanks to the completion and operation of the Shenzhen Convention & Exhibition Center, Qingdao Cosmopolitan Exposition and other ultra-large-scale exhibition venues, the rentable indoor exhibition venues with a total of area 0.92 million m^2 were newly established in the exhibition venue market of China in 2019, with an increase of about 4 percentage points over 2018, reflecting the trend of continuous growth of the total supply of exhibition venues under the new economic situation.

From the perspective of the rental rate, the exhibition venue industry showed a significant head effect in 2019, and the exhibition resources were obviously inclined to the industry leaders. The rental rate of exhibition venues at the top of the market continued to increase with expanding market shares; at the same time, more than half of the exhibition venues registered a rental rate of less than 10%, which was only one sixth of the utilization level of the top exhibition venues. In general, in 2019, there were 6 exhibition venues with a rental rate of above 60%, 2 more than 2018, indicating that the leading group of exhibition venues was expanding. There were 20 exhibition venues with a rental rate of 30%~60%, the same as 2018, indicating that the backbone force of exhibition venues was still stable. There were 50 exhibition venues with a rental rate of 10%~30%, 1 more than 2018. However, there were still as many as 97 exhibition venues with a rental rate of below 10%, 6 more than 2018.

(IV) Beijing Expo made outstanding achievements, and the preparations for the China Pavilion at Dubai World Expo proceeded smoothly

Beijing Expo 2019 was themed "Live Green, Live Better" with brilliant activities and splendid achievements. President Xi Jinping attended the opening ceremony and delivered the keynote speech entitled "Seeking A Green Life and Co-building A Beautiful Homeland". Premier Li Keqiang and Vice Premier Hu Chunhua attended the closing ceremony of the Beijing Expo and the China National Pavilion Day activities respectively and delivered speeches. A total of 110 countries and international organizations as well as 124 non-official exhibitors including 31 provinces, autonomous regions and municipalities in China, Hong Kong, Macao and Taiwan participated in the Expo. More than 100 outdoor exhibition parks and 54 indoor exhibition areas were built, and a total of 3,284 events were held, which was visited by 9.34 million Chinese and foreign visitors. The large scale of the exhibition and the large number of exhibitors set a new record in the history of A1 international horticultural expos, which can be called "the Most Wonderful Park" gathering exquisite flowers and horticulture products from various countries. The Beijing Expo interpreted the concept of China's green development, demonstrated the achievements during the construction of beautiful China, and promoted the exchange and cooperation of the achievements and ideas of ecological civilization construction by this platform, so as to jointly build a green homeland.

The Dubai World Expo will be held from October 20, 2020 to April 10, 2021, and the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade (CCPIT) will work with relevant units to stick to high standards and strict requirements to make scientific preparations for the China Pavilion. In March 2018, the China Pavilion Organizing Committee started the architectural scheme design of the China Pavilion, named the China Pavilion "Light of China" upon several rounds of development, and determined that the China Pavilion would closely follow the theme of "Building a Community of a Shared Future for Mankind - Innovation and Opportunity", highlight China's innovative achievements in science, technology, information and communication, publicize the co-construction of the "Belt and Road" Initiative, and promote the proposition of building a community with a shared future for mankind by focusing on the four parts of "Exploration and Discovery", "Communication and Connection", "Innovation and Cooperation", and "Opportunity and Future", and with the ideas of innovation creating opportunities, opportunities building the future, and common development in the future as the main line.

(V) The reform of the exhibition management system entered a new stage, and the business environment of the industry was optimized continuously

In 2019, major progress was made in the reform of "delegation, management, service" in China's exhibition industry. The number of exhibitions organized by the Party and government organs was reduced gradually, and commercial exhibitions were further opened. Relevant government management departments continued to promote streamline administration and institute decentralization, so as to constantly remove the constraints of the administrative system, stimulate the vitality of market entities, and give full play to the role of the exhibition industry as an important platform for building an open economic system and promoting the development of China's modern economic system. According to the requirements of "Establishing a filing system for the four types of foreign-related economic and technological exhibitions whose examination and approval have been canceled to keep abreast of the exhibition holding situation and implement supervision" in the Decision of the State Council on Canceling a Group of Administrative Licensing Items ([2019] No. 6), the Ministry of Commerce would no longer implement the examination and approval of the four types of foreign-related economic and technological exhibitions in China, but retained the examination and approval of two types of domestic foreign-related economic and technological exhibitions, and established an exhibition filing system to implement filing management for the four types of foreign-related economic and technological exhibitions. In response to the above requirements, local competent commercial departments made great efforts to transform government functions, strengthen public services, innovate supervision methods, constantly optimize the development environment of the exhibition industry, and continuously deepen the reform of "delegation, management, service" in the exhibition industry.

In accordance with the requirements of the State Council for the reform of "delegation, management, service", the CCPIT unswervingly pushed forward the reform for overseas exhibition approval to a deeper and higher level. On the one hand, the submission and approval procedures of exhibition projects were further simplified, and a new version of the exhibition approval management system was applied. More than 280 exhibition organizers across the country can complete the whole process of project application, tracking the approval process, reporting personnel for review, adjusting the project plan and filling in the implementation data of the exhibition through the network, and can query the publicity information of the CCPIT's examination and approval of exhibition projects in real time, which further improved the security and convenience of project application. On the other hand, demonstration of the reform direction of the administrative approval items of overseas economic and trade exhibitions, as well as the support and feasibility of national policies were carried out to study a new round of amendments to the Administrative Measures for the Examination and Approval of Economic and Trade Exhibitions Held Abroad and to explore and formulate the standards of conduct and management rules for exhibition organizers, so as to effectively ensure the marketization and openness of China's overseas exhibitions, hand over the affairs that are outside the scope of authority, ensure the affairs that are within the authority and the due services should be delivered.

II. Development Outlook of China's Exhibition Industry in 2020

The year 2019 has witnessed a stable overall performance of China's exhibition industry, which has played an active role in implementing national strategies, promoting economic and trade development, and boosting regional economy. Looking ahead to 2020, on the one hand, there will be unfavorable factors such as rising global economic uncertainty, further slowing of China's economic growth, and intensifying competition in the exhibition market. On the other hand, there will also be new opportunities with the in-depth advancement of the "Belt and Road" Initiative, the conversion of old and new driving forces, the technological progress, the capital market intervention and the cross-border integrative development. Generally speaking, we see the following development trends:

(I) The overall development trend slows down

There are three main reasons: (1) from the perspective of international environment, currently, global unilateralism is on the rise, and the international cooperation environment is complex and changeable. Not only are Sino-US economic and trade relations tense, but also relations between Japan and South Korea, India and Pakistan, and the United Kingdom and the European Union will also face greater uncertainty. In particular, the Sino-US economic and trade frictions are not optimistic. The uncertainty of the world's economy has cast a shadow over the development of global exhibition industry. (2) In terms of China' s domestic economic environment, the economic growth rate has been declining over recent years, which is 6.3% in the first half of 2019 and is expected to remain at about 6.1% in the second half of the year. The slowdown of the economic growth rate directly weakened the growth momentum of the exhibition industry. (3) After nearly 20 years of rapid growth, China' s exhibition industry has accumulated a huge stock in both the number of projects and the number of venues, with increasingly fierce market competition. This is also an important reason for the slowing growth rate.

(II) National strategies will pose more obvious impact on the development of exhibition industry

As a leading industry that promotes social and economic development, the exhibition industry can also be greatly influenced by national strategies and policies. From the perspective of the current development trend, policies that have a great impact on the exhibition industry include: First, the "Belt and Road" Initiative and international cooperation on production capacity: Enterprises may enjoy new opportunities arising from the "Belt and Road" Initiative, whether they participate in overseas exhibitions or hold exhibitions abroad. Second, sub-regional cooperation: All sub-regional cooperation is expected to become a key area for international cooperation in the exhibition industry, including cooperation between China and ASEAN, cooperation between China and Asian and European countries, cooperation between China and Arab countries, cooperation between China and Northeast Asian countries, cooperation between China and Central and Eastern European countries, as well as cooperation between China and African countries. Third, domestic policies: Some new technologies, new industries, and new consumption areas advocated by the country may become new growth points for the development of exhibition industry. These areas mainly include intelligent manufacturing, new energy, robotics, new materials, big data, 5G technology, blockchain and gerontology.

(III) Conventional industrial policies will gradually shift to the optimization of the business environment

Although the exhibition industry has much to do with external factors, it is essentially a high-end service industry that can be operated by market forces and needs to be operated in accordance with the laws of market economy. The optimization of business environment is a key link to give full play to the decisive role of market in the allocation of resources, and it is the basic work to promote the rapid and sound development of the socialist market economy with Chinese characteristics. in addition, with the slowing down of economic growth, the national funds used to support the development of exhibition industry will also be restricted to some extent, and it is difficult for the government to support the development of exhibition industry by increasing financial fund or tax reduction in the early stage.

(IV) The exhibition industry will transit from quantitative expansion to a new stage of quality improvement

The significant feature of this change is that the average size of exhibitions will increase rapidly, but the number of exhibitions and that of market entities may slow down or even grow negatively. There is no doubt that over the past 20 years, China's exhibition industry has achieved remarkable achievements, but in terms of overall characteristics, the number of exhibition projects has grown faster than the quality of exhibitions, and the number of entities in the exhibition market has grown faster than the scale and competitiveness of exhibition enterprises. This situation is reasonable in the initial stage development of the exhibition industry, but now it has reached a new stage of upgrading and industrial structure optimization and adjustment.

(V) The exhibition industry will enter a new period of conversion of new and old driving forces

The rapid development of China's exhibition industry over the past 20 years was firstly attributed to the continuous growth of exhibition projects hosted by traditional state-owned enterprises and industry associations. Secondly, thanks to the emergence of a large number of private exhibition enterprises, many dynamic market entities were enriched; Thirdly, the reform and opening-up policies of the MICE industry have attracted a large number of foreign-funded exhibition companies; Fourthly, governments at all levels have hosted a large number of exhibitions. The combination of various forces has laid a solid foundation for the rapid growth of China's exhibition industry since 2000. However, from the perspective of future development, restricted by financial resources, governments will be unable to host and subsidize exhibitions with large funds as in the past; most foreign-funded enterprises have already set up wholly-owned companies, joint ventures or representative offices in China, and it is difficult to see a large number of influx into China as that in the early stages of market opening; private exhibition enterprises will also face the same problem. With the increase of exhibition projects and the intensification of market competition, the entities will also slow down their entry into the market, and some smaller exhibition enterprises may even exit the market. This means that the traditional growth momentum of China's exhibition industry will encounter a bottleneck for sustained growth, and the development of the exhibition industry urgently requires conversion of new and old driving forces.

(VI) New progress of science and technology gives fresh impetus to the exhibition industry

The progress of science and technology affects the exhibition industry mainly in three aspects: first, the progress of science and technology improves the operation efficiency of facilities for conventions and exhibitions. For example, the construction of the intelligent pavilion can improve the operation efficiency of the pavilion. It hence facilitates the improvement of production rate in the exhibition industry. For example, the development of high-speed railway bridged the spatial distance that keeps people away from the exhibitions and brought convenience for the development of the exhibition industry. Second, the progress of science and technology improves the organization and operation of the exhibition industry. Traditional exhibition industry attracted customers via door-to-door visit, phone call, fax and so on. With the development of science and technology, fundamental changes have taken place in how to attract customers. Intelligent organization and operation of exhibitions not only improves the organizing and operation efficiency of exhibitions, but also reduces the cost of organizing and operation. Third, science and technology bring new opportunities for the development of the exhibition industry. The application of new technologies such as the Internet, AR, VR and blockchain in the fields like medicine, industry, entertainment and mobile terminal greatly widens the theme selection scope for the exhibition industry.

(VII) The involvement of capital enhances the exhibition enterprises' ability of merger, acquisition and investment

Over the years, enterprises have been seeking scale expansion mainly by depending on its own capital accumulation with weak capacity in financing. However, in recent years, more and more exhibition companies started focusing on the capital market and unremittingly broadened their financing channels by taking measures like New OTC Market, Main Board Listing. Meanwhile, Shanghai Stock Right Investment Fund for Exhibition Enterprises, the first stock right investment fund for exhibition enterprises in China, was founded in Shanghai in 2019. These measures promoted the close combination between the exhibition industry and the capital market. The involvement of capital market enhanced the investment ability of exhibition enterprises and helped exhibition enterprises unremittingly develop new exhibition projects on the one hand, and facilitated the merger and acquisition of exhibition enterprises on the other hand, thus continuously improved the organization level of the exhibition industry.

(VIII) New energy is injected into the exhibition industry through crossover integration

The development practices of the exhibition industry in recent years show that crossover integration mainly refers to four aspects: first, the crossover integration of facilities for conventions and exhibitions. More and more convention and exhibition centers have developed from single operation pavilions into new integrated operation pavilions involving exhibition pavilions, hotels, office buildings, shopping centers, museums and art galleries. Second, the vertical integration of the exhibition industry chain enables such businesses as exhibition planning, organizing, building and consulting to be gradually integrated so that a batch of convention and exhibition groups with influence emerged. Third, the technology-enabled integration referred to the integration of the Internet and pavilions, the Internet and the building of main pavilion, and the Internet and exhibitors. The integration not only improved the work efficiency but also spawned new business models.

Fourth, the crossover integration of complementary businesses. The exhibition industry is closely related with the information service industry, and many well-known exhibitions depend on world-renowned data and information enterprises. For data companies, the exhibition is a data product and an important platform for collecting data. For the exhibition industry, strong data support will give exhibitions a broader development space. The close relationship between exhibitions and data makes it possible for the crossover integration of data companies and exhibition enterprises.

(IX) Consumption upgrade gives new impetus to the exhibition industry

As a platform industry for promoting the development of economy and trade, the exhibition industry can be affected by both industries and consumption. The upgrade and updating of consumption structure provides the exhibition industry with new business opportunities. The consumption structure has experienced three major upgrades since the reform and opening-up of China: first, from the beginning of the reform and opening-up to 2000, as the current main task was to solve the problem of food and clothing, hot topics of China's economy were mainly clothing and food, and industries concerning food and clothing were developed rapidly at that time. Second, from 2000 to 2015, two major industries- housing and automobile- emerged in China. The two industries had long industry chains with obvious driving effect on the national economy. Exhibitions concerning housing and automobiles had obtained great development as the development of these two major industries. Such background also contributed to the rapid development of exhibitions related to building materials, household supplies, vehicles, parts, automobile culture and automotive aftermarket. Third, in recent years, automobile and housing have declined in market demand to some extent, as the consumption structure has shifted to customers' demands for comprehensive health and entertainment. This transformation and upgrade of consumption structure may enable such theme exhibitions as old age medical treatment, elderly care, leisure and vacation, and cultural tourism to be one of the hot fields of the exhibition industry in China for a long time to come.

(X) New generation and new culture bring a new look for the development of the exhibition industry

Those who was born in 1990s and after 2000 will be aged around 30 and 20 by 2020. They will be the subject of consumption market in China. From aspects like economic environment, social environment and cultural environment, those who was born in the 1990s tremendously differ from those born earlier. New concepts such as two-dimensional space, Hip-hop, animations, pets, Internet-famous food and lazy economy are exclusive concepts of the young consumer group. It equals to deviating the mainstream of future consumption if young people are ruled out. Therefore, exhibition enterprises must focus on the emerging consumer culture of people born in the 1990s and research their consumption features to find more opportunities for the exhibition market. The reason why exhibitions concerning animation, game, electronic sports and pets are so popular is largely that they have seized the pulse of the era and adapted to the new consumption features in the background of the new era.

III. Problems and Countermeasures for the Development of China's Exhibition Industry

Since the inception of the new century, thanks to the great support of governments, the opening-up of the exhibition market and the joint growth of diversified market entities, China's exhibition industry has made significant achievements, not only ranking the top in the world in such aspects as the number of exhibitions, accumulated exhibition area and scale of pavilions, but also establishing a relatively complete industrial system involving relevant government departments, associations of the exhibition industry and exhibitions enterprises. The exhibition industry enjoys an enhanced position in the social economy and plays an active role in promoting industrial development and boosting regional economy. However, comparing with the exhibition industry in developed countries and regions, China's exhibition industry is still faced with such problems as poor development quality and weak international competitiveness. For the purpose of boosting the sustainable and healthy development of the exhibition industry in China, it is highly necessary to deeply analyze and judge these problems, and take targeted measures on correction to ensure the high-quality development of China's exhibition industry.

(I) Outstanding problems in the development of China's exhibition industry

Generally speaking, the problems in the development of China's exhibition industry is demonstrated in the following five aspects:

First, market plays a weak decisive role in resource allocation and unclear relationship of property rights restricts the flow of exhibition elements. Since there is no clear definition for the commercial attribute of the exhibition and public opinions tend to excessively emphasize the various values of the exhibition industry to the hosting cities, governments have to play a vital role in the development of the exhibition industry in China and market plays a weak decisive role in resource allocation. It can be seen from the practices of the exhibition industry that governments stretches its visible hand in various aspects ranging from hosting, guidance, subsidies to attendance of government leaders. Intervention of government officials can be seen everywhere in the process. Under market economy, the relationship between governments and enterprises is contradictory and unified with the "Cogging Effects". Excessive role played by the government in resource allocation of the exhibition industry may restrain the vigor and vitality of market to some extent.

The decisive role of market in resource allocation should be embodied in the products and services field on the one hand, and in the factor market on the other hand, in which clarified property ownership is the prerequisite for realizing the flow of capital factor market. Especially in the merger and acquisition of exhibition projects, clear property ownership bears more prominent importance. However, there are many well-known exhibitions in China, some of which are sponsored, organized and supported by a large number of institutions, and many market players coexist. Some have been held over a long history, with a number of changes in terms of the host and organizers, then how to identify the ultimate property ownership in such case? It remains a difficult problem for many exhibition projects. It can hardly be imagined how can an exhibition perform capital operations when its basic property ownership is not clear? Therefore, to realize high-quality development of China's exhibition industry, making clear the property ownership of exhibition project is the basic work.

Second, some formalism problems exist in the exhibition industry, in which the free choice right of exhibitors and buyers is not fully respected. Theoretically, the exhibition is a commercial activity, and the form to be adopted mainly depends on the decision of the host. However, actually, since many exhibitions are directly held or supported financially by government, the number of exhibitors, the number of audiences, the influence of guests, internationalization and trading effect must strictly comply with the indexes required by government, and a number of problems concerning formalism arise. For example, the opening ceremonies of some exhibitions were grand, attended by leaders and elites. After that only a few exhibitors and audiences were there. There was a large number of signing on the exhibition site, even contracts that should have been signed at ordinary times were signed at the exhibition so as to magnify the trading effect. In fact, only a few projects were implemented. Some exhibitions integrated exhibitions with different themes into one exhibition so as to gain financial support. Some exhibitions hired false buyers during negotiations and false audiences in meetings. Things like this are too numerous to be mentioned one by one.

Respecting the free choice of market entities is the fundamental common sense of the market economy. It shall be decided rationally by exhibitors whether they will participate an exhibition or not. During the development of the exhibition industry in China, since many exhibitions are hosted or supported by government, many organizers attract investment and exhibitors in the name of government so that many enterprises and related exhibition organizations have to participate in exhibitions owing to pressure from government instead of market reasons. Hence the purpose of participating in exhibition has deviated from the market track and poor effect can be foreseen.

Third, some policies deviating the neutral principle result in unfair competition. In order to promote the development of the exhibition industry, the central government and local governments have introduced policies such as guidelines on the development of the MICE industry and methods of application of exhibition support fund in recent years. There is no doubt that these incentive measures have played an active role in promoting the development of the exhibition industry. However, in order to stimulate the short-term market and take an immediate effect, some policies and measures generally refer to indexes like the number of exhibitors, number of booths, scale of exhibition, proportion of special design booths and proportion of overseas exhibitors, and regard these indexes as the criterion for selecting the benefited objects. Sometimes, the way of "One Discussion for One Case" is even adopted to select the support object. These measures mostly focus on attracting foreign projects, without considering the interests of local enterprises and fairness of the whole market. For example, exhibition incentive policies introduced by the capital city of a province stipulate an incentive can be enjoyed if exhibitions with over 500 standard booths are introduced and the registration places of the hosts and organizers are not in that city. Is it fair for the exhibition enterprises in the city? Actually, there are many examples like this.

Fourth, there are blind zones in business environment and intellectual properties of exhibitors and hosts are not effectively protected. Comparing with other industries, the exhibition industry has a long industry chain and needs the support of public service institutions such as customs, industry and commerce department, public security, firefighting and traffic as well as a relaxed business environment. For the purpose of attracting more exhibitions, many cities take measures to optimize their business environment. But there are disparities in the actual operation of cities. In particular, public security and firefighting are in principle two organizations providing the development of the exhibition industry with safeguard, but they are compared to "a lion in the way" by insiders of the exhibition industry.

There are two categories of distinct problems on intellectual property. One is concerning the intellectual property protection of exhibitors, and another is concerning the intellectual property protection of exhibitions. Currently, it can be seen that exhibitors' products, technologies, trademarks and patents are not effectively protected, there are quantities of complaints concerning the intellectual property of exhibitors. Exhibitions, renowned exhibitions in particular, are usually the objects to be counterfeited, there are exhibitions with analogous names, marks, themes and contents so that exhibitors and buyers cannot distinguish them. Therefore, the intellectual property must be respected and the legitimate rights and interests of exhibitors and hosts must be protected.

Fifth, the international development of the exhibition industry is not balanced and the sustainable development ability of the exhibition industry needs to be improved. Internationalization is an indispensable way to realize great development of the exhibition industry in China. Internationalization is a two-way approach. It shall not only introduce international exhibition enterprises to hold exhibitions in China, but also encourage Chinese exhibition enterprises to make foreign investments and hold exhibitions abroad. It shall not only encourage Chinese enterprises to participate in foreign exhibitions, but also attract foreign enterprises to participate in exhibitions held in China. However, it can be seen from the international development process of China's exhibition industry that unequal internationalization is obvious. In general, international exhibition enterprises in China enjoy much better business performance than the Chinese exhibition enterprises holding exhibitions abroad. There are more Chinese enterprises participating in exhibitions abroad than foreign enterprises participating in exhibitions in China.

From the perspective of environmental protection, the exhibition industry is a high-consumption industry. For each exhibition, most of exhibitors require magnificently personalized booths and the host decorates the indoor and outdoor public area of the exhibition pavilion. Each exhibition only lasts for 5-7 days. It means that the whole industry is busy building and dismantling every day and a huge amount of wastes are generated every day. If the exhibition appliances are not environment friendly and the disassembled booths are not disposed properly, the environment will be greatly damaged.

(II) Cause analysis of problems of China's exhibition industry

There are various problems concerning the exhibition industry in China and there are mainly six causes as below:

First, unclear commodity attributes of exhibition. Is exhibition a commercial product or a public product? In fact, it lacks a clear definition on such question. If exhibition is defined as a commodity, the decisive role of market in resource allocation shall be given full play and the government shall not get involved excessively. If exhibition is defined as a public product and is in line with the public interest, but market is unable to provide such exhibitions, the government shall actively host them. If exhibition is defined as a public product possessing definite market attribute, and it cannot be organized by market forces alone, it is a matter-of-course for the government to help. However, the development practices of the exhibition industry show that many exhibitions are held by market alone, many exhibitions are hosted by the government and many are supported by a great deal of government funds. Does exhibition have commodity attributes? Obviously, everyone's answer to this question is not clear.

Second, the government's excessive participation in the exhibition industry breeds formalism. For most exhibitions that are not funded by the government, the organizers must strictly control costs in accordance with market rules. The success of an exhibition mainly lies in customer evaluations, and whether various meaningless formalist links can naturally be controlled. However, for most government-hosted, government-supported or government-funded exhibitions, the organizers must complete the various "assessment indicators" in accordance with the government's requirements like the number of intention contracts signed, the number of foreign dignitaries invited, etc. Some of these indicators are reasonable while others are not, but regardless of their reasonability, since they are supported by the government, the organizers must operate in accordance with the indicators set by the government. As such, various types of formalism start to persist.

Third, some urban exhibition policies are pursuing quick success. Support policies of the MICE industry issued by various places deviate from policy neutrality, which leads to unfair competition. On the one hand, it is due to the fact that some policy makers are not equipped with enough theories and lack of systematic research on the impact of industrial policies. On the other hand, they are pursuing the so-called "immediate results" of political achievements. They hope to see results immediately after introduction of a policy.

Fourth, some exhibition property rights are unclear due to historical reasons. At present, the property rights of most exhibitions in China are clear, especially for the exhibition projects operated by foreign-funded enterprises and private enterprises. Their problems concerning property rights have been well addressed. However, problems concerning property rights of many government-hosted projects, traditional projects held by national industry associations, etc. have still not been well solved due to the complexity of the hosts and organizers.

Fifth, inconsistent assessment indicators between departments have damaged the business environment. Problems such as inadequate public services and intellectual property infringement during exhibition are typical business environment problems. There are many problems with public services due to irresponsibility of individual staff members or in that different departments have different assessment indicators, and these assessment methods conflict with the requirements for improving the macro business environment. The issue of intellectual property rights is concerned with both national awareness and laws, which needs to be addressed step by step.

Sixth, there is lack of mandatory green environmental protection standards for the exhibition industry. In recent years, more and more people have become aware of the harm brought by the exhibition industry to environment, and many associations and companies are actively implementing the concept of green environmental protection. For example, many exhibit manufacturers have begun promoting green materials and producing reusable exhibits. Unfortunately, due to the relatively high costs of green exhibits and lack of mandatory promotion standards in the industry, many companies still use the non-environmental materials to build their exhibition stands.

(III) Countermeasures to promote high-quality development of the Chinese exhibition industry

From the above analysis, it can be seen that although China's exhibition industry has made remarkable progress in the past 20 years, the brand influence of the exhibition is not strong and the challenges faced by exhibition companies to enter the world market are still huge. For issues such as weakness, China is still a "big but not strong" country in the exhibition field. The following five aspects are essential to promote the high-quality development of the Chinese exhibition industry:

First, give full play to the decisive role of market in resource allocation and clarify the property rights factors promoting the flow of exhibition elements. If an exhibition is defined as a commodity, then the development of some exhibition industry must meet the laws of the market economy. How does the exhibition industry reflect the laws of the market economy? According to the decision made by the Fourth Plenary Session of the 19th CPC Central Committee, it is necessary to give full play to the decisive role of market in resource allocation. Market must play a decisive role not only in the product and service market of exhibition, but also in the allocation of factor market in the exhibition industry. To play the decisive role of market, the following three steps must be taken. First, respect the free choice of market players. Second, ensure a fair and just competition environment. Third, strengthen the protection of market players' property rights. Any intervention in the choice of market entities, the destruction of the market competition environment and the infringement of the rights and interests of market entities are contrary to the concept of the market's decisive role in resource allocation.

The 19th National Congress of the Communist Party of China clearly stated that the reform of economic system must focus on improving the property rights system and the market-oriented allocation of factors to achieve effective incentives for property rights and free flow of factors. The well-balanced development of China's exhibition industry requires not only good products and services, but also the promotion of the flow of exhibition elements, especially the use of capital market to empower high-quality development of the exhibition industry. For this reason, it is necessary to promote the right confirmation of the exhibition projects as soon as possible, especially the right confirmation of the quality projects that have been jointly hosted by multiple institutions and with changes of hosts and organizers. The channel will be strengthened to achieve rapid and good development.

Second, take practical measures to reduce any type of formalism and respect the free choice right of exhibitors and buyers. From the economic perspective, formalism is a typical deviation from the principles of market economy. Falsely reporting turnover in exhibition, eager to invite high-level government officials to attend, and organizing fake buyers are all "formalism" because they have violated market laws. Although a large amount resources have been invested, there are no real effects as many reported achievements are false. If the Chinese exhibition industry cannot get rid of formalism, it will not be able to minimize costs in accordance with market laws, and it will not be able to fundamentally promote high-quality development.

What are the most fundamental characteristics of market economy? The most important is to respect the free choice of market players. When making decisions, market entities should not be affected by any third party, both tangible and intangible. In the exhibition industry, both exhibitors and buyers are rational market players. And they have their own rational judgments on whether an exhibition is running well or not. If they regard the value obtained from exhibition is higher than the cost paid, they will choose to participate and visit, otherwise they will refuse. Any practice that violates the wishes of exhibitors and visitors, compels or disguise companies and other institutions to participate in exhibition is essentially "buying and selling by force" and violates the basic principles of market economy.

Third, ensure policy neutrality to create a level playing field. Fair competition is the basic requirement of market economy. The Fourth Plenary Session of the 19th CPC Central Committee clearly stated that it is necessary to build a high-standard market system and improve the fair competition system. However, it can be seen from the current development practices of China's MICE industry that the MICE industry policies in some cities fail to reflect competition neutrality. Although these different support policies have a certain stimulating effect in increasing the total market, they could disrupt the normal market competition order and fail to significantly improve the city's exhibition environment. Therefore, when formulating policies for the development of the MICE industry, local governments must firstly take into consideration the management of fair competition and ensure that the policies are neutral. Undermining fair competition is essentially undermining the decisive role of market in resource allocation and deviating from the state policy.

Fourth, optimize the business environment and protect the rights of exhibitors and organizers. As a very special industry, exhibition industry has its holding usually concerned with public services such as customs, fire protection, security and transportation. If problem occurs in any aspect, exhibition will be greatly affected. Although the government has recognized the importance of optimizing the business environment, blind spots of various business environments that restrict the development of the exhibition industry at all levels still exist. Therefore, governments need to pay more attention to the optimization of business environment, identify the difficulties encountered by exhibition organizers in the process of organizing exhibition and formulate practical measures to solve problems for organizers.

Intellectual property is an important part of the entire property right system, and strengthening intellectual property protection is the most important part of improving the property right protection system. In recent years, China has attached great importance to the protection of intellectual property rights, constantly improved its enforcement, made more efforts in terms of enforcement and increased the cost of violations. As an industry where intellectual property infringement is very common, the exhibition industry must focus on the protection of intellectual property rights, not only to ensure that the legitimate rights and interests of exhibitors are protected, but also to protect the intellectual property rights of organizers. To this end, it is necessary for governments, organizers and exhibitors to work together to protect the products, technologies and intangible assets of exhibitors and organizers, and to resolutely crack down on intellectual property rights violations in exhibition.

Fifth, promote balanced international and domestic development of the Chinese exhibition industry and further strengthen the green environmental protection standards for the exhibition industry. China has become the second largest economy in the world. The internationalization of China's exhibition industry should be a two-way approach. It is necessary to attract internationally advanced convention and exhibition companies to organize exhibitions in China through opening the market, and at the same time fundamentally enhance the international competition of local convention and exhibition companies to update the local convention and exhibition companies and explore the international market. The current unequal internationalization is an important manifestation of China's large but not strong exhibition industry. To achieve high-quality development, China's exhibition industry must fundamentally reverse this situation. As such, we must raise the awareness of local convention and exhibition companies' concerns at first, fully recognize the possible negative impact of unequal internationalization of the exhibition industry on society and economy, and take practical measures to develop local exhibition enterprises to be bigger and stronger.

Sustainable development is a global topic, and complying with the green standards is an important part of sustainable development. In recent years, green environmental protection standards for China's exhibition industry have been set and some results have been achieved, but there are still many problems in actual promotion. As such, we should further strengthen the green environmental protection standards at first and make them more scientific and feasible. Moreover, priority can be given to some regions and venues to explore the mandatory implementation measures.

In short, although China's exhibition industry has made great progress, there are still a number of existing problems such as the industry is large but not strong with poor international competitiveness and low brand influence. Despite the fact that these problems are caused by multiple reasons, the development of China's exhibition industry has largely deviated from the basic common sense of economics at the macro level, which has led to lack of cooperation between governments and enterprises and lack of fair competition in the growth of exhibition companies. Therefore, the most fundamental point for the high-quality development of the future exhibition industry is to return to common sense in economics. Among them, the most important is to confirm the market attributes of exhibition. It is necessary to structure the macro environment for the development of the exhibition industry in accordance with the market economy laws and give full play to the decisive role of market in resource allocation.

Chapter II Overview of China's Domestic Exhibition Development in 2019

I. Data Description

(I) Data Sources

Data of this chapter were collected by CCPIT's member units or derived from China's public media information (online and paper media). In order for a more accurate and comprehensive reflection of the scale of exhibitions across China, multiple exhibitions of similar industries held by the same organizer, at the same time and in the same place were either counted separately if the organizer differentiated them explicitly or counted in a combined manner if not, when this report made statistics of the quantity of exhibitions. Note that data before 2019 involved in this chapter were all derived from those years' Annual Report on China's Exhibition Economy.

According to incomplete statistics, information of 4,456 exhibitions was gathered during 2019, with an increase of 144 compared to the year 2018. Among the total, 3,894 exhibitions' area information was collected, with a total area of 135.6 million m^2. On this basis, China's exhibition area is estimated as 155.17 million m^2. ① Among the exhibitions whose area information has been collected, 3,547 or 91% are economic and trade exhibitions, with a total exhibition area of 130.48 million m^2; and 347 or 9% are non-economic and trade exhibitions like job fairs, trade fairs, Spring Festival goods fairs, calligraphy, painting and art exhibitions and celebrations, with a total exhibition area of 5.11 million m^2.

(II) Involved Regions

As an important part of regional exhibition economy, economic and trade exhibitions make great contributions to regional economy and also reflect more accurately the development of a region's exhibition market. Therefore, statistical analysis will be conducted only on the 3,547 economic and trade exhibitions of which the area information has been collected in the following sections.

In this report, information of economic and trade exhibitions involves 132 cities of 31 provinces, autonomous regions and municipalities directly under the central government (exc. Hong Kong and Macau Special Administrative Regions and Taiwan Province), as shown in Tables 2.1 and 2.2, and this report only analyzes the economic and trade exhibitions held in the said cities. Note that "nationwide" referred hereinafter only represents the said 132 cities of 31 provinces, autonomous regions and municipalities directly under the central government (exc. Hong Kong and Macau Special Administrative Regions, Taiwan Province) within the territory of China. It is hereby certified.

① Total exhibition area of China ≈ Known total exhibition area (135.60 million m^2)/ known quantity of exhibitions (3894)* collected quantity of exhibitions (4456).

II. Geographical Distribution

In 2019, a total of 3,547 trade and economic exhibitions were held in China, with a YoY decrease of 6.5%; the total exhibition area was 130,480,000 m^2, with a YoY increase of 0.8%. The development of China's exhibition economy has been changing from high-speed growth to high-quality development. Instead of simply pursuing quantity growth, China started to focus more on quality and scale economies effect.

(I) Regional Distribution

In 2019, the economic and trade exhibitions held across China varied greatly in terms of quantity and area of exhibitions, in which East China took a leading position, while Northwest China achieved a relatively high increase.

1. With unevenly distributed exhibitions, East China still took the lead. In 2019, exhibitions were distributed unevenly by region within China. East China was far ahead, followed successively by North China, South China, Central China, Southwest China, Northeast China and Northwest China. As shown in Figure 2.1, 1,409 or 37.1% of China's economic and trade exhibitions were held in East China; 570 or 15.0% in North China, 544 or 14.3% in South China; 327 or 8.6% in Central China, and 258 or 6.8% in southwest China; Northeast China and Northwest China lagged behind by holding 257 and 182 respectively, taking up 6.8% and 3.0% respectively.

The geographical distribution of exhibitions by proportion of 2019 was basically the same as that of 2018. Slight increases were witnessed in North China and Southwest China, and small decreases were witnessed in East China, South China, Central China and Northeast China, with that in Northwest China being unchanged. In addition, by proportion of the quantity of exhibitions held, North China ranked second, ascending one place over the year 2018.

2. Quantity of exhibitions held by each region fluctuated somewhat, and Northwest China had the fastest YoY growth. In 2019, a total of 3,547 trade and economic exhibitions were held in China, with a YoY decrease of 246 or 6.5% compared to 2018; the number of exhibitions in each region fluctuated to a certain extent. Among them, Northwest China, North China and Southwest China achieved growth, with the largest increase in Northwest China, followed by North China and Southwest China, while Northeast China, East China, South China, and Central China all experienced varying degrees of decline. As shown in Figure 2.2, compared with 2018, exhibitions held in Northwest China increased by 40 or a YoY increase of 28.2%; that of North China increased by 80 or a YoY increase of 16.3%; that of Southwest China increased by 24 or a YoY increase of 10.3%. The number of exhibitions held in Northeast China, East China, South China and Central China all decreased compared with 2018. Among them, Northeast China experienced the largest decline, with a decrease of 70 or 21.4% YoY compared with 2018; followed by East China, with a decrease of 297or 17.4% YoY from 2018; and then South China and Central China, with a decrease of 20 and 3 or 3.5% and 0.9% YoY compared with 2018 respectively.

3. Regions varied considerably in exhibition area, and East China still ranked top. In 2019, regions within China varied considerably in terms of exhibition area, among which East China ranked top, followed successively by South China, North China, Southwest China, Central China, Northeast China and Northwest China. The ranking order was consistent with that in 2018. As shown in Figure 2.3, East China recorded 54.13 million m^2 in exhibition area, taking up 41.8% of the total area of economic and trade exhibitions held nationwide; exhibition area in South China covered 25.20 million m^2, taking up 19.5%; exhibition area in North China covered 17.5 m^2, taking up 13.5%; exhibition area in Southwest China covered 10.08 million m^2, taking up 7.8%; and that in Central China covered 9.92 million m^2, taking up 7.7%. Northeast China and Northwest China registered the smallest area of 7.96 million m^2 and 5.68 million m^2 that accounted for 6.1% and 4.4% respectively.

4. Most regions saw an expansion in area of exhibitions, and Northwest China had the swiftest YoY growth. In 2019, the total area of China's economic and trade exhibitions was 130.48 million m^2, with an increase of 990,000 m^2 or 0.8% YoY compared with 2018, and the exhibition area in most regions continued to grow. Among them, the exhibition area in Northwest China enjoyed the fastest YoY, followed by Central China, Southwest China, North China and East China, while the exhibition area in South China and Northeast China decreased YoY. As shown in Figure 2.4, compared with 2018, in terms of area of exhibitions, Northwest China witnessed an increase of 970,000 m^2 or 20.6 % YoY; Central China an increase of 1.22 million m^2 or 14% YoY; Southwest China an increase of 750,000 m^2 or 8.0% YoY; North China an increase of 650,000 m^2 or 3.9% YoY; East China an increase of 1.01 million m^2 or 1.9% YoY; The total exhibition area in South China and Northeast China both declined by 3.57 million m^2 and 50,000 m^2, respectively down by 12.4% and 0.6% YoY.

(II) Provincial Distribution

In 2019, the exhibition industry in China's provinces (autonomous regions / municipalities directly under the central government) attached more importance to high-quality development. The number and area of exhibitions held in Shanghai and Guangdong remained the top two, with exhibition areas in both regions exceeding 20 million m^2.

1. By quantity of exhibitions, Shanghai, Guangdong and Shandong still ranked top three and Zhejiang had the faster YoY growth. In 2019, China's top three provinces (autonomous regions/ municipalities directly under the central government) by quantity of exhibitions were Shanghai, Guangdong and Shandong in succession. The exhibitions held by the said three provinces have decreased to varying degrees. Among them, Shanghai held a total of 545 exhibitions, accounting for 14.4% of the national total, with a YoY decrease of 26.5%; Guangdong Province held a total of 479 exhibitions, accounting for 12.6% of the national total, with a 5.1% YoY decrease; Shandong Province held a total of exhibitions 306, accounting for 8.1% of the national total, with a YoY decrease of 15.0%. The top three provinces (autonomous regions/municipalities) hosted a total of 1,330 exhibitions, with a YoY decrease of 17.2%, as shown in Figures 2.5 and 2.6.

According to statistics, there were 9 provinces (autonomous regions/municipalities directly under the central government) that held more than 100 exhibitions, including Shanghai, Guangdong, Shandong, Beijing, Zhejiang, Henan, Jiangsu, Liaoning and Hebei, which held a total of 2,504 exhibitions, accounting for 70.6% of the national total; there were 10 provinces (municipalities /autonomous regions directly under the central government) that each held 50-100 exhibitions, 711 exhibitions in total, accounting for 20.0% of the national total, as shown in Table 2.3.

2. By area of exhibitions, Shanghai, Guangdong and Beijing still ranked top three and Zhejiang had faster YoY growth. In 2019, China's top three provinces (autonomous regions/municipalities directly under the central government) by area of exhibitions include Shanghai, Guangdong and Shandong in succession. Among them, Shanghai ranked first, and Beijing registered the most significant YoY growth by exhibition area. In specific, Shanghai had an exhibition area of 26.118 million m^2, taking up 20.2% of the national total, with a decrease of 2.2% YoY; Guangzhou registered an exhibition area of 23.329 million m^2, taking up 18.0% of the national total, with a decrease of 14.0% YoY; Beijing's exhibition area came in at 10.018 million m^2, taking up 7.7% of the national total, with an increase of 18.0% YoY. The top three provinces (autonomous regions/municipalities directly under the central government) by area of exhibitions registered a total exhibition area of 59.464 million m^2, a decrease of 6.9% YoY, as shown in Figure 2.7.

There were two provinces (autonomous regions/municipalities directly under the central government) with an exhibition area exceeding 20 million m^2—Guangdong and Shanghai. In addition, the exhibition area in Beijing has exceeded 10 million m^2. Except the above three provinces (autonomous regions/municipalities directly under the central government), no others have registered an exhibition area above 10 million m^2, and considerable difference was witnessed in terms of exhibition area. In specific, there were 2 provinces (municipalities directly under the central government) with an exhibition area between 5 million and 10 million m^2, and they covered a total exhibition area of 17.693million m^2, taking up 13.6% of national total; there were 12 provinces (municipalities directly under the central government) with an exhibition area between 2 million and 5 million m^2, and they registered a total exhibition area of 40.728 million m^2, taking up 31.2%; there were 5 provinces with an exhibition area between 1 million and 2 million m^2, and they registered a total exhibition area of 7.403 million m^2, taking up 5.7%, as shown in Table 2.4.

Besides, comparison on area of exhibitions from 2015 to 2019 suggested that 2019 witnessed a decrease in nearly half of the provinces (municipalities/autonomous regions) in China, in particular in the top 1 Guangdong. The provinces (autonomous regions/municipalities directly under the central government) ranked from the sixth to tenth places showed more consistent trends. Despite small fluctuations, the overall trend was upward, as shown in Figure 2.8.

(III) Distribution of Exhibitions in Cities

In 2019, major cities have successively introduced measures to promote the high-quality development of local exhibition industry, accelerate the improvement of exhibition industry quality, and continuously increase the economic benefits of exhibitions. Shanghai, Beijing and Guangzhou remained the major exhibition cities of China and ranked among top three by quantity and area of exhibitions, with outstanding advantages seen in Shanghai.

1. Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou remained the top three by exhibition quantity, and Shanghai took up the largest proportion. In 2019, the top three cities by exhibition quantity remained the same as last year, and they were Shanghai, Beijing and Guangzhou. Among the top five cities by exhibition quantity, Qingdao surpassed Zhengzhou, rising its rank from fifth to fourth, and Zhengzhou fell from the fourth to the fifth. Among them, Shanghai held a total of 545 exhibitions, accounting for 15.4% of the national total, with a YoY decrease of 26.5%; Beijing held a total of 292 exhibitions, accounting for 8.2% of the national total, with a YoY increase of 5.4%; Guangzhou held a total of 260 exhibitions, accounting for 7.3% of the national total, with a YoY decrease of 6.1%; Qingdao and Zhengzhou held 176 and 148 exhibitions respectively, accounting for 5.0% and 4.2% of the national total, with an increased YoY of 6.7% and 15.4% respectively. Shanghai, Beijing and Guangzhou totally held 1097 exhibitions, making up 30.9% of exhibitions held nationwide. Guangzhou and Shenzhen, as major cities in the Pearl River Delta region, enjoyed advantageous location in holding exhibitions and held 384 exhibitions in total, accounting for 80.2% in Guangdong Province.

Note: "1-9, 0-19, 20-29, 30-39 and 40-49" in the figure represent quantities of exhibitions held in the corresponding cities. Data are combined in view of the large-scale analysis of exhibition cities.

According to statistics, 23 Chinese cities each held more than 50 exhibitions (see table 2.5), 2 more compared with that in 2018. Among them, there were four new cities: Shijiazhuang (68 exhibitions), Tianjin (58 exhibitions), Urumqi (51 exhibitions) and Kunming (50 exhibitions). Wuxi and Xiamen held 55 and 53 exhibitions respectively in 2018, but they both held less than 50 in 2019. The said 23 cities totally held 2669 exhibitions, taking up 75.2% of exhibitions held nationwide, down by 1.4 percentage points over 2018. Generally speaking, the development of exhibition cities has slowed down, but the number of active cities has increased.

2. Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou remained the top three by area of exhibitions, and Shanghai took up the largest proportion. In 2019, the ranking of Chinese cities by area of exhibitions was basically the same with that by exhibition quantity. That is to say, cities with large quantity of exhibitions also registered an expanded area of exhibitions. But detailed ranking varied slightly under the influence of each city's economic development and other factors. Shanghai, Guangzhou, Beijing and Shenzhen ranked top four by area of exhibitions, which was consistent with the trend in 2018; among the top five cities by area of exhibitions, Qingdao ranked fourth, ascending two places compared with the previous year, while Chengdu ranked seventh, descending two places compared with the previous year. In specific, Shanghai registered an exhibition area of 26.118 million m^2, taking up 20.0% of area of exhibitions held nationwide, with a decrease of 2.2% YoY; Guangzhou registered an exhibition area of 15.016 million m^2, an increase of 13.1% YoY; Beijing's exhibition area came in at 10.018 million m^2, increasing 18.0% YoY, as shown in Figure 2.10.

The statistics indicate that exhibitions held in Shanghai covered an average area ② of 48,000 m^2, and the figure was 58,000 m^2 for Guangzhou and 34,000 m^2 for Beijing, all of which are higher than the previous year. Shanghai and Guangzhou mainly held large-scale exhibitions, while Beijing mainly held medium-scale exhibitions due to limited space of venues.

In addition, in 2019, a total of 17 cities across China registered a total exhibition area of more than 2 million m^2, which was one fewer than in 2018. Among them, the exhibition area of Langfang, Zhongshan, Dongguan and Linyi fell below 2 million m^2, while that of Hangzhou, Tianjin and Changsha exceeded 2 million m^2; A total of 11 cities registered an exhibition area ranging from 1 million to 2 million m^2, 2 fewer than in 2018. Cities with more than 1 million m^2 of exhibition area registered an aggregated area of 113.536 million m^2, taking up 87.0% of the exhibition area nationwide, down by 0.9 percentage point over that of last year. See Table 2.6.

III. Scale Distribution

Scale is one of the major standards for judging an exhibition's value and status, and specific evaluation indicators include area of exhibitions, quantity of exhibitions, number of exhibitors and quantity of visitors. In this report, nationwide exhibition scale of 2019 was estimated by area of exhibitions, which was classified

② Average area = total exhibition area/total number of exhibitions

as below 10,000 m^2, 10,000- 30,000 m^2, 30,000-50,000 m^2, 50,000-100,000 m^2 and above 100,000 m^2. ③

(I) Nearly half of the exhibitions covered 10,000-30,000 m^2, and the number of exhibitions covering above 30,000 m^2 increased

Among all the exhibitions held in China in 2019, exhibitions covering 10,000-30,000 m2 took up the largest proportion, and the proportion of exhibitions covering below 10,000 m^2 decreased compared with 2018 and the proportion of medium and large-scale exhibitions covering over 30,000 m^2 increased. In specific, exhibitions covering below 10,000 m^2, totaling 303, accounted for 8.5% of all exhibitions of different scales, down by 18.5 percentage points compared with 2018; exhibitions covering 10,000-30,000 m^2, totaling 1,677, accounted for 47.3%, up by 1.5 percentage points over 2018; exhibitions covering 30,000- 50,000 m^2, totaling 757, accounted for 21.3%, up by 7.5 percentage points over 2018; exhibitions covering 50,000-100,000 m^2, totaling 553, accounted for 15.6%, up by 7.2 percentage points over 2018; and exhibitions covering above 100,000 m^2, totaling 257, accounted for 7.2%, up by 2.2 percentage points over 2018. See Figure 2.11 and 2.12.

③ Below 10,000 m^2 means "exhibition area ≤ 10,000 m2"; 10,000-30,000 m^2 means "10,000 m^2 <exhibition area ≤ 30,000 m2"; 30,000-50,000 m^2 means "30,000 m2 <exhibition area ≤ 50,000 m^2"; 50,000-100,000 m2 means "50,000 m^2 <exhibition area ≤ 100,000 m^2"; above 100,000 m^2 means "exhibition area>100,000 m^2".

(II) Exhibitions covering above 50,000 m^2 accounted for more than half, and large-scale and centralized exhibitions became a trend.

Among all exhibitions of different scales held in China in 2019, exhibitions covering above 100,000 m^2 took up the highest proportion, followed by those covering 50,000-100,000 m^2; exhibitions covering above 50,000 m^2 accounted for 57.6%, which indicates that the exhibition industry is transforming to the development of large-scale and centralized exhibitions. In specific, exhibitions below 10,000 m^2 covered 1.998 million m^2, taking up the lowest proportion of 1.5%; 10,000-30,000 m^2 exhibitions totally covered 27.187 million m^2, taking up 20.8%; 30,000-50,000 m^2 exhibitions totally covered 26.231 million m^2, taking up 20.1%; 50,000-100,000 m^2 exhibitions totally covered 34.809 million m^2, taking up 26.7%; and those above 100,000 m^2 totally covered 40.26 million m^2, taking up 30.9%. See Figure 2.13 and 2.14.

(III) The exhibition industry kept expanding as a whole, with growth witnessed in both quantity and area of large-scale exhibitions covering 30000-100000 m^2

In 2019, exhibitions covering below 10,000 m^2 and those covering above 30,000 m^2 both increased in quantity; exhibitions covering 30,000-100,000 m^2 registered rapid growth in area. The quantity and area of exhibitions covering 50,000-100,000 m^2 registered the largest YoY growth, while the quantity and area of exhibitions covering below 10,000 m^2 registered the largest YoY decline.

From the variations in exhibition quantity in 2019 and 2018, it can be seen that in 2019, exhibitions below 10,000 m^2 decreased by 723 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY decline of 70.5%; 10,000-30,000 m^2 exhibitions fell by 59 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY decline of 3.4%; 30,000-50,000 m^2 exhibitions increased by 235 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY increase of 45%; 50,000-100,000 m^2 exhibitions increased by 234 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY increase of 73.4%; and those above 100,000 m^2 increased by 67 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY growth of 35.3%, as shown in Figure 2.15.

From the variation in area of exhibitions in 2019 and 2018, it can be seen that in 2019, exhibitions below 10,000 m^2 decreased by 3.721 million m^2 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY decline of 65.1%; 10,000-30,000 m^2 exhibitions fell by 8.466 million m^2 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY decline of 23.7%; 30,000-50,000 m^2 exhibitions increased by 4.479 million m^2 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY growth of 20.6%; 50,000-100,000 m^2 exhibitions increased by 11.564 million m^2 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY growth of 49.7%; and those above 100,000 m^2 decreased by 2.863 million m2 over 2018, equivalent to a YoY decline of 6.6%. See Figure 2.16.

IV. Distribution of Exhibitions by Industries

By industry, exhibitions can be classified into heavy industry, light industry, agricultural, service and special exhibitions. In 2019, the quantity and scale of exhibitions varied significantly from one industry to another. The ranking of industries by exhibition quantity was light industry > heavy industry > service industry> agricultural industry > specialized exhibition. Compared with the exhibition industry structure in 2018, the number of heavy industry exhibitions surpassed that of service industry and jumped to the second place.

(I) Light industry exhibitions ranked top in both quantity and area among all industries

Among the 3547 economic and trade exhibitions, light industry exhibitions ranked top in both quantity and area, and heavy industry exhibitions ranked second, followed by service exhibitions in the third place. In specific, among these economic and trade exhibitions with known industry classification, light industry exhibitions added up to 1441, taking up 38.0%, and they covered 54.39 million m^2, taking up 42.0%. And there were 957 heavy industry exhibitions, taking up 25.2%, with an exhibition area of 39.02 million m^2, taking up 30.1%. In specific, among these economic and trade exhibitions with known industry classification, service industry exhibitions added up to 841, taking up 22.2%, and they covered 23.91 million m^2, taking up 18.5%. In addition, agricultural exhibitions and special exhibitions amounted to 191 and 117 respectively, taking up 5.0% and 3.1%; the former covered 7 million m^2 and the latter covered 6.16 million m^2, taking up 5.4% and 4.8% respectively.

In Figure 2.17, the bubble positions reflect the exhibition quantities of each industry and their sizes represent the area of exhibitions. Also, specialized exhibitions and agricultural exhibitions are similar in area, but the latter is ahead in quantity.

(II) The exhibition area of heavy industry grew rapidly, while the number and area of exhibitions of other industries declined to different degrees

In 2019, the quantity of exhibitions in various industries has decreased to varying degrees, among which the quantity of specialized exhibitions registered the largest YoY decline, followed by service and agricultural exhibitions; the exhibition area of heavy industry has achieved rapid growth, and the exhibition areas of other industries decreased compared with 2018. In specific, compared with 2018, the light industry saw a decrease of 72 or 4.8% YoY in exhibition quantity and a decrease of about 2.2 million m^2 or 3.9% YoY in exhibition area; and the service exhibition industry saw a decrease of 121 or 12.6% YoY in quantity and a decrease of about 1.21 million m^2 or 4.8% YoY in area. The agricultural industry saw a decrease of 4 or 0.4% YoY in quantity and an increase of about 5.02 million m^2 or 14.8 % YoY in area. The agricultural industry saw a decrease of 20 or 9.5% YoY in quantity and an increase of about 90,000 m^2 or 1.3% YoY in area; and the specialized exhibition industry saw an increase of 29 or 19.9% YoY in quantity and a decrease of about 710,000 m^2 or 10.3% YoY in area. See Figure 2.18.

(III) In the light industry, food, beverage, tobacco and alcohol exhibitions ranked top in both quantity and area, and consumer goods exhibitions had the largest YoY growth.

By quantity, food, beverage, tobacco and alcohol exhibitions were far ahead of other sub-industry exhibitions of light industry in 2019, followed successively by furniture, woodworking and machinery exhibitions, building materials exhibitions, consumer goods exhibitions and glasses, jewelries and horologe exhibitions. Compared with 2018, consumer goods exhibitions ranked among the top five from the original top ten, while the packaging, paper and printing exhibitions fell to the ninth place. Among the exhibitions of the top ten sub-industries of light industry, consumer goods exhibitions achieved a relatively rapid growth compared with 2018, but most other categories showed a decline trend, with packaging paper and printing exhibitions and construction materials exhibitions showing a greater YoY growth. Among them, food, beverage, tobacco and alcohol exhibitions amounted to 327, falling 4 or 1.2% YoY, yet still ranking first in light industry compared with 2018; furniture, woodworking and machinery exhibitions added up to 155, with an increase of 1 or 0.6% YoY compared with 2018; building materials exhibitions amounted to 109, with an decrease of 14 or 17.4% YoY compared with 2018; In addition, consumer goods exhibitions were included into sub-industries of the top ten sub-industries of light industry, and ranked fourth with 91 exhibitions, replacing the packaging paper printing exhibitions in 2018; 70 exhibitions of glasses, jewelry, watches and clocks were held, with an increase of 11 or 13.6% YoY compared with 2018; a total of 58 packaging paper & printing exhibitions were held, with a decrease of 8 or 31.0% compared with 2018, dropping from the fourth place to the ninth place. Gifts and household goods exhibitions fell out of the top ten segments of light industry. See Table 2.7.

By area, food, beverage, tobacco and alcohol exhibitions covered the greatest area among all light industry exhibitions held in 2019, followed successively by furniture, woodworking and machinery exhibitions, building materials exhibitions, textile industry exhibitions and beauty exhibitions. Among the exhibitions of the top ten sub- industries of light industry, consumer goods exhibitions, advertising photography equipment exhibitions and building materials exhibitions achieved relatively rapid growth in 2018. In specific, compared with 2018, food, beverage, tobacco and alcohol exhibitions covered 10.379 million m^2, with a decrease of 98,000 m^2 or 0.9% YoY; furniture, woodworking and machinery exhibitions covered 8.37 million m^2, with a decrease of 2.046 million m^2 or 19.6% YoY; and building materials exhibitions covered 5.917million m^2, with an increase of 1.288 million m^2 or 27.8% YoY; In addition, consumer goods exhibitions and advertising photography equipment exhibitions represented two newly included exhibitions into the top ten sub-industries of light industry, replacing exhibitions of home appliances lighting and musical instruments stage equipment of 2018 and ranking sixth and seventh with the exhibition area of 2.495 million m^2 and 2.453 million m^2 respectively. See Table 2.8.

Chapter III Overview of China's Overseas Exhibition Development in 2019

The year 2019 marks the 70th anniversary of the founding of the People's Republic of China, and 70 years have passed since Chinese exhibitions made their overseas presence. Serving as an important channel for China's foreign economic and trade enterprises to rapidly expand markets and participate in international competition, overseas economic and trade exhibitions play a unique role in implementing China's diplomatic and economic strategies and building a new pattern of all-round opening-up. Based on data in 2019 and 2018 from the approval management system of the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade (CCPIT) regarding the overseas exhibition projects implemented by various exhibition organizers ended by November 13, 2019 and November 13, 2018, respectively, this chapter made a statistical analysis on conditions of overseas exhibitions, such as scale, geographical distribution, industrial distribution and performance of exhibition organizers, and summarized the development of China's overseas exhibition industry in 2019, thereby providing first-hand information resources for the exhibition industry and rendering reference basis for relevant government departments to improve overseas exhibition management and service, position key exhibitions scientifically, make exhibition policies and development plans, and strengthen the macro-management.

Data showed that the development of China's overseas exhibition (exposition) industry (hereinafter referred to as overseas exhibition industry) in 2019 presented the following characteristics.

I. Scale and Growth Rate

The year 2019 witnessed prominent deep-seated problems in global economic development, and trade protectionism and unilateralism rose. Nonetheless, China's economy is still in an important period of strategic opportunities, and it is featured with the fundamentals of sound and stable economic development, the factors of production supporting high-quality development and the overall momentum of long-term stability and improvement that all remain unchanged. Against such background, China's overseas exhibitions have maintained a growth momentum in overall scale, with significant structural adjustment results, increased number of exhibitors, steadily expanded exhibition area, and gradually increased number of participating exhibitors. The overseas exhibitions serve as a platform that contributes to deepening foreign economic and trade cooperation, boosting the international competitiveness and market share of China's commodities, and accelerating the pace of "going global" for Chinese enterprises.

As shown in Figure 3.1, under the support and guidance of governments at all levels, according to the data ended by November 13, 2019, a total of 91 exhibition organizers all over the country have organized 1,766 exhibitions (expositions) in 73 countries, up by 94 exhibitions compared with 2018 or a year-on-year increase of 5.6%; the exhibition area reached 921,300 m², up by 91,100 m^2 compared with 2018 or a year-on-year increase of 11.0%; the number of exhibitors totaled 610,000, with an increase of 2,000 compared with 2018 or a year-on-year increase of 3.39%.

II. Forms of Exhibitions

China's overseas exhibitions were mainly conducted in two forms in 2019: organizing overseas exhibitions and participating in overseas exhibitions, with the latter dominant. The number of overseas exhibition projects, the scale of overseas exhibitions participation and the number of exhibitors continue to increase.

(I) The number of overseas exhibition projects China participated in increased and accounted for the largest proportion, with decreased number of organized overseas exhibition projects

III. Distribution of overseas exhibitions in different regions

Judging from the regional distribution of overseas exhibitions hosted by China, traditional markets in Europe and the United States are still the main players, emerging markets in Asia have become more active, and significant progress has been made in the deep development of such emerging markets in Latin America and Africa. In 2019, China mainly organized overseas exhibitions (expositions) in Asia, Western Europe and North America, which are among top three regions by exhibition projects, the exhibition area and the number of exhibitors. As shown in Figure 3.8 and Figure 3.9, Asia remained the largest overseas exhibition market, with a year-on-year increase in exhibition quantity, exhibition area and the number of enterprises participating in and hosting exhibitions; the number of exhibition projects in Western Europe and North America both grew slightly compared with the previous year, while the number of enterprises participating in and hosting exhibitions decreased; the number of exhibition projects in Eastern Europe and Russia both grew, while the exhibition area kept growing and the number of exhibitors was reduced; Exhibitors' enthusiasm in Latin America and the Caribbean area was up, and these three aspects all achieved an increase compared with the previous year; the three aspects in Africa and Oceania made up a small proportion, but all achieved an increase.

(I) Asia remained the potential overseas exhibition market of China

In 2019, the regional comprehensive economic partnership has taken a major step forward, which will not only help safeguard economic globalization and trade liberalization, but also promote regional economic integration and contribute to achieving the goal of building an East Asian Community at an early date. As one of the important economies in Asia, China has a favorable geographical advantage and development potential, with constantly developing regional trade. Asia remained an important overseas exhibition destination of China. In 2019, overseas exhibitions organized by China in Asia accounted for more than 1/3 of all overseas exhibitions in exhibition projects, the exhibition area and the number of exhibitors, achieving a rapid increase. The year 2019 witnessed the highest proportion taken by the said two regions in terms of the total number of exhibition projects, exhibition area and number of exhibitors. However, due to the negative impact of China-US trade frictions and EU foreign investment review system, the number of exhibition projects and exhibition area only increased slightly, while the number of exhibitors declined. (VII) Performance of China's exhibitions in some emerging markets has fallen short of expectations

While focusing on the traditional markets of developed countries in the United States and Europe, Chinese exhibition organizers and exhibitors are actively participating in and organizing exhibitions in the emerging markets, and vigorously exploring markets in Southeast Asia, Africa, Latin America, and Central and Eastern Europe. Having coordinated in implementation of the diverse market strategy, they have played an active role in promoting the sustained, healthy and stable development of China's export trade. The performance of China's exhibitions in some emerging markets fell short of expectations in 2019. The top 10 countries all registered increased area of exhibitions but decreased number of projects and exhibitors. This was mainly due to the unstable policies of emerging economies, trade protectionism, unstable recovery foundation, lack of authoritative market information and policy information, and market irregularities caused by grey customs clearance, and other factors. Risks compounded with challenges, and Chinese exhibitors should make full investigations and preparations before participating in the exhibitions.

In terms of country, as shown in Figure 3.10 and 3.11, top 10 countries by the number of China's overseas exhibition projects in 2019 were U.S., Germany, Russia, India, UAE, Brazil, Japan, Thailand, Vietnam, and Mexico. The number of China's overseas exhibition projects in the above 10 countries represented 61.4% of the total overseas exhibitions in the full year, and the exhibition area in the above countries accounted for 59.1% of the total, while the number of exhibitors contributed 60.7% to the total. (III) China's Exhibitions in Other SCO Members have achieved new development

The Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO) is the largest comprehensive regional organization in the world in terms of geographical coverage and population. It is an important link between the Asia-Pacific Economic Zone and the Eurasian Economic Zone. In 2019, SCO has entered a critical period of great development. The member states, guided by the "Shanghai Spirit", have promoted the continuous and deepening cooperation in various fields and have driven the SCO to achieve new development at a new starting point, which laid a solid foundation for the participation of Chinese exhibitors in local exhibitions, and brought bright prospects for future development.

1. China's overseas exhibition projects achieved a general growth. In 2019, China saw an increase in the number of exhibition projects, the exhibition area and the number of exhibitors in other SCO members. In the meanwhile, the exhibition markets of Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan have not yet been developed, enjoying good prospects for future development. As shown in Figure 3.14, 63 exhibition organizers across the country organized the participation of 257 exhibition projects in the other 8 BRICS members, accounting for 15.4% of the total overseas exhibition projects, while the actual exhibition area was 123,000 m², representing 14.8% of the total overseas exhibition area and the number of exhibitors was 7,834, contributing 13.3% to the total overseas exhibitors.

2. China's exhibition in BRICS were mainly centered in Russia and India. In 2019, China's exhibition in other SCO members were mainly focused on Russia and India, and among countries along the Belt and Road and BRICS where China participated in exhibitions, the two countries also saw the largest number of China's exhibition projects. In Russia and India, the number of exhibition projects reached 225, accounting for 87.5% of the total exhibition projects in other SCO members, while the exhibition area was 103,000 m², accounting for 83.7% of the total exhibition area in other SCO members, and the number of exhibitors reached 6,692, representing 85.4% of the total exhibitors in other SCO members. In addition, Pakistan and Kazakhstan both came to the third place by the number of exhibition projects in which China participated, both reaching 12, while the actual exhibition area was 6,321 m² and 8,882 m², and the number of exhibitors was 496 and 371, respectively. The scale of exhibition in which China participated in Uzbekistan was the smallest, with only eight exhibition projects. The actual exhibition area was only 5,030 m², and the number of exhibitor was only 275. See Table 3.5.

3. Machinery and Comprehensive Exhibitions accounted for a high proportion among all exhibition industries. In 2019, China's exhibitions in other SCO members were mainly focused on machinery and comprehensive exhibitions. Among all industry classifications, machinery exhibitions saw the largest number of projects, reaching up to 53, accounting for 20.6% of the total exhibition projects in other SCO members, while the actual exhibition area was 24,000 m², and the number of exhibitors was 1,883. Comprehensive exhibitions ranked the second regarding the number of exhibition projects, reaching 26, accounting for 10.1% of the total exhibition projects in other SCO members, while the actual exhibition area was 38,000 m², and the number of exhibitors was 1,442. It was followed by textile & apparel and leather products, hardware tools, medical care, transportation and logistics, building decoration, food and agricultural products, consumer products and energy and mineral products. See Table 3.6.

V. Industry Overview

Similar to 2018, the industry structure of China's overseas trade and economics exhibitions in 2019 consisted of comprehensive exhibitions, 22 specialized exhibitions and exhibitions of other categories. Since the comprehensive exhibition had a wider coverage, larger audience, and more exhibitors, which could effectively open up markets and expand influence for enterprises, it was favored by exhibitors, and continued to take the lead among various industries regarding the number of exhibition projects, the exhibition area and the number of exhibitors.

As shown in Figure 3.15 and Figure 3.16, comprehensive exhibitions still accounted for the highest proportion (15.4%). In terms of specialized exhibitions, machinery exhibitions accounted for the highest proportion (13.0%), followed by textile, apparel & leather products exhibitions, architectural decoration exhibitions and food & agricultural products exhibitions, with a share of 11.0%, 5.8% and 5.4%, respectively. Among the top 10 projects of China's overseas exhibition industry, the number of other professional exhibition projects increased compared with 2018, except for a decline in the number of comprehensive exhibition projects. The overseas economic and trade exhibitions became more professional.

VII. Overview of CCPIT's Overseas Exhibitions (Expositions)

It is an important responsibility of the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade (CCPIT) to hold overseas exhibitions on behalf of China. In 2019, in the face of complicated situation at home and abroad, CCPIT spared no efforts to organize and implement overseas exhibition projects and strove to improve the quality of overseas exhibitions under the guidance of promoting the co-construction of the "Belt and Road" and with the focus on addressing Sino-US economic and trade frictions. It organized a total of 745 enterprises from all over the country to carry out 16 overseas exhibition projects throughout the year, covering more than 30,000 m^2 exhibition areas and receiving nearly 630,000 overseas visitors, achieving fruitful results. These exhibitions played active role in addressing the overall situation, serving enterprises, and promoting foreign economic and trade cooperation.

(I) Serving the construction of the "Belt and Road" and promoting win-win cooperation among countries

CCPIT actively implemented the "Belt and Road" Initiative, and organized enterprises to host and participate in exhibitions in countries along the "Belt and Road", resulting in splendid achievements. CCPIT organized a total of 314 domestic large-scale brand-name enterprises and outstanding national enterprises to participate in and host six exhibitions in Laos, India, Russia, Bosnia Herzegovina, Turkey, Slovenia and other countries along the "Belt and Road", accounting for 37.5% of the projects organized and implemented. The exhibition area totaled 10,084 m^2, and the amount of the on-site transaction and the intended transaction was approximately USD 74.69 million. These exhibitions highlighted products and technologies in the fields of railway, aviation, shipping, agriculture, tourism, culture and education, medical care, papermaking and printing, international packaging, machinery and equipment, metal processing, new energy, mining and metallurgy, home building materials, communications and electronics, textile and apparel, lighting, and hardware tools, and displayed the corporate image through material objects, texts, pictures, multimedia, video and other means. In addition to organizing corporate exhibitions, a national image exhibition area was also set up on each exhibition project, to highlight the concept of the "Belt and Road" Initiative and achievements of cooperation, so that local visitors could deeply feel the benefits brought by the Initiative to the people of countries along the "Belt and Road" and enhance their determination to participate in the co-construction. Among them, the Economic and Technological Exhibition for Lancang-Mekong Cooperation (LMC) was a project established in cooperation with the LMC mechanism. With a total exhibition area of 2,000 m^2, the exhibition highlighted China's advantageous production capacity and advanced production technologies, and attracted more than 6,000 visitors. The China-South Asia (India) Brand Exhibition on Production Capacity Cooperation covered an area of 2,112 m^2, which strongly promoted the investment and trade of Chinese enterprises in India and South Asia. The China (Russia) Packaging Brand Exhibition was a key exhibition held on the occasion of the 70th anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between China and Russia. The exhibition covered an area of 972 m^2, with a total of 90 enterprises from 15 domestic provinces, municipalities and autonomous regions participating in, which provided a broad platform for the China-Russia packaging industry to strengthen exchanges, expand cooperation and business opportunities.

(II) Practicing non-policy propositions and promoting the implementation of multiple cooperation

CCPIT actively implemented the "10 major China-Africa cooperation plans" and the "eight major initiatives" proposed on the Beijing Summit, and integrated the superior resources to promote the orderly "going global' of China's competitive production capacity in steel, nonferrous metals, building materials, chemicals, light and textile industry, electric power, rail transit and communications based on domestic advantages and combined with the market demand of the host country, eventually forming a positive interaction between international cooperation on production capacity and domestic technology transformation and upgrading. CCPIT mainly organized 238 enterprises in the fields of infrastructure construction, energy development and application, high-speed rail, aviation, wireless communications and Internet to hold a series of brand exhibitions on production capacity cooperation in four African countries, including Uganda, Ethiopia, Nigeria, and Kenya. These exhibitions totaled 9,520 m^2, which publicized the splendid achievements of China-Africa production capacity cooperation while displaying products and technologies. The above-mentioned exhibitions attracted more than 160,000 visitors from more than 20 countries in Africa, and realized an amount of nearly USD 60 million in foreign trade and economic cooperation agreements and cooperation intentions, further connecting Chinese enterprises with the demand of the African region, and promoting the close integration of China's competitive industries and high-quality production capacity with Africa's industrialization and economic diversification. After participating in the exhibitions, many enterprises stated their plan of setting up branches or representative offices in Africa in the next two to three years. Among them, the China (Nigeria) Brand Exhibition on Production Capacity Cooperation further met the needs of Chinese enterprises and the West African region. The Department of Commerce of Shandong Province of China and the Lagos Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Nigeria signed a memorandum of understanding on cooperation aimed at strengthening and promoting the bilateral economic and trade relations to a new stage of all-round development. The China (Kenya) Capacity Cooperation Brand Exhibition promoted the Winly Group to realize sales of USD 350,000 for building materials and the Guangzhou Leimeng Machinery Co. to obtain orders of USD 400,000 for crushing line equipment. The China (Ethiopia) Brand Exhibition on Capacity Cooperation effectively connected Chinese and Ethiopian enterprises, realizing an on-site intended turnover of USD 800,000. Foton reached the agency intention with the distributors in South Sudan. Qingdao Xinguangzheng, Guizhou Shengbote and other enterprises signed on-site order purchases and sales contracts, and the mining equipment enterprises in Henan met with many merchants with clear cooperation intentions. The China (Uganda) Brand Exhibition on Production Capacity Cooperation effectively promoted Sino-Ugandan economic and trade exchanges. Romer Environmental Protection (Shenzhen) Co., Ltd. signed contracts with local enterprises. Henan Nile, Henan Baichy, Henan Jingxin, Qingdao Shunke, Hebei PINGLE and other enterprises signed purchases and sales contracts with local customers. The food processing equipment and mining equipment enterprises in Shanghai met many high-quality merchants with clear cooperation intentions.

(III) Serving the overall situation of foreign affairs and promoting the development of relations with Central American countries

The "Trade Exhibition of the People's Republic of China" was the largest and most influential comprehensive trade exhibition held by China in Central America, aiming at cooperating with the diversification strategy for the foreign trade market of China, displaying the leading products, technologies and services in related industries in China and the achievements of China's economic, social, cultural, scientific and technological development, enhancing the image of Chinese enterprises and Chinese products in the local market, promoting Chinese enterprises to expand economic and trade exchanges and cooperation in various forms with Central American countries, and deepening the local people's understanding of China. Upon years of cultivation and development, the Trade Exhibition of the People's Republic of China became an important platform for China and Central American countries to strengthen economic and trade exchanges and cooperation. In 2019, the Trade Exhibition was held for three times respectively in Guatemala, Dominica, and El Salvador, covering a total exhibition area of 8,000 m^2. The Trade Exhibition of the People's Republic of China in Guatemala and the China-Guatemala Economic and Trade Cooperation and Development Forum changed the local people's one-sided impression of the low quality of Chinese products, deepened the Guatemalan business community's understanding of China's image as a great power, advanced products and technical strength, and enhanced the exchanges and mutual trust between the business communities of China and Guatemala. The China (Dominica) Integrated Brand Exhibition was the first large-scale economic and trade event held after the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries. Through physical exhibitions and enterprise connection, the Dominican people's understanding of China's advanced products and technical strength was further deepened, and Chinese enterprises better understood the economic foundation, industrial characteristics and policy environment of Dominica, which played a positive role in promoting the bilateral economic and trade cooperation, consolidating bilateral diplomatic relations, and advancing friendly exchanges between China and neighboring Central American countries. The Trade Exhibition of the People's Republic of China in El Salvador was the second exhibition held in El Salvador after the establishment of formal diplomatic relations between El Salvador and China, which opened the door for Chinese enterprises to seek cooperation opportunities in El Salvador and even in Central American market.

(IV) Focusing on the markets of traditional developed countries and promoting international cooperation in emerging industries

CCPIT actively organized enterprises to participate in exhibitions in traditional markets such as Europe, so that the enterprises could enhance exchanges in logistics, transportation, telematics, smart cities and other fields, and promote domestic technology transformation and upgrading by absorbing advanced technologies, so as to enhance the position of Chinese industries in the global value chain. By organizing enterprises to participate in the German International Logistics, Transport and Telematics Fair, CCPIT has, on the one hand, fully publicized the transport of the New Eurasian Land Bridge and the China Railway Express and Central Asian Trains, further deepened the consensus of all parties on promoting the development of the China Railway Express, expanded the international influence of the unified brand of the China Railway Express, and consolidated the important position of China logistics in the international logistics and transportation industry; on the other hand, it allowed Chinese logistics enterprises to "go global" to learn the advanced organization and management technologies and experience of the world's top logistics industry and to understand the actual demand of foreign customers for logistics transportation along the "Belt and Road", strengthened the international exchanges and cooperation of Chinese logistics enterprises, enhanced the friendly exchanges, and facilitated Chinese enterprises to achieve substantial trade results. Smart City Expo World Congress in Spain was one of the world's smart city expos with the highest standards and largest scale. With the help of the internationally advanced exhibition platform, CCPIT organized a total of 48 Chinese enterprises to participate in the exhibition. The exhibition covered an area of 918 m^2 and attracted more than 200 professional visitors to attend the exhibition and exchange ideas, realizing the intention and actual turnover of EUR 8.9 million. It strengthened the international exchanges and cooperation among relevant industries of China's smart cities, helped relevant enterprises understand the international market, enhanced friendly exchanges, and facilitated Chinese enterprises to achieve substantial trade results.

Chapter IV Overview of China's Exhibition Venue Profile in 2019

According to the statistical standards on exhibition venue market from UFI, this chapter conducts statistical survey on 431 exhibition venues in 186 cities all over the country (excluding Hong Kong, Macao and Taiwan) and selects the exhibition venues accommodating more than two trade and economic exhibitions in 2019 with an indoor rentable area greater than or equal to 5,000 m² as China’s exhibition venue market in 2019. Therefore, China’s exhibition venue market in 2019 defined in this chapter includes 173 professional exhibition venues, with an indoor rentable area of about 10.76 million m². This chapter makes statistics and analysis of China’s exhibition venue market according to the above category. It is hereby stated that all the data in this chapter come from China exhibition information database of China International Exhibition Center Group Corporation.

I. Geographical and Scale Distribution

The number and area of China’s exhibition venues maintain sustained growth in 2019. According to statistics, the number of domestic exhibition venues reached 173 in 2019, increasing by 9 than that in 2018, with an increase of about 5.5%; total indoor rentable area was about 10.76 million m², increasing by 0.92 million m² than that in 2018, with an increase of about 9.3%. Comparing the data of the past three years, it can be found that the number of new venues continued to increase annually, but the growth rate slowed down slightly. The total supply of exhibition area continued to increase and the growth rate accelerated. Thanks to the completion and putting into operation of Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center and Qingdao Cosmopolitan Exposition, China’s exhibition venue market has added 920,000 m² of indoor rentable area in 2019, with a growth rate of about 4 percentage points higher than 2018, reflecting the trend of continuous increase in the total supply of venues under the new economic situation. In the future, with the implementation of National

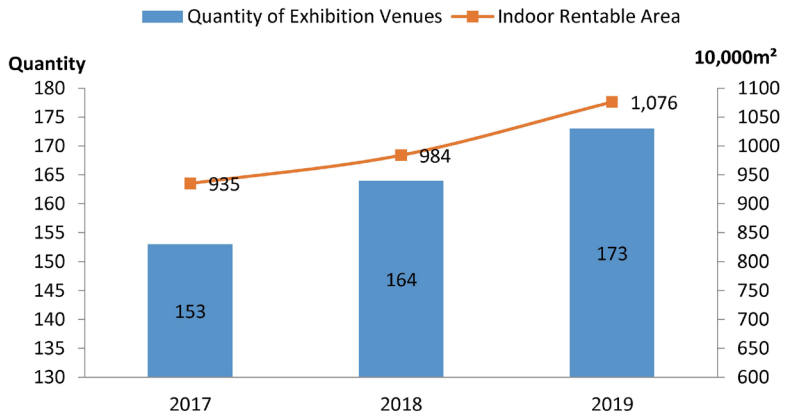

Fig. 4.1 Changes in the Quantity and Area of Exhibition Venues in Chinese Mainland in 2017-2019

Exhibition and Convention Center (Tianjin), China International Exhibition Center Phase II and other large-scale exhibition projects, the total supply of exhibition venues is expected to continue to increase.

(I) Distribution in Provinces

Shandong Province has the largest number of exhibition venues of 26, with an increase of two compared with that in 2018, accounting for about 15% of the national total, ranking first for two consecutive years. In recent years, Guangdong Province has increased the total number to 20, accounting for about 12% of the national total, ranking second. Zhejiang Province has 15 exhibition venues, Jiangsu Province has 11 exhibition venues, and Hebei Province has 11 exhibition venues, ranking third to fifth. It is worth noting that the increase in the number of China exhibition center market in 2019 mainly comes from prefecture-level cities, even county-level cities. For example, in recent years, Hebei has made full use of the Beijing-Tianjin-Hebei integration process to attract Beijing's high-quality exhibition resources, breaking the traditional thinking that the exhibition venues must be in the central area of the provincial capital. It has not only built Shijiazhuang International Convention and Exhibition Center in Zhengding, but also vigorously developed the convention and exhibition industry based on local advantageous industries in Langfang, Tangshan, Cangzhou and other places. The results are remarkable.

In terms of overall distribution, the number of provinces with more than 10 exhibition venues has reached five, which is one more than that in 2018. The total number of exhibition venues is 83, with an increase of 11 or 3% over 2018, accounting for about 47% of national total; seven provinces & municipalities have exhibition venues ranging from 5 to 9, adding up to 46 or 28% of the national total, decreasing by 5 or 4% than 2018; The agglomeration effect of the exhibition venue resources towards the "front rank" is becoming increasingly obvious. In addition, eight provinces and municipalities have exhibition venues ranging from 3 to 4, adding up to 28 or about 17% of the national total. 11 provinces and municipalities have two or more exhibition venues, adding up to 16 or about 8% of the national total. According to the data, 12 provinces and municipalities have more than 5 exhibition venues in 2019, adding up to 129 or about 75% of the national total. The number of exhibition venues has decreased slightly from 2018. The regional imbalance of exhibition venue resources still exists, but the trend has slowed down.

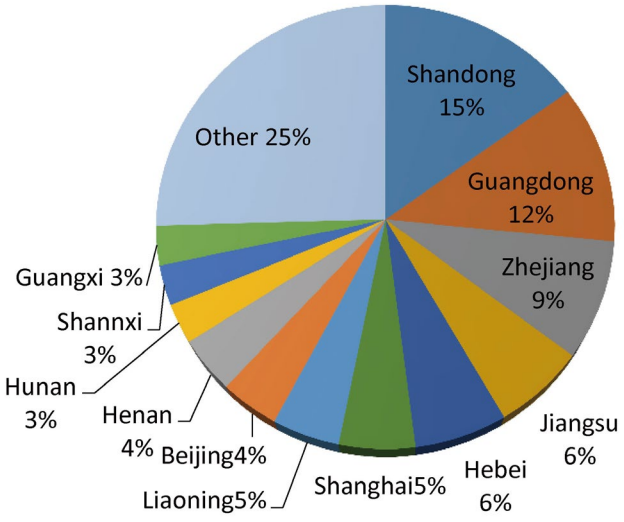

Fig. 4.2 Provincial Quantity Proportion of National Exhibition Venues in 2019

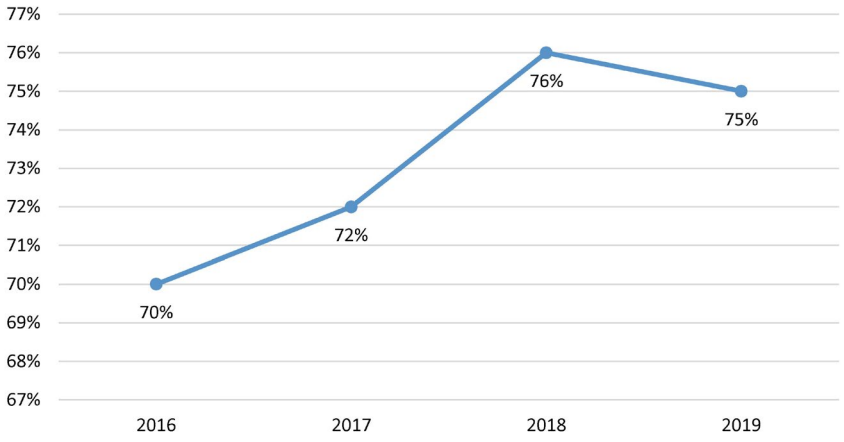

Fig. 4.3 Changes in the Quantity Proportion of Provinces with More Than 5 Exhibition Venues in 2016-2020

In terms of the total indoor rentabe area of the exhibition venues, the traditional exhibition venue resources in Guangdong and Shandong provinces continue to grow, with the total area of each exceeding 2 million m². In 2019, the total area of exhibition venues in Guangdong Province reached about 1.86 million m², increasing about 320,000 m² than 2018, accounting for about 17% of the national total, ranking first. The total area of exhibition venues in Shandong Province reached about 1.78 million m², increasing about 480,000 m² than 2018, accounting for about 16% of the national total, ranking second. Shanghai, Zhejiang and Jiangsu provinces have all reached a total area of over 500,000 m², ranking third to the fifth. In terms of regional distribution, the Yangtze River Delta Economic Zone with Shanghai as its center have the most concentrated exhibition venue resources, with Jiangsu, Zhejiang and Shanghai have a total area of about 2.18 million m². With the completion and use of Shenzhen International Convention and Exhibition Center, the Pearl River Delta Economic Zone, with Guangzhou and Shenzhen as the core, has increased the catch-up speed of the total exhibition venue resources. The total area of the exhibition venues in Guangdong and Fujian is about 2.16 million m², which has greatly narrowed the gap between it and that of Yangtze River delta economic zone. The total area of exhibition venues in Western China, represented by Yunnan, Guizhou, Sichuan and Chongqing, reached 1.76 million m², continuing to bridge the gap with that of the Southeastern China. In contrast, the total area of exhibition venues in Beijing, Tianjin and Hebei is only about 780,000 m², with the total supply of exhibition venue resources falling behind other economic zones. However, with the completion of Tianjin National Convention and Exhibition Center and other large exhibition venues, it will effectively improve the imbalance situation of national exhibition resources between the north and the south.

Generally, there are five provinces & municipalities (Guangdong, Shandong, Shanghai, Jiangsu, Zhejiang) with a total indoor rentable area of more than 400,000 m², adding up to 5.83 million m² or 54% of the national total; 18 provinces & municipalities with a total rental area of 100,000~400,000 m², adding up to 4.47 million m² or 42% of the national total; eight provinces & municipalities with a total rental area of less than 100,000 m², adding up to 0.48 million m² or 4% of the national total.

(II) Distribution of Exhibitions in Cities

In terms of quantity, Shanghai has the largest quantity of nine exhibition venues; With the newly built Qingdao Cosmopolitan Exposition, Qingdao red island international convention and exhibition center and other exhibition halls, Qingdao has greatly increased the resources supply of exhibition halls, with seven exhibition venues, ranking second with Beijing; Guangzhou has five exhibition venues, ranking third. In 2019, China's exhibition hall market has a total of 12 cities with more than four exhibition halls, with an increase of two from 2018, accounting for 13%; 26 cities have 2-3 exhibition halls, accounting for 28%. According to comprehensive statistics, in 2019, the number of cities with more than two exhibition venues reaches 38, accounting for 41% of the total city samples; the total number of exhibition venues reaches 121, accounting for 70% of the total number of exhibition venue samples. According to the data, with the development of regional economy, economic diversification leads to demand diversification, which generates to the demand for diversified development of exhibition economy in the region. The more economically developed cities tend to accommodate more venues for competition and common development. At the same time, more and more venue operators have found that the competition of venue management has shifted the focus from regions and provinces to cities, which has raised higher requirements for venue services, exhibition topics, and differentiated competition, objectively promoting the development of venues from high quantity to high quality.

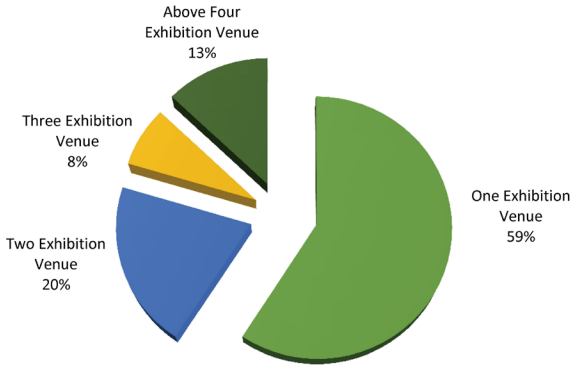

Fig. 4.5 Quantity Distribution of National Exhibition; Venues by City in 2019

In terms of area, Shanghai ranks first with 810,000 m², accounting for 7.6% of national total; Guangzhou ranks second with 660,000 m², accounting for 6.2% of national total; and Qingdao ranks third with 650,000 m²; Followed by Shenzhen, Kunming and Changsha.

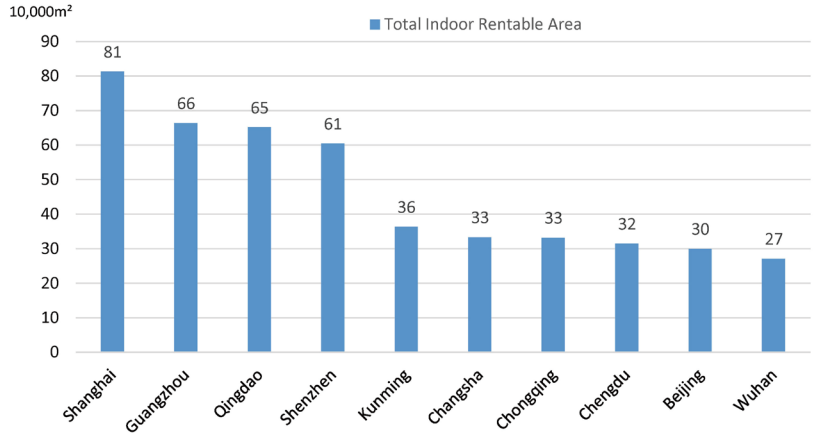

Fig. 4.6 Comparison Diagram of Indoor Rentable Area of Exhibition Venues in Major Cities in 2019

It is worth noting that Shanghai and Guangzhou have begun to change the situation of their monopoly on urban exhibition venue resources. Not only the traditional exhibition cities such as Shenzhen have begun to make breakthrough in the supply of venue resources, but also the core cities of the exhibition industry such as Qingdao have joined in the competition of venue resources and begun to break the urban monopoly of venue resources. The total supply area of the above four cities is more than 500,000 m². In the future, with the construction of large venues in Beijing, Tianjin, Jinan and Xi‘an, the number of cities with venues of 500,000 m² is expected to continue to increase. The flattening of exhibition resources in “front rank” exhibition cities will balance the exhibition resources and promote the balanced development of exhibition economy in different regions. At the same time, it should be noted that the development of venue resources must match the regional economy, especially the exhibition economy, so as to avoid resource waste and excessive competition.

Generally, there are four cities in the country where the total indoor rentable area of exhibition venues is over 600,000 m², including Shanghai, Guangzhou, Qingdao and Shenzhen, with the total indoor rentable area of exhibition venues of about 2.73 million m², accounting for about 26% of the national total. Kunming, Changsha, Chongqing, Chengdu, Beijing and other four cities each has an area of 200,000~600,000 m², with a total area of about 2.65 million m², accounting for about 25% of the national total. Xi‘an, Shenyang, Tianjin, Hangzhou and other 15 cities each has an area of 100,000~200,000 m², with a total area of about 2.74 million m², accounting for about 26% of the national total. Taiyuan, Zhengzhou, Haikou and other 17 cities each has an area of 50,000~100,000 m², with a total area of about 1.51 million m², accounting for about 14% of the national total. Zhuhai, Urumqi, Xining, Tangshan and other 37 cities each has an area of less than 50,000 m², with a total area of about 1.13 million m², accounting for about 11% of the national total.

(III) Distribution in Scale

According to the classification criterion of UFI, 173 exhibition venues above are classified by the indoor rentable area into 5,000~19,999 m² 20,000~49,999 m², 50,000~99,999 m² and 100,000 m² above.

In terms of quantity, there are 31 exhibition venues with an indoor rentable area of more than 100,000 m², increasing by three than 2018 and accounting for about 18% of the national total. There are 38 exhibition venues with an indoor rentable area of 50,000~100,000 m², increasing by one than 2018, accounting for about 22% of the national total; there are 75 exhibition venues with an indoor rentable area of 20,000~ 50,000 m², increasing by 8 than 2018, accounting for about 43% of the national total. There are 29 exhibition venues with an indoor rentable area of less than 20,000 m², decreasing by 3 than 2018 and accounting for about 17% of the national total. It can be seen that the increment of China’ s exhibition venue market in 2019 mainly comes from the exhibition venues with an area of below 20,000 m², and the construction speed of large exhibition venues has accelerated significantly, in stark contrast to that of 2018. It is expected that the demand for large domestic venues will continue to grow in the future.

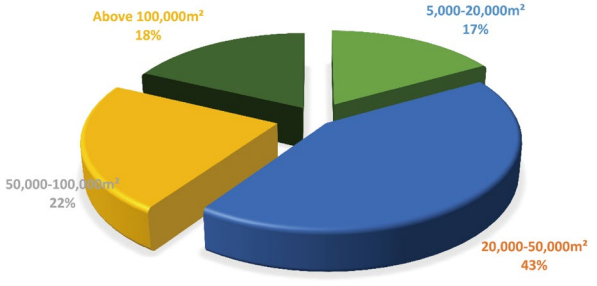

Fig. 4.8 Scale Distribution of National Exhibition Venues in 2019 (Exhibition Quantity)

From the perspective of the scale of single venue, the most significant change in the Chinese exhibition venue market in 2019 is the completion of Shenzhen World Exhibition & Convention Center. With a total exhibition area of 500,000 m² (400,000 m² in the first phase), Shenzhen World Exhibition & Convention Center is the largest exhibition venue in China. The completion of Shenzhen World Exhibition & Convention Center will greatly change the current layout of domestic exhibition market. In the short term, the pattern of "more in south and less in north" will be further intensified and the attraction of domestic exhibition resources to the south will be accelerated. The trend is expected to continue until 2021-2022, and will gradually reverse with the completion and use of key projects in the northern region, such as National Exhibition and Convention Center (Tianjin) and China International Exhibition Center Phase II. In 2019, the indoor rentable areas of Shenzhen World Exhibition & Convention Center, National Exhibition and Convention Center (Shanghai), China Import & Export Fair Complex and Kunming Dianchi International Convention and Exhibition Center have exceed 300,000 m² respectively; the indoor rentable areas of Shanghai New International Expo Center, Chongqing EXPO Center, GD Modern International Exhibition Center, Western China International Expo City, Qingdao Cosmopolitan Exposition and other two exhibition venues have exceed 200,000 m² respectively, Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center, China International Exhibition Center (Shunyi), Chengdu Century City New International Convention and Exhibition Center, Xiamen International Convention and Exhibition Center, Tianjin Mei Jiang Convention Center, Wuhan International Expo Center and other 14 exhibition venues has exceed 100,000 m² respectively. The exhibition venues with the area of more than 100,000 m² have become the mainstream of the domestic venue standards.

II Market and Operation

The construction of venues only reflects the construction level of the exhibition infrastructure while its number and scale (area) of trade and economic exhibitions accommodated as a professional exhibition venue, directly reflects the promotion and support effect of the venue construction on the local exhibition economy. This chapter will count the number and area of the trade and economic exhibitions held in various exhibition venues and make a comparative analysis of the current situation of the operation of the venues. It should also be noted that with the development of exhibition economy, some exhibition venues take other non-exhibition activities as the important supplement to the exhibition venues, such as meetings, celebrations and conferences, and even concerts, sports meetings and other large-scale cultural and sports activities to enhance the operation efficiency of the venues. However, due to the smaller proportion of the above non-exhibition activities and the fact that they cannot be compared with the venues mainly engaged in exhibition business, this chapter will not cover this part temporarily.

(I) Quantity of exhibitions

Shanghai New International Expo Center tops the nation with a total of 205 exhibition events in 2019, five more than 2018. Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center held a total of 126 exhibition events in 2019, 12 more than 2018, ranking second in China. A total of 123 exhibitions were held at the China Import & Export Fair Complex in 2019, 36 more than in 2018 and backed to the top three in China. It' s worth noting that Zhengzhou International Convention and Exhibition Center continues its rapid growth. In 2019, it held 120 exhibitions, 28 more than in 2018, ranking fourth in China. China International Exhibition Center (Sanyuanqiao & Shunyi), National Convention and Exhibition Center (Shanghai), National Convention Center, held 119, 108 and 103 exhibitions respectively, ranked 5-7.

In 2019, there are 25 exhibition venues that have held more than 40 exhibitions, increasing by one than 2018 and accounting for about 15% of the national total. There are 11 exhibition venues that have held 30~40 exhibitions, two more than 2018, accounting for about 6% of the national total. There are 16 exhibition venues that have held 20~30 exhibitions, two fewer than 2018, accounting for about 9% of the national total. There are 32 exhibition venues that have held 10~20 exhibitions, four more than 2018, accounting for about 19% of the national total. There are 89 exhibition venues that have held less than 10 exhibitions, four more than 2018, accounting for about 51% of the national total.

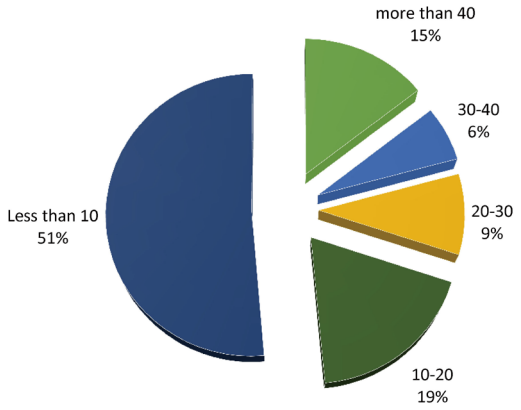

Fig. 4.9 Operational Distribution of National Exhibition Venues in 2019 (Exhibition Quantity)

It can be seen that the number of venues that host more than 40 economic and trade exhibitions each year and venues that hold 30-40 economic and trade exhibitions each year in China in 2019 showed an overall upward trend; The number of venues that host 20-30 economic and trade exhibitions decreased, indicating that the exhibition scale of some exhibition venues has increased to a higher level. At the same time, the group of venues that held less than 20 economic and trade exhibitions each year failed to achieve the same leap. In addition, due to the initial operation of many new exhibition venues in 2019, which are still in the trial operation and commissioning stage, the capacity has not been fully released, resulting in an increase in the number of exhibition venues holding less than 20 exhibitions. It is expected that the total number of exhibition venues holding more than 20 exhibitions will continue to increase after the capacity release of new exhibition venues in 2020.

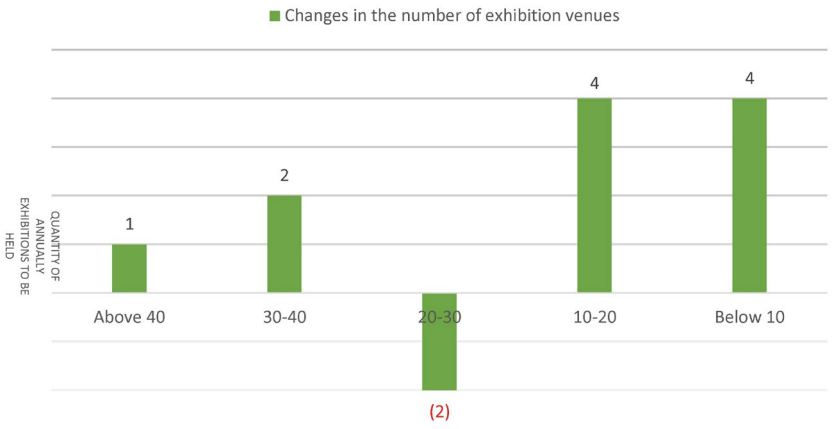

Fig. 4.10 Changes in the Exhibition Quantity of National Exhibition Venues in 2018-2019 (Part I)

Further investigation on the changes in the quantity of trade and economic exhibitions held in various exhibition venues in 2018 and 2019 indicates that there are 62 exhibition venues holding more exhibitions than 2018, accounting for 42% of the national total, down by 20% than 2018. Meanwhile, there are 62 exhibition venues holding fewer exhibitions, 25 more than in 2018, and accounting for 42% of the national total, up 16% than 2018. It can be seen that different from the overall positive situation of China's exhibition market in 2018, the polarization of China's exhibition market in 2019 has intensified.

By comparing different groups of exhibition venues divided by the number of exhibitions held, among the exhibition venues holding less than 10 exhibitions in 2019, 25% of them have held more exhibitions than last year; Among the exhibition venues holding 10-19 exhibitions, 39% of them have held more exhibitions than last year; Among the exhibition venues that have held 20-39 exhibitions, the proportion of the exhibition venues holding more exhibitions further increased to 52%; Among the exhibition venues holding 40-99 exhibitions, 68% of them have held more exhibitions than last year; Among the exhibition venues holding more than 100 exhibitions, 100% of them have held more exhibitions than last year. According to the data, the operation of exhibitions of national exhibition venues presents an increasing trend on the whole in 2019 and about two fifths of the exhibition venues have achieved incremental development of exhibitions under complex economic environment, of which the growth rate of exhibition quantity of larger exhibition venues is higher. Most of exhibition venues holding more than 20 exhibitions annually have held more exhibitions than last year; while most of exhibition venues holding less than 20 exhibitions annually have held fewer exhibitions than last year.

(II) Exhibition area

Shanghai New International Expo Center has a total exhibition area of about 9.84 million m² in 2019, 630,000 m² more than 2018, increasing by 6.8%, ranking first; The National Convention and Exhibition Center (Shanghai) has a total area of about 9.07 million m² in 2019, with a significant increase of 1.65 million m² over 2018 and a growth rate of 22%, ranking second. The total exhibition area of China Import & Export Fair Complex in 2019 is about 8.87 million m², with an increase of 1.02 million m² or 36%, ranking third place in China. The total exhibition area of China International Exhibition Center (Sanyuanqiao & Shunyi) in 2019 is about 4.85 million m², ranking fourth in China. The Shenzhen Convention & Exhibition Center have also achieved significant growth in 2019, with a total exhibition area of about 4.81 million m², ranking fifth. The total exhibition area of Poly World Trade Center Expo in 2019 is about 3.23 million m², ranking sixth in China. Zhengzhou International Convention and Exhibition Center and Hangzhou International Expo Center continue to grow rapidly. In 2019, the total exhibition area exceeded 3 million m² for the first time, reaching approximately 3.16 million m² and 3.07 million m² respectively, ranking eighth and ninth in the country.

Note: Combined statistics of China International Exhibition Center (Sanyuanqiao & Shunyi)

According to the total area of exhibitions held in various exhibition venues, China's exhibition venue market in 2019 showed a competitive situation featuring coexistence of monopoly and rising competitors. And the competition in each market segment is increasingly intensified. Shanghai New International Expo Center, National Convention and Exhibition Center (Shanghai) and China Import & Export Fair Complex top the nation, with an area of about 9 million m² and nearly twice the size of the second group, forming an absolute leading edge. However, the competition within the first group is also white hot, and all the top three have achieved growth in 2019. However, National Convention and Exhibition Center (Shanghai), relying on the radiation effect of China Import Expo, not only crossed the threshold of 9 million m², but also successfully surpassed the exhibition venue of China Import & Export Fair Complex.

China International Exhibition Center (Sanyuanqiao & Shunyi), Shenzhen Convention & Exhibition Center and other three centers form the second group with an area of 3~5 million m². Among them, Guangzhou Poly World Trade Expo, Zhengzhou International Convention and Exhibition Center, and Hangzhou International Expo Center have been shortlisted for the Second Group with their rapid growth in the past two years, showing that the advantages of the new exhibition venues. Chongqing EXPO Center, Chengdu Century City New International Convention and Exhibition Center, National Convention Center, Xi'an Qujiang International Convention and Exhibition Center, and Shanghai World Expo Exhibition & Convention Center have formed the third group with an area of about 2 million m², which has greatly narrowed the gap between it and the second group.

In 2019, 13 exhibition venues have a total area of over 2 million m², 1 more than 2018, accounting for about 7% of the national total. 19 exhibition venues have a total area of 1~ 2 million m², 2 more than 2018, accounting for about 11% of the national total. 21 exhibition venues have a total area of 500,000~1,000,000 m², 1 more than 2018, accounting for about 12% of the national total. 36 exhibition venues have a total area of 200,000~500,000 m², 2 more than 2018, accounting for about 21% of the national total. 84 exhibition venues have a total area of below 200,000 m², 3 more than 2018, accounting for about 49% of the national total.

The trend towards high-quality growth in China's exhibition market competition in 2019 is also reflected in the changes in exhibition space of each exhibition venue. According to statistics, in 2019, 68 exhibition venues achieved positive growth in exhibition area, accounting for 46% of the number of exhibition venues; at the same time, as many as 74 exhibition venues recorded negative growth in exhibition area, accounting for 50%.

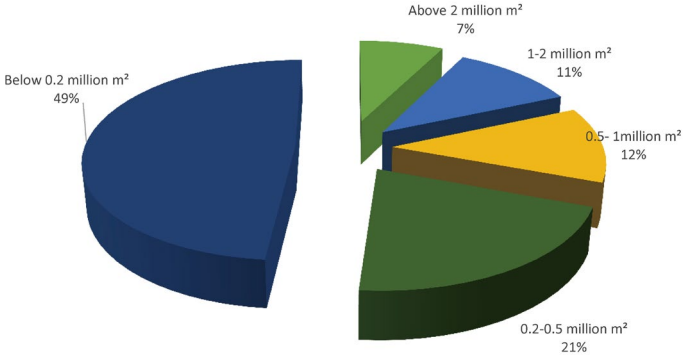

Fig. 4.13 Operational Distribution of National Exhibition Venues in 2019 (Exhibition Area)

It can be found through specific analysis of the growth of the total area of each exhibition venue (only with comparable samples), 10 out of 13 exhibition venues with a total exhibition area of more than 2 million m² in 2019 achieved an increase in area, accounting for 77%; 13 out of 19 exhibition venues with a total exhibition area of 1million- 2 million m² in 2019 achieved an increase in area, accounting for 68%; 12 out of 20 exhibition venues with a total exhibition area of 0.5 million-1 million m² in 2019 achieved an increase in area, accounting for 60%; 14 out of 34 exhibition venues with a total exhibition area of 200,000- 500,000 m² in 2019 achieved an increase in area, accounting for 41%; 19 out of 62 exhibition venues with a total exhibition area of less than 200,000 m² in 2019 achieved an increase in area, accounting for 31%.

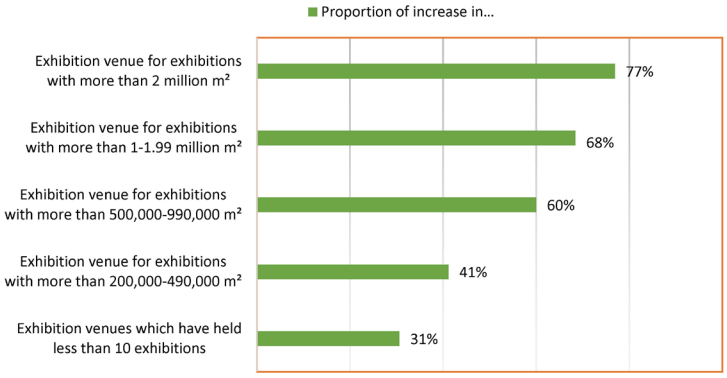

Fig. 4.14 Changes in the Exhibition Area of National Exhibition Venues in 2018-2019

According to the data, the exhibition area increment of China exhibition venue market in 2019 mainly came from the exhibition venue groups with larger exhibition scale, and high-quality development will become the development direction of exhibition venue competition.

(III) Rental rate

"Rental rate" is usually used to describe the operation of exhibition venues. The formula for calculating the "rental rate" is as follows:

$$\text{Rental rate} = \frac{\sum \text{Exhibition area} \times \text{actual rental days}}{\text{Indoor Rentable Area of Exhibition Venues} \times 365 \text{ 天}}$$

As only economic and trade exhibitions are covered in the Report, the "rental rate" excludes other types of exhibitions such as job fairs, commodity fairs, art shows, celebrations recreational and sports activities and other exhibitions and non-exhibition events. Therefore, "rental rate" hereinafter is only based on analysis made on exhibition distribution density of exhibition venues in terms of economic and trade exhibitions instead of the actual picture of operation.

In 2019, China National Convention Center is the most utilized with a rental rate of 77.65%, increasing by 16% than 2018; followed by Shanghai New International Expo Center with 71.56%, up 3% than 2018. Shenzhen Convention & Exhibition Center has a rental rate of about 70.43%, with an increase of about 3%, ranking third. Poly World Trade Expo has a rental rate of about 66.47%, ranking fourth. Zhengzhou International Convention and Exhibition Center and Xinjiang International Convention and Exhibition Center also boast a rental rate of more than 60%, ranking among the top 6 in 2019.

Table 4.8 List of 10 Exhibition Venues with the Highest Rental Rate in 2019

SN	Venue	Provinces & Municipalities	CITY	Rental Rate (%)

9	Hangzhou International Expo Center	Zhejiang	Hangzhou	48.53
10	Liaoning Industrial Exhibition Hall	Liaoning	Shenyang	42.32

In general, in 2019, there are six exhibition venues with a rental rate of above 60%, two more than 2018, indicating that the leading group of exhibition venues is expanding. There are 20 exhibition venues with a rental rate of 30%~60%, the same as 2018, indicating that the backbone force of exhibition venues is still stable. There are 50 exhibition venues with a rental rate of 10%~30%, one more than 2018. However, there are still as many as 97 exhibition venues with a rental rate of below 10%, six more than 2018. The data indicates that front rank effect plays a significant role in the exhibition venue industry in 2019, and rental rate of the top exhibition venues will continue to increase, with expanding market share; Meanwhile, up to 50% of all exhibition venues have a rental rate of less than 10%, which is only one-sixth of the utilization level of the top exhibition venues.

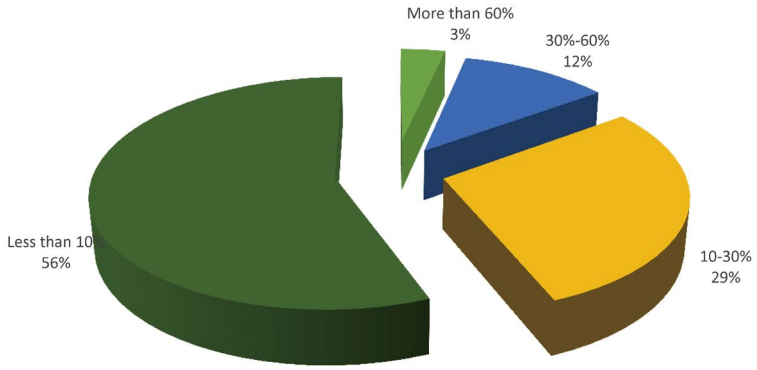

Fig. 4.15 Renting Rate Distribution of National Exhibition Venues in 2019

By comparing the data of 2018, it can be found that the rental rate of the exhibition venue market in 2019 also presents a polarization trend, with 73 exhibition venues' rental rate increasing and 72 exhibition venues' rental rate decreasing in the comparable samples, presenting a striking contrast. Among them, Hangzhou International Expo Center registered the largest growth in rental rate in 2019, up by about 28 percentage points, followed by Liaoning Industrial Exhibition Hall with an increase of about 21 percentage points in the rental rate. Xinjiang International Conference & Exhibition Center saw a rise of about 19 percentage points in the rental rate this year, ranking third. It is worth noting that under the coordinated development strategy of Beijing-Tianjin-Hebei region, the newly built Shijiazhuang International Convention and Exhibition Center (Zhengding) has enjoyed an impressive development momentum, with the occupancy rate rising by 16 percentage points in 2019, reflecting the strong market vitality of the newly built venue.

(II) Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center

Originated from the beginning of reform and opening up, Shenzhen Municipal Government has attached great importance to and supported the development of the convention and exhibition industry. It has established the Convention and Exhibition Industry Promotion Office, established an important conference and exhibition coordination joint meeting system, formulated a relatively comprehensive financial support policy, formed a relatively perfect exhibition industry management system, and created a standardized exhibition industry market order. After 30 years of development, Shenzhen's convention and exhibition industry has occupied China's leading position in terms of quality, scale, internationalization, software and hardware environment, and Shenzhen is one of the four major exhibition cities in China. As the carrier of Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Industry, relying on Shenzhen and the Pearl River Delta's advantageous industries in recent years and giving full play to the advantages of government policy support, Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center has maintained a rapid increase in the total number and area of exhibitions.

Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center was established in 2004, integrating exhibition, conference, business, catering, entertainment and other functions. It covers an area of 220,000 m², with a total construction area of 280,000 m², eight exhibition venues, an indoor rentable area of 105,000 m², 25 conference halls and three dining areas. comprehensive support for large-scale events, conferences and business activities.

Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center insists on venue operation business as first priority, and takes exhibition service business and self-organized exhibition business as supplementary. The three business systems support each other, effectively integrate the value chain, and help the rapid development of exhibition services. After 15 years of development, Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center has undertaken more than 1,100 professional business-oriented exhibitions, with a total exhibition area of more than 40 million m². (III) GD Modern International Exhibition Center

GD Modern International Exhibition Center is a typical representative of convention and exhibition centers in China’s small and medium-sized cities. GD Modern International Exhibition Center is located in Dongguan City, Guangdong Province, the center of the Pearl River Delta urban agglomeration, covering an area of 330,000 m². There are currently six exhibition venues, with a total indoor exhibition area of 130,000 m² and an outdoor exhibition area of 80,000 m2, providing a total of 5,500 standard booths. The main exhibition venue has a large column-free space with a span of 90 m and a width of 260 m. The exhibition area can be any combination from 5,000 m² to 50,000 m².

Dongguan has strong manufacturing industry and complete industrial system. It is one of the largest manufacturing bases in the world. The total output value of manufacturing industry accounts for more than 90% of the total industrial output value of industrial enterprises above designated size. A modern industrial system based on eight major industries including electronic information, electrical machinery, textiles and clothing, furniture, toys, paper and paper products, food and beverage, and chemical industry, has been formed. Industrial agglomeration is the foundation and guarantee for the development of exhibition industry in Dongguan, while GD Modern International Exhibition Center is the pioneer and leader of the mode of “exhibition in producing area” in China. In the early days, relying on the advantage of producing area, GD Modern International Exhibition Center held international famous furniture exhibitions, international famous shoe exhibitions, and achieved the leading position in the industry no matter in scale or influence. At the same time, GD Modern International Exhibition Center is not only limited to relying on local industries to organize exhibitions, but has developed an “exhibition and trade integration” model based on advanced exhibition management concepts and high-quality exhibition hall services, and has become a leading domestic Exhibition venues and exhibition host.

"Differentiated competition and coordinated development" is an important reason for the healthy development of GD Modern International Exhibition Center in the fierce competition with the domestic first-class exhibition centers such as China Import & Export Fair Complex and Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center. In recent years, GD Modern International Exhibition Center has continued to grow bigger and stronger through the introduction of brand exhibitions. China International Printing Technology Exhibition of China (Guangdong), China (Dongguan) International Textile and Clothing Industry Fair, China (Dongguan) International Footwear Machinery & Material Industry Fair, SINOCORRUGATED SOUTH, SINOFOLDINGCARTON and other international exhibitions have made great progress after landing in Dongguan. (IV) Chongqing EXPO Center

Chongqing is one of the four municipalities directly under the Central Government of China.It is not only an important food production area in the country, a commercial pork production base, but also one of China’s old industrial bases and an important modern manufacturing base in the country. The world’s largest electronics and information industry cluster and China’s largest domestic automotive industry cluster, as well as 100 billion-level industrial clusters such as equipment manufacturing, comprehensive chemicals, materials, energy and consumer goods manufacturing have been formed. It is also the world’s largest notebook computer production base, and the world’s second largest mobile phone production base. The solid industrial foundation provides unique resources for the development of the convention and exhibition industry of Chongqing. The attention and support of the municipal government provides support and guarantee for the rapid development of the Chongqing convention and exhibition industry. In 2010, Chongqing issued the Opinions on Accelerating the Development of the Convention and Exhibition Industry, which proposed to build Chongqing into a convention and exhibition capital and a regional trade and exhibition center in the upper reaches of the Yangtze River. The Chongqing EXPO Center came into being under this background.

IV. New Trend in Development and Construction of Exhibition Venues

In 2019, China’s economy has shifted from a stage of high-speed growth to a stage of high-quality development and the development direction of the exhibition venues has also shown significant changes.

First, the main body of investment and construction has changed. Due to the adjustment of the national real estate policy, the construction and operation mode of the exhibition venue authorized by the government in the past has changed. In 2019, a number of key venues have been invested by national ministries, local governments or state-backed enterprises. Historical development experience also shows that the investment and construction mode of government-enterprise market-oriented operation is more in line with the development law of exhibition industry.

Second, the region of investment and construction has changed. In 2019, both the scale and the proportion of venues in the western and northern regions have increased, which would help to change the unbalanced state of China’s overall venue resources. The site selection of the venues has also shifted from the second and third-tier cities to the key exhibition cities, especially the traditional key exhibition cities, including Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou and Shenzhen, which are either building or planning to build new venues. Traditional core exhibition cities, including Zhengzhou, Jinan, Tianjin, have also stepped up efforts to speed up the construction of venues.

Third, the competition in the management of venues has intensified, and there is a trend of differentiation. High-quality development has become a new direction for the operation of venues. Under new economic conditions, “front rank exhibition venues” are more powerful in the competition due to its large scale, advanced facilities, complete supporting facilities and high-quality services, which are easier to attract exhibition resources. It is characterized by high-quality development with more exhibition resources and higher-quality exhibitions. For the “middle rank” or “bottom rank” venues, it is even more important to focus on high-quality development, or uses differentiated competition methods, or highlights the advantages of industrial agglomeration, or creates unique competitive advantages by improving services and technological creation to create unique competitive advantage.

Fourth, scientific and technological innovation, smart venue, green venue and other development concepts have taken root, and become a new direction for venue construction. In 2019, advanced technologies such as digital technology, 5G network, artificial intelligence and face recognition have all entered or are entering the construction and operation of China's venues. China International Exhibition Center has established exhibition personnel positioning and identification system covering all venues with centimeter-level accuracy, providing technical support for audience big data service; National Convention and Exhibition Center (Shanghai) adheres to the full-cycle green and low-carbon concept in design, construction, and management, and practices environmental protection concepts in regional functional energy station, smart photovoltaic power generation, LED lighting energy saving, and exhibition waste recycling and treatment; Shenzhen World Exhibition & Convention Center has developed "Internet of Things Aggregation" system to realize smart operation monitoring, smart command and dispatch, and to guarantee the daily operation of the exhibition venue and guide business decisions; Hangzhou International Expo Center has adopted intelligent IoT control system to build smart venues, open unmanned convenience stores and smart parking payment system; Chongqing EXPO Center has used self-service rental system to implement self-service rental, service declaration and other functions. In addition, National Convention and Exhibition Center (Tianjin) signed a strategic cooperation agreement with Huawei at the beginning of construction to jointly promote the planning and construction of a smart and green National Convention and Exhibition Center. In terms of construction of smart venue and green venue, each one shows its special strength.

Fifth, the locations of venues are increasingly diversified. The diversification of market demand has led to changes in the business direction and strategy of the venues. Large exhibition venues make full use of the vacancy period to carry out diversified operations, and receive enterprises' annual meetings, theme activities, performance activities and other events, to effectively improve the utilization rate of the exhibition venues. Medium and small exhibition venues fully implement the development idea of "mutual promotion between venue and exhibition", and highlight their competitiveness in conference reception with more conference rooms, diversified conference room specifications and complete conference facilities, so as to promote and improve the level of exhibition services and realize differentiated competition. Some exhibition venues are equipped with ultra-large commercial complexes to open up various business formats such as business, culture, and tourism, and improve the service quality of the exhibition venues through multiple functions. The diversified positioning development is in line with the trend of the exhibition industry towards large-scale and specialized development, and also brings new vitality to the exhibition venues with different scales, geographical locations and target customers.

Chapter VI Development of World Exposition and China

World Exposition (hereinafter referred to as World Expo) is an important diplomatic platform for all countries to fully display their political, economic, cultural and social development achievements, strengthen mutual understanding, expand mutual exchanges, and promote mutual learning among civilizations. It plays an important role in displaying the national image, publicizing the development concept, exploring human development issues, promoting international cooperation, driving infrastructure construction, advancing economic development, strengthening cultural exchanges, enhancing people-to-people bond, demonstrating new technologies, and promoting trade and investment. As a long-time staunch supporter and active player in the World Expo, China has successfully hosted the 1999 Kunming International Horticultural Exposition, the 2010 Shanghai World Expo, and the Beijing International Horticultural Exhibition 2019. It has participated in the World Expo organized overseas for 15 times, and is actively preparing for the Expo 2020 Dubai. What the World Expo has brought to China is not only a large amount of investment and consumption in the short term or the "exhibition economy" effect in the medium to long term, but also an important platform for China to display its development achievements to the world and deliver its development concept and values.

I. Preparation Progress of China's Participation in Expo 2020 Dubai

The Dubai World Expo will be held from October 20, 2020 to April 10, 2021, which is the first World Expo to be held in Middle East. The Dubai World Expo is a registered World Expo, in the same category as the 2010 Shanghai World Expo and the Expo Milano 2015. Dubai World Expo follows the theme of "Communicating Ideas and Creating the Future", and the three sub-themes "Opportunity", "Mobility" and "Sustainability", aiming to gather strength of the international community and promote global cooperation to create a better future. The Dubai World Expo is planned to cover an area of 438 hectares and receive 25 million visitors. So far, 192 countries have confirmed their participation in the Expo.

(I) Basic information of China's participation

With the approval of the CPC Central Committee and the State Council, China Council for the Promotion of International Trade (CCPIT) will organize the China Pavilion for the Dubai World Expo. Since China started preparation for participating in the Expo in 2017, all the preparation work for the China Pavilion has been implemented smoothly with gradual progress made.

China and the UAE established a comprehensive strategic partnership in 2018 and were natural partners for jointly constructing the "Belt and Road". In order to implement the consensus reached by the heads of China and the UAE on co-organizing the Dubai World Expo, the CCPIT has worked with relevant units to stick to high standards and strict requirements in its scientific preparations for the China Pavilion. The China Pavilion will play an active role in promoting the idea of "building a community of a shared future for mankind", interpreting the opportunities brought to the world by the "Belt and Road" initiative and China's innovative development, and expressing the aspiration of the Chinese people to strengthen exchanges and cooperation with people around the world, in a bid to build a prosperous global village, and to jointly realize the sustainable development of human and nature.

In January 2017, the CPC Central Committee and the State Council approved the CCPIT to organize the China Pavilion to participate in the Dubai World Expo. In May 2017, the CCPIT submitted an official confirmation letter to the UAE, making China one of the first countries to confirm participation. In August of the same year, China selected the site with an area of 4,636m^2. In March 2018, the theme of the China Pavilion was determined to be "Building a Community of a Shared Future for Mankind - Innovation and Opportunity". In May of the same year, China and the UAE signed an exhibition participation contract. A groundbreaking ceremony of the China Pavilion was held on October 30, 2019.

In recent years, the CPC Central Committee and the State Council have attached great importance to China's participation in the World Expo. President Xi Jinping delivered a video speech for the China Pavilion at the Expo Milano 2015 and inspected the China Pavilion at the Expo 2017 Astana Exhibition. In order to make good preparations for the China Pavilion at the Dubai World Expo, the CCPIT and the Ministry of Science and Technology took the lead in establishing the Organizing Committee of the China Pavilion at the Dubai World Expo, jointly with the Publicity Department of the CPC Central Committee, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Ministry of Culture and Tourism, the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, the Ministry of Finance, and the Ministry of Commerce. The Organizing Committee of China Pavilion set up an expert committee composed of 29 well-known experts in the fields of architecture, exhibition, stage design, and technology. III Cultural Effect of the World Expo and Its Development in China

The World Expo is a grand event to showcase human civilization and a platform for gathering diverse cultures. Through the platform of the World Expo, people from all over the world can exchange ideas, appreciate colorful cultural activities, and display national cultures, which can effectively broaden the horizons of people, promote the development of creative design and diverse cultures, deepen the people-to-people bond and the integration of diverse cultures in the world, and enhance the friendship and mutual learning between people from China and other countries.

(I) Functions of the World Expo cultural effect

1. Promoting the development of creative design industry. The World Expo is the most important gathering of new ideas, new concepts, new creations, new products, and new cultures. It is a stage to display creativity, with great opportunities brought by the successful hosting of the World Expo for the development of creative design. From the international experience, each successful World Expo will greatly promote the development of creative design in the host country, especially the host city. The technologies and products displayed will promote the creative design of the advanced technology and the products in the host place; the most advanced pavilion design concept can promote the development of the architectural design industry of the sponsor. Another specific embodiment of the World Expo promotion on the cultural and creative industry in Shanghai is that a number of cultural and creative industry clusters with relatively complete industrial chains have landed on both sides of the Huangpu River. The core areas of the World Expo, and the riverside areas of Xuhui, Huangpu, Hongkou, Yangpu and other areas have all been planned to develop the cultural and creative industry, and both sides of the Huangpu River have become important growth poles for the cultural and creative industry of Shanghai.

2. Realizing multicultural communication and integration. The most important function of the World Expo is that it can make civilizations of an era highly concentrated, gather those sporadic, scattered, and imperfect things of the same kind together through the theme, and make them more well-developed and systematic, even artistic; it also can bring together people's common concerns and related solutions and vividly demonstrate them, so as to inspire the greatest enlightenment. In terms of material culture, the World Expo reflects the "foreign cultural exhibitions"; in terms of institutional culture, the World Expo contains "signing intergovernmental cultural exchange agreements", "concluding cultural treaties", and "participating in international cultural conferences"; in terms of behavioral culture, the World Expo embodies the "folk custom communication"; in terms of spiritual culture, the World Expo comprises "art performances" and "scientific and technological exchanges".

3. Promoting prosperity and development of diverse cultures. What the World Expo shows to the world is not only the material things, but also the humanistic spirit of cities. Different countries, cities, and enterprises, while bringing different achievements in science, technology and economic development, also bring different cultures and humanistic spirits. For example, different pavilions present different architectural styles, and each type of architectural culture contains a profound cultural deposits, solidifying the image of the city; different countries have different national cultures, and the deep-rooted national spirit will be reflected in the exhibits of each participating country, covering every corner of their pavilions; participating countries from all over the world also bring different ecological cultures, and the irreproducible original ecological cultural elements form a major attraction of the World Expo. During the preparation of the World Expo, the sponsor of the contemporary World Expo will introduce internationally accepted channels, globally familiar languages, and cross-border and cross-system cooperation to bridge cultural differences and build a dynamic and open global cultural system. Participation in the World Expo means to seize the opportunity of global cooperation, grasp the latest cultural trend, connect the progressive cultural forms, accumulate the international operation experience of cultural industries, build a good cultural image and reputation, and improve the attraction of self culture.

4. Facilitating exchange and communication of people around the world. The World Expo is a real party for people around the world, as it provides ordinary people with a unique opportunity to better understand other countries and their people and to facilitate the interpersonal communication. People around the world communicate on the basis of culture in an equal, friendly and emotional way. Nationalities show a variety of national arts and develop various levels of talks with civilized etiquette. Shanghai World Expo organized "Nation, Custom and Folk" series activities to apply various forms such as stage performance, activities on the squares and tour to intensively show national, custom and folk culture with local features in the world, including the intangible cultural heritage, and to promote the dialogue, exchange and integration of different nationalities.

5. Enhancing amplification of functions of urban cities. When the World Expo was held, landmark buildings constructed were regarded as museums or such functional museums as theme parks, tourist attractions and exhibition centers for education, communicating, popularizing and publicizing scientific and cultural knowledge, which comprehensively improved the overall function of the city. As an important component of the urban area, the Expo Park has become a strategic space for improving the service function, intensifying the cultural and social functions and optimizing the ecological functions of the city. Construction of the Expo Park directly improved the central district function, drove the infrastructure development and improved the spatial expansion capability of the city. The concepts of the World Expo also provided an important reference for urban construction.

(II) Continuous release of "Post World Expo" cultural effect

Shanghai took full advantage of the World Expo to actively and soundly exchange and interact with civilizations of countries, and the World Expo Museum provided an example for the "Post World Expo" cultural effect. The World Expo Museum (WEM), defined as the only official museum and authorized documentation center of the Bureau of International Expositions, was constructed cooperatively by the Shanghai Municipal Government and the Bureau of International Expositions and characterized as being international, unique, thematic, and sustainable. It has become a new public cultural landmark promoting the image publicity of Shanghai in 2019. It gave lectures not only in the WEM, but also in 37 schools, communities and activities of Shanghai Science Festival. Moreover, it cooperated with Beijing Auto Museum and Yangzhou Museum to give 124 lectures to 14,430 students. It continued to cooperate with the public welfare institution We Kids to offer 45 online lessons to 994 students in Mayao Primary School, a poverty-stricken school in Gansu, and Henan Primary School. Lectures were given creatively in the form of broadcasting teaching for the deaf-mute and blind children and students.

The museum-school co-construction coverage was enlarged. It is necessary to scientifically deal with competition and cooperation among large-scale activities to continuously improve the professional level of such activities.

Chapter VII New Developments in Government-led Exhibitions

"Government-led exhibitions" refer to exhibitions hosted by governments at all levels or signed by government departments. In current China, the number and area of such exhibitions are about 15% and 20% respectively (based on the calculations of data from China Exhibition Economic Development Report 2018, 2018 China Exhibition Data Statistics Report, and Analysis Report of China's Exhibition Institutions above Designated Size (12th Edition)). However, the social influence of such exhibitions is always the most important, which has become one of the Chinese characteristics of the exhibition industry.

I. New cognition: The new era endows the government-led exhibition with new mission 2019 marks the 70th anniversary of the founding of the People's Republic of China. As for the history of new China, General Secretary Xi Jinping has pointed out that the two historical periods before and after the reform and opening up are both interrelated and significantly different, both are essentially the practice and exploration of the socialist construction led by the Communist Party of China. In fact, China's government-led exhibition is also part of the practical exploration.

(I) Two important government-led exhibition projects in the 1950s

In 1952, the Chinese government decided to build Soviet-style exhibition venues in Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou, and Wuhan, and held exhibitions on the achievements of Soviet economic and cultural construction to learn from the experience of Soviet socialist construction. This is an important start for the Chinese government-led exhibition.

In October 1954, Chairman Mao Zedong and other national leaders came to visit the Soviet exhibition in Beijing and wrote inscriptions. Then, the exhibition venues in Beijing and Shanghai have been preserved, and they are still important exhibition places today.

In November 1956, Ministry of Foreign Trade and Guangdong Provincial People's Committee held China Export Commodities Exhibition in Guangzhou China-Soviet Friendship Building in the name of China Council for the Promotion of International Trade. This was an exploration of foreign exchange with the consent of Premier Zhou Enlai; it also laid the foundation for the first China Import and Export Fair (Canton Fair), which was held in April 1957 five months later.

By October 2019, the Canton Fair had been held for 126 sessions without interruption, making it the largest exhibition in the world. Canton Fair has been organized by Ministry of Foreign Trade (Ministry of Commerce) and the Guangdong Provincial People's Committee (Guangdong Provincial People's Government).

(II) Government-led exhibitions echo the process of reform and opening up

In October 1978, the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade held a foreign agricultural machinery exhibition in Beijing. To this end, Ministry of Foreign Trade, State Development Planning Commission and Ministry of Foreign Affairs have jointly sought instructions from the State Council and obtained the consent of leaders of all countries. The exhibition was attended by more than 320 manufacturers from 12 countries, visited by more than 300,000 professional visitors, and purchased more than 700 sets of equipment, with great success. It was held on the eve of the Third Plenary Session of the 11th Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party. Therefore, the exhibition witnessed the start of reform and opening up.

In July 1987, three provinces in the northeast of China and the people's governments of the Inner Mongolia Autonomous Region jointly held an export commodity fair in Dalian. This is the first export fair besides the Canton Fair (i.e., the "Small Fair"). Since then, small trade fairs, investment fairs and other activities held by local governments have sprung up, forming a new upsurge of government-led exhibitions.

In June 1990, the People's Government of Heilongjiang Province held China-Soviet Union and Eastern European Economic and Trade Fair, which is the predecessor of Harbin Foreign Economic and Trade Fair (Harbin Fair) and China-Russia Expo, the first event held by China mainly for specific countries and regions.

In 1999, the Chinese government held A1 World Horticultural Exposition in Kunming, and in 2010 it held a comprehensive world exposition in Shanghai, all reaching the new height of the expo in this category and marking the great success of China's reform and opening up. In 2019, China Beijing World Horticultural Exposition further demonstrated China's great vision of deepening reform and opening up to build a community of shared future for mankind.

(III) The new mission and cognition of government-led exhibition in the new era

Since the 18th National Congress of the Communist Party of China, in accordance with the Eight Regulations of the Central Committee and relevant regulations on organizing exhibition activities by government agencies, the Party Central Committee has strictly regulated the management of government-led exhibitions and promoted the reform and innovation of government-led exhibition.

In April 2015, the State Council issued Several Opinions on Further Promoting the Reform and Development of Exhibition Industry (the State Council [2015] No. 15). The document clearly states that the role of the exhibition industry in stabilizing growth, promoting reform, restructuring, and benefiting people's livelihood must be brought into full play, serving the overall national economic and social development; We should also give full play to the decisive role of the market in allocating resources and give better play to the role of the government. Therefore, China's government-led exhibition has entered a new stage of development.

In October 2016, President Xi Jinping and Premier Li Keqiang sent congratulatory letters and instructions to the 120th Canton Fair, stating that under the new situation, the Canton Fair should innovate institutional mechanisms, business models, improve service levels, and better play the role of an all-round open platform, making new contributions to the development of China's open economy and open world economy. It indicates directions for the new development of Canton Fair.

On April 10, 2018, President Xi Jinping said in the keynote speech of Boao Forum for Asia that we would host the first China International Import Expo in Shanghai. This is a large platform and it will continue to be held year after year. This is not a general exhibition, but a major policy announcement and action of our initiative to open up the market. It can be seen that such a major government-led exhibition project as "CIIE" bears heavy responsibility.

In September 2018, President Xi Jinping proposed in the congratulatory letter to the 20th China International Fair for Investment and Trade that it should be committed to building three platforms of "two-way investment promotion, authoritative information release and investment trend discussion", creating international, professional brand through intensive cultivation. Once again, the effectiveness of government-led exhibitions was clarified.

Since 2019, President Xi Jinping has repeatedly sent congratulatory letters to China International Big Data Industry Expo, China International Fair for Trade in Services, the first China-Africa Economic and Trade Expo, the twelfth China-Northeast Asia Expo, the fourth China-Arab States Expo, World Manufacturing Convention, China International Digital Economy Expo, China Marine Economy Expo and other government-led exhibitions, putting forward to make good use of these platforms, promote the implementation of the "Belt and Road" Initiative, strive to build the community with shared future for mankind. In this way, the mission and responsibility of government-led exhibitions in the new era will become more prominent.

Case 7-1: the twelfth China-Northeast Asia Expo reached a new level and made new achievements

The twelfth China-Northeast Asia Expo was held in Changchun, Jilin Province from 23 August to 27 August 2019. The Expo is co-hosted by Ministry of Commerce, National Development and Reform Commission, China Council for the Promotion of International Trade, and People's Government of Jilin Province, and organized by eight important business associations from five other northeast Asian countries and the trilateral cooperation secretariat of China, Japan and Korea. It is also the only international comprehensive exposition in the world with the participation of six Northeast Asian countries and opening to the world. President Xi Jinping sent a congratulatory letter for the opening of the expo, which greatly encouraged everyone. This expo has reached a new level and made new achievements.

First, it builds consensus on regional development through high-level dialogue. The main forum of the Expo- the Tenth Northeast Asian Cooperation High-level Forum has put forward four suggestions and issued Changchun Declaration, which has won the recognition of all parties.

Second, the theme of the exhibition is distinctive and the effect of the exhibition is wonderful. The newly-established 5G New Age Theme Pavilion at this Expo has achieved outstanding results.

Third, supporting activities are rich and colorful, with great results. The events include the 8th Northeast Asia International Painting, Calligraphy and Photography Exhibition, "Night of Northeast Asia" Chinese and Foreign Youth Singing Party, and the 4th Global Jilin Business Conference, all of which are welcomed.

Fourth, a number of major projects and cooperation agreements are signed, with more achievements than in previous years.

Case 7-2: The Fourth China-Arab States Expo Achieved Fruitful Results

The Fourth China-Arab States Expo was successfully held in Yinchuan, Ningxia, from September 5 to 8, 2019. Jointly sponsored by the Ministry of Commerce, the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade and the People's Government of the Ningxia Hui Autonomous Region, the Expo took "Renewed Friendship, Deepened Cooperation and Common Development" as the purpose and followed the theme of "New Opportunities for A New Future." The opening conference, eight exhibitions and a number of investment & trade promotion activities have been carried out. In addition, four forums and a series of theme province (Jiangsu) activities were held, which was highly supported by the relevant ministries and commissions of the state as well as the brother provinces and cities, and received enormous response from the countries and regions along the "Belt and Road". President Xi Jinping sent his Letter of Congratulations on the convening of the Expo.

The Expo has provided an effective platform for China and the Arab states to deepen practical cooperation and promote the high-quality development of the "Belt and Road" joint construction. It was attended by more than 12,600 representatives from 89 countries, 107 exhibition groups and over 2,900 regional organizations, chamber of commerce and associations, and enterprises, exceeding the previous three sessions in terms of the number of participating countries, provinces and regions and exhibition groups. A total of 362 agreements were signed, covering 287 investment and trade projects with a total amount of RMB185.42 billion; 4 cooperation achievements were published, 1 memorandum of international friendship city partnership was signed, and 70 cooperation memoranda (agreements) were signed.

II. New functions: government-led exhibition and national work

As a platform for the government to carry out its work, government-led exhibitions must serve the Party and the country's policies and the overall work. The Central Economic Working Conference in December 2018, the special seminar on preventing and defusing major risks with bottom-line thinking held by leading officials at the provincial and ministerial levels in January 2019, and the fourth plenary session of the 19th Central Committee of the Communist Party of China in October 2019 have made scientific analysis of the current situation in China and made comprehensive plans on how to deal with the crisis and challenges.

Let's take the 2019 government-led exhibition projects approved by the leading group for activities of the national seminar on cleaning up and standardizing celebrations published on the official website of Ministry of Commerce as examples to observe and analyze how these government-led exhibitions work and play a role in coordination with the central deployment.

(I) High and new technology promotes the high-quality development of manufacturing industry

Manufacturing is the backbone of real economy. The Central Economic Working Conference regards promoting the high-quality development of manufacturing as the first priority task in 2019. It requires promoting the deep integration of advanced manufacturing and modern service industries, enhancing the technological innovation capability of manufacturing, and unswervingly building a manufacturing power.

We can see the exhibitions in 2019 throughout the country: the 7th China International Technology Fair held in Shanghai in April; the 3rd World Intelligence Congress held in Tianjin in May; the 2019 China International Big Data Industry Expo held in Guiyang in May; the 23rd China International Software Expo held in Beijing in June; China International Consumer Electronics Show 2019 held in Qingdao in July; Smart China Expo 2019 held in Chongqing in August; World Manufacturing Convention held in Hefei in September; the 18th China International Equipment Manufacturing Exposition held in Shenyang in September, the 21st China International Industry Fair held in Shanghai in September, and the 9th World Robot Conference held in Beijing in September; China International Digital Economy Expo, China Ocean Economy Expo, and the 6th World Internet Conference (Exhibition) held in Shijiazhuang in October, the 5th China International Helicopter Expo held in Tianjin in October, and the first China International Rail Transit and Equipment Manufacturing Industry Expo held in Changsha in October; the 16th China Optics Valley International Optoelectronics Expo held in Wuhan in November, and the 21st China International Hi-Tech Achievements Fair held in Shenzhen in November, and other government-led exhibition projects.

The sponsors of the government-led exhibitions include National Development and Reform Commission, Ministry of Commerce, Ministry of Science and Technology, Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, National Radio and Television Administration, Intellectual Property Office, Northeast Rejuvenation Office, Cyberspace Administration of China, Chinese Academy of Sciences, Chinese Academy of Engineering, China Association for Science and Technology, the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade, and People's Governments of Beijing Municipality, Shanghai Municipality, Tianjin Municipality, Chongqing Municipality, Qingdao Municipality, Shenyang Municipality, Shenzhen Municipality, Guizhou Province, Hebei Province, Zhejiang Province, Hunan Province, AICC, the People's Liberation Army and other departments.

(II) Consumption upgrading promotes the formation of strong domestic market

The Central Economic Working Conference takes the promotion of formation of strong domestic market as the second priority task in 2019. It requires improving product quality, accelerating the development of service industries such as education, child care, pension, medical care, culture, and tourism, and improving the consumption environment.

We can see the exhibitions in 2019 throughout the country: China 2019 World Stamp Exhibition held in Wuhan in June, the 26th Beijing International Book Fair held in Beijing in August; the Ninth China International Alcoholic Drinks Expo held in Guiyang in September, and the 2019 China International Garment & Textile Fair held in Dalian in September; Care & Rehabilitation Expo China 2019 held in Beijing in October, the seventh Heilongjiang Green Food Industry Expo held in Harbin in October; 2019 China Sports Culture Expo held in Guangzhou in November, and China International Tourism Fair 2019 in Kunming in November; two session of the 28th China Food Expo & China (Wuhan) International Food Fair held in Wuhan in December and other government-led exhibitions.

The sponsors of the government-led exhibitions include Ministry of Commerce, Ministry of Science and Technology, Ministry of Culture and Tourism, General Administration of Sport of China, State Post Office, Civil Aviation Administration of China, People's Governments of Beijing Municipality, Wuhan Municipality, Guangzhou Municipality, Dalian Municipality, Harbin Municipality, Yunnan Province, Guizhou Province, and other departments.

(III) We will work harder to promote overall opening up

Promoting overall opening up is both China's established policy and another key task for 2019 proposed by the Central Economic Working Conference. To this end, the government-led exhibition will actively cooperate, and show some new characteristics.

First, create a new government-led exhibition programs. For example, in the spirit of President Xi Jinping's keynote speech at the 2018 Beijing summit of Forum on China-Africa Cooperation. People's Government of Hunan Province and Ministry of Commerce held the first China-Africa Economic and Trade Expo in Changsha from June 27 to 29, 2019. The expo has eight exhibition areas with an exhibition area of 48,000 m^2. During the expo period, China and Africa signed a total of 84 cooperation documents involving a total value of $ 20.8 billion. In addition, the first China-CEEC Expo & International Consumer Goods Fair, co-hosted by People's Government of Zhejiang Province and Ministry of Commerce, was held in Ningbo from June 8th to 12th, 2019. These are new projects focusing on specific countries and regions in the category of government-led exhibitions in China.

Second, the project upgrades to meet the new requirements. For example, China (Beijing) International Service Trade Fair was founded in May 2012, and has now been renamed (upgraded) to China Beijing International Fair for Trade in Services (CIFTIS) with the approval of the leading group for activities of the national seminar on cleaning up and standardizing celebrations, held once a year. The sponsors are still Ministry of Commerce and Beijing Municipal People's Government, further highlighting the city's positioning as the "four centers".

Third, the old project innovation rejuvenates vitality. For example, China Yiwu International Commodities Fair (Yiwu Fair) was founded in 1995 and has been hosted by Ministry of Commerce and People's Government of Zhejiang Province. It is a well-known government-led exhibition project. Since the 25th session in 2019, Standardization Administration of China (SAC) joined the sponsors and renamed it the China Yiwu International Commodities (Standardization) Fair, making it the first international exhibition in China to incorporate standardization elements and radiate vitality.

Fourth, the new development of the "Belt and Road" exhibitions. For example, in August 2019, the Fourth Silk Road (Dunhuang) International Cultural Expo hosted by People's Government of Gansu Province, Ministry of Culture and Tourism, National Radio and Television Administration, and China Council for the Promotion of International Trade was held concurrently with the 9th Dunhuang Tour-Silk Road International Tourism Festival; Over 40 days, 23 theme activities and 30 sub-activities were held in 14 cities and prefectures in the province, reaching a new height and level.

(IV) We'll work hard to eradicate poverty and advance the strategy of rural revitalization

"Poverty alleviation" is one of the three major uphill battles in China. Promoting the strategy of rural revitalization is one of the key tasks of the country in 2019. There is a correlation between the two, and both are important issues that governments at all levels pay close attention to. The following are a number of representative government-led exhibition projects.

All-China Federation of Returned Overseas Chinese, State Administration for Market Regulation, All-China Federation of Industry and Commerce, Qinghai Provincial People's Government, Hong Kong Federation of Trade Unions held the 20th Qinghai China Investment & Trade Fair for Green Development in Xining City (main venue) and Haixi Prefecture (branch venue) from June 20 to 23, 2019.

People's Government of Gansu Province, Health Commission, and Administration of Traditional Chinese Medicine have held the second China (Gansu) Traditional Chinese Medicine Industry Expo in Dingxi City, Gansu Province from August 22 to 24, 2019.

Ministry of Civil Affairs, State-owned Assets Supervision and Administration Commission, Poverty Alleviation Office of the State Council, All-China Federation of Industry and Commerce, the Red Cross Society of China, the People's Governments of Guangdong and Shenzhen, and China Charity Alliance held the 7th China Charity Fair in Shenzhen from September 20th to 22nd, 2019.

Ministry of Commerce, Ministry of Science and Technology, Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs, the Forestry and Grassland Administration, Intellectual Property Office, Chinese Academy of Sciences, and Shaanxi Provincial People's Government held the 26th China Yangling Agricultural Hi-Tech Fair in Yangling Demonstration Zone, Shaanxi Province from October 22 to 26, 2019.

Forestry and Grassland Administration, Xinjiang Uygur Autonomous Region and Guangdong Provincial People's Government held the 2nd China Xinjiang Special Forestry and Fruit Products Expo in Guangzhou from November 8-10, 2019.

Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs, Cyberspace Administration of China, and Jiangsu Provincial People's Government held the 2019 National New Farmers &New Technology Entrepreneurship and Innovation Expo in Nanjing from November 19 to 22, 2019.

Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs, China Council for the Promotion of International Trade, Federation of Supply and Marketing Cooperatives, and People's Government of Hainan Province held the 2019 China (Hainan) International Tropical Agricultural Products Winter Trade Fair in Haikou, Hainan Province from December 12 to 15, 2019.

(V) Promote self-owned brand products through exhibition

Since the reform and opening up, the awareness of Chinese brand has been increasing; after the 18th National Congress of the Communist Party of China, Chinese independent brands have achieved faster development. On May 10, 2014, General Secretary Xi Jinping proposed: Promote the transformation of Chinese manufacturing to Chinese creation, Chinese speed to Chinese quality, and Chinese products to Chinese brands. On April 24, 2017, the State Council agreed to designate May 10 as "China brand day" from 2017. On March 21, 2018, National Development and Reform Commission and other six departments jointly released the logo of "China Brand Day".

On May 10, 2019, Exposition on China Indigenous Brand was held in Shanghai for the second consecutive year. The sponsors are: National Development and Reform Commission, Ministry of Publicity, Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs, Ministry of Commerce, State Administration for Market Regulation, Shanghai Municipal Peoples Government. In the exhibition part, there were 13 self-owned brand consumer goods display areas, covering an area of 20,000 m^2, which is open to the public free of charge, achieving the purpose of vigorously promoting the self-owned brand.

(VI) Large achievements have been displayed to inspire the national spirit

2019 marks the 70th anniversary of the founding of the People's Republic of China. A series of celebrations and achievement shows were held around the 70th anniversary of National Day, which greatly inspired and invigorated the national spirit. Among them, the "Great Journey, Brilliant Achievements- Large-Scale Achievement Exhibition Celebrating the 70th Anniversary of the Founding of the People's Republic of China" is a typical government-led exhibition project.

Its sponsors are: National Development and Reform Commission, Publicity Department of the CPC Central Committee, the Political Work Department of Military Commission; the organizers are: CMG, CCTV; the location is: Beijing Exhibition Center; exhibition time: September 24, 2019 to December 31, 2019; It is free and open to the public.

During visiting, President Xi Jinping said that it is necessary to show and publicize the magnificent development process, brilliant achievements, and valuable experience and inspiration of New China to inspire the people of the whole country and all ethnic groups to unite more closely with the Party as core, hold high the great banner of socialism with Chinese characteristics, and forge ahead with unity and determination.

Thereby, we recall that in September 2017, the eve of the 19th National Congress of the Communist Party of China, a large achievement exhibition entitled "Five Years of Sheer Endeavor" was also held at Beijing Exhibition Center. During his visit, President Xi Jinping said that it is necessary to widely publicize the lively practices, major achievements, and valuable experiences of the development of the Party and the country since the 18th National Congress of the Communist Party, following the main theme and promoting positive energy. In November 2018, a major exhibition celebrating the 40th anniversary of reform and opening up was held at National Museum in Beijing. When visiting the exhibition, President Xi Jinping said that through the exhibition, we should educate and guide cadres and the masses to better understand the great power of CPC, Chinese people and socialism with Chinese characteristics.

Therefore, in China, the large-scale achievement exhibition has indeed played an indelible and important role in publicizing and educating cadres and the masses, and inspiring the national spirit.

Case 7-3: The Transformation and Upgrading of China Processing Trade Products Fair

China Processing Trade Products Fair (CPTPF) is co-hosted by Ministry of Commerce, State Intellectual Property Office, and People's Government of Guangdong Province, and organized by Department of Commerce of Guangdong Province, and Dongguan Municipal People's Government.

The predecessor of CPTPF is Guangdong Foreign Investment Enterprise Products (Domestic Sales) Expo, founded in 2009; the sponsor is People's Government of Guangdong Province; its main orientation is domestic and foreign trade professional annual exhibition. At that time, the purpose of the establishment is to solve the problem that the amount of import orders of a large number of Dongguan processing enterprises has decreased sharply due to the international financial crisis. In 2012, Ministry of Commerce, as the sponsor, upgraded it to a national exhibition and renamed it as "China Processing Trade Products Fair".

With the transformation & upgrading and continuous development of CPTPF, it has now become an important platform for Ministry of Commerce to promote the development of processing trade; Together with China Import and Export Fair (Canton Fair) as a platform to promote the development of trade in goods, China International Fair for Investment and Trade (CIFIT) as a platform for investment and trade development, and China (Shanghai) International Fair (CSITF) as a platform to promote the development of technology trade, China International Service Fair for Trade in Services (CIFTIS), as a platform to promote the development of service trade, they have become an important force to promote the development of China's foreign trade.

Case 7-4: Innovation of China (Dongying) International Petroleum and Petrochemical Equipment & Technology Exhibition

The 12th China (Dongying) International Petroleum and Petrochemical Equipment & Technology Exhibition was held at the Yellow River International Convention and Exhibition Center in Dongying from September 26 to 28, 2019. The sponsors are China Council for the Promotion of International Trade and People's Government of Shandong Province. This is one project in Shandong Province among the key exhibitions launched by China Council for the Promotion of International Trade in cooperation with various provinces and municipalities across the country. China Council for the Promotion of International Trade participates in project approval, overall planning, important control and opening activities.

The innovation point of the exhibition is to further improve the degree of market operation; the positioning of "building international petrochemical equipment and technology exhibition, and promoting the local petroleum equipment industry technology upgrade" is more clear-cut. For example, in the light of the new development trends of oil industry, the "Shale Gas Exploration and Development Summit" has been arranged, and tangible results have been achieved.

Beijing Zhenwei Exhibition Co., Ltd. is the organization and operation unit of the exhibition. It has rich experience in the operation of professional exhibitions to achieve win-win results.

III. New lead: government-led exhibition drives the development of exhibition industry

The practice shows that the purpose of the government-led exhibition is to promote important tasks, and the effect is very obvious. At the same time, with its huge social influence, government exhibitions can also play an important role in leading, demonstrating and promoting China's exhibition industry in the development process.

Of course, the operation of government-led exhibition needs a large amount of financial funds, which is very different from the market-oriented exhibition project. Document No. 15 of the State Council was established in the Development Goals to clarify the relationship between the government and the market, to standardize government-led exhibitions and reduce the quantity; to clarify the "reform management system", to strictly regulate the behavior of government-led exhibitions at all levels, and to reduce financial contributions and administrative participation , gradually increase the government's efforts to purchase services from the society, and establish government-led exhibition exit mechanism. The leading group for activities of the national seminar on cleaning up and standardizing celebrations also requires reducing the total number of government-led exhibitions, and giving the corresponding time and scheduling requirements. These are both the pressure on the government-led exhibition organizers, and the impetus for reform and innovation.

(I) Government-led exhibitions have greatly enhanced the status of the exhibition industry

After China entered WTO, the concept of "exhibition industry" came into being. The national standard of National Industries Classification released in 2001 defined "conference and exhibition service industry" as a "small industry" in the category of commercial and trade service industry for the first time. However, with the continuous increase in the quantity, scale and effect of Chinese exhibitions, and the successful hosting of a number of Chinese home-field diplomatic events, the establishment and development of a number of national and international exhibitions that undertake institutional missions, especially President Xi Jinping sending congratulatory letters and instructions to a number of important government exhibition projects have made government-led exhibitions highly recognized and praised by the society, thereby greatly improving the status of the exhibition industry.

The national standard of National Industries Classification released in 2017 upgraded "conference and exhibition service industry" from "small industry" to "medium industry", which fully affirmed the development of China's exhibition industry. Governments at all levels also attach great importance to major exhibition activities held in their regions and cities. We have actively invested in the construction of a number of large venues and facilities, and the exhibition industry and government-led exhibitions are facing unprecedented opportunities.

(II) Various provinces and cities quickly formed local exhibition flagship projects

By 2019, all provinces and cities in China have formed flagship exhibition projects focusing on government-led exhibitions. These exhibitions are co-hosted projects by national ministries and commissions, CCPIT, and provincial and municipal governments. There are six categories:

First, economic and trade cooperation expos targeting specific countries and regions (such as China-ASEAN Expo, China-Northeast Asia Expo, China-Eurasia Expo).

Second, trade fairs dominated by specific trade categories (such as Canton Fair, CIIE, CIFTIS and CPTPF).

Third, exhibitions with emerging high-tech themes (such as Guiyang Big Data Industry Expo, Chongqing Intelligent Manufacturing Expo, Nanchang VR Industry Expo, Shijiazhuang CIDEE).

Fourth, exhibitions in which remote provinces can exploit their industrial advantages (such as Qinghai International Tibetan Tapestry Expo, Tibet Tourism Expo).

Fifth, special exhibitions (for example, the International Commodity Fair to be established in Hainan according to the central document, China-Africa Economic and Trade Fair, which has been implemented).

Sixth, culture and tourism exhibitions (such as China (Shenzhen) International Cultural Industry Expo and Trade Fair, China International Travel Mart).

(III) The development of government-led exhibition promotes the development of exhibition enterprises

First, by organizing government exhibitions, a number of large state-owned exhibition enterprises have strengthened their strength. For example, China Foreign Trade Group Corporation, which hosts the Canton Fair, Donghao Lansheng Convention and Exhibition Group Co., Ltd., which was developed based on Shanghai World Expo Group, and China International Exhibition Group Corporation, which relies on China International Exhibition Center.

Second, with the reform and innovation of government-led exhibition, a number of new state-controlled exhibition companies or mixed-owner exhibition companies have been born. For example, Beichen Convention and Exhibition Group relying on National Convention Center, Guangxi International Expo Group transformed by Guangxi Expo Affairs Bureau, Oriental Global International Exhibition Group Co., Ltd. relying on Kunming Dianchi Expo Center, Xinjiang Asia-Europe International Expo Co., Ltd. jointly funded by Xinjiang International Expo Affairs Bureau, Tianjin Zhenwei Exhibition Co., Ltd., and Beijing Space Idea Cultural and Creative Industries Group.

Third, a group of private exhibition companies have been developed by organizing service outsourcing tasks of government-led exhibitions. For example, Jinnuo Exhibition Co., Ltd., which has been hosting Shenyang

Manufacturing Expo for many years, and Zhenwei Exhibition Group, which has organized more than 40 government-led exhibition projects across the country.

(IV) Government-led exhibition innovation brings new experience for industry development

The new experience explored and accumulated by government-led exhibitions in the process of innovation and development is also a valuable asset to the development of China's exhibition industry.

For example, in terms of the combination of comprehensive exhibition and professional exhibition, China-ASEAN EXPO is developing towards the establishment of multiple professional exhibitions under the expo category after years of exploration. Among them, the 2019 China-ASEAN Expo Tourism Exhibition was held in Guilin; the 2019 China-ASEAN Expo Cultural Exhibition, the 2019 China-ASEAN Expo Forest Products and Wood Products / Woodworking Machinery / Custom Furniture Exhibition, the 2019 China-ASEAN Expo Light Industry Exhibition were held in Nanning. Therefore, the cooperation effect between China and ASEAN countries has been enhanced.

For example, since its establishment in 1999, China International Industry Fair has been cooperating with Hannover Fairs International GmbH to complement each other's advantages. In 2019, China and Germany successfully expanded China International Industry Fair project to Chengdu and Shenzhen. They hold China International (Southwestern Region) Industry Fair and the China International (Southern China Region) Industry Fair, respectively, to achieve expansion.

Case 7-5: "China International Rail Transit and Equipment Manufacturing Industry Expo" was successfully held

As the only national international professional exhibition in China's rail transit equipment manufacturing field, the 2019 China International Rail Transit and Equipment Manufacturing Industry Expo (Rail Transit Expo) was held in Changsha on October 18, 2019. Its sponsors are: China Council for the Promotion of International Trade and People's Government of Hunan Province. Government agencies, business associations and enterprises from 21 countries and regions including Germany, France, the United States, the United Kingdom and Japan participated in the expo, with a total of more than 2,500 participants, an exhibition area of 54,000 m^2 and 100,000 professional visitors.

Hunan is China's largest R & D and manufacturing base for rail transit equipment, which basically covers all areas of the industry and forms a complete industrial chain with an annual output value of nearly RMB200 billion. Holding rail transit exhibition will greatly promote the scientific research and production and international cooperation of the national rail transit equipment industry. It is a typical case of industrial exhibitions to promote industrial development; it is also another successful case of cooperation between China Council for the Promotion of International Trade and provincial and urban governments.

Case 7-6: Service Outsourcing of "Manufacturing Expo"

China International Equipment Manufacturing Exposition (Shenyang Manufacturing Expo) was founded in 2002. The sponsors are: Ministry of Commerce, National Development and Reform Commission, Ministry of Science and Technology, Northeast Rejuvenation Office, China Council for the Promotion of International Trade, and the Liaoning Provincial People's Government.

The exhibition area of 2019 18th Shenyang Manufacturing Expo reached 120,000 m², with nearly 1,000 exhibitors and more than 4,000 booths. Among them: more than 1,400 booths for overseas and foreign-funded enterprises; nearly 160,000 visitors from 16 countries and regions and over 7,000 overseas buyers. During the exhibition, 112 economic and trade cooperation agreements were signed, with a total value of nearly RMB1 billion.

The large-scale international industrial exhibition has been carrying out reform and innovation exploration in project operation, and has gained many valuable experiences. Shenyang Manufacturing Expo has begun to explore marketization since the third session. First, it established a joint venture exhibition company with Singapore, which was commissioned by the government and compensated with fund; the fourth to ninth sessions were hosted by state-owned exhibition companies; since the tenth session, with five sessions as a cycle, it has opened to the whole society for public bidding to outsource the exhibition works. Qingdao Jinnuo International Exhibition Company has won the bid since then.

The Manufacturing Expo also made use of the power of think tanks for many times to consult and diagnose the management and operation of the project, and assisted Jinnuo company to do a good job in contracting services, all of which achieved good results.

IV. New exploration: give full play to Chinese characteristics and strengths

Looking into the future, it is believed that government-led exhibitions, as one of the Chinese characteristics of the exhibition industry, will maintain the quantity and continue to develop in the process of reform and innovation. Therefore, to give full play to the characteristics and advantages of the government-led exhibition is not only a part of the topic, but also a major subject that needs to be constantly summarized and explored.

First of all, we must further clarify and affirm that the government-led exhibitions in our country have the important effects of reflecting the will of the country, serving the development strategy, building a communication platform, and assisting the government work. Therefore, certain financial funding is absolutely necessary.

Second, according to the principle of "giving full play to the decisive role of the market in resource allocation and giving better play to the role of the government", the operation of government-led exhibition projects should be more professional and market-based, so as to continuously improve the use efficiency of government funds.

Third, with more available resources, the government-led exhibition should be more excellent and have more comprehensive benefits, efficiency and effect. Therefore, government-led exhibition should play a leading and exemplary role in the exhibition industry. It should not compete with non-government exhibition projects in the market.

In the end, by purchasing services, government-led exhibition has realized the mode of "letting professional people do professional things", which is an effective method of operation and worth spreading. However, in the related contract, bid evaluation, procurement, allocation and other working links, there is much content need to be summarized, analyzed and discussed.

Exhibition industry belongs to modern service industry and is also an important means of cultural communication. We must follow the spirit of General Secretary Xi Jinping's speech at the publicizing working conference, and insist on "holding the flag, gathering the people, cultivating new people, promoting culture, and displaying the image" under the leadership of the Communist Party of China. And that's the advantage of Chinese government-led exhibition.

Case 7-7: The second China International Import Expo Was A Complete Success, Becoming Better and Better

The 2nd China International Import Expo (2nd CIIE) was held at the National Exhibition and Convention Center (Shanghai) from November 5 to 10, 2019. This is the highest-level government-led exhibition in our country.

According to President Xi Jinping's announcement, China started to host the CIIE in 2018. President Xi Jinping presided over the meeting of the Central Leading Group for Comprehensive Deepening Reform, and reviewed and approved the Overall Plan of China International Import Expo. The sponsors of CIIE are Ministry of Commerce and Shanghai Municipal Peoples Government. Ministry of Commerce has established China International Import Expo Bureau as the organizer. After the first session of CIIE, President Xi Jinping further put forward the requirement of "doing better and better".

The second session of CIIE has made new efforts: the area of national pavilion has been expanded and more countries have participated, and enterprises have set up experience area, activity area, negotiation area and release area. All of them have reached new level and new height.

Shanghai has arranged 13 key projects for the second CIIE. Design and optimize the logo inside the venue of CIIE; provide dry and wet garbage cans according to standards; Increase fire control and security facilities; all of which have achieved good results.

In his keynote speech at the opening ceremony of the second CIIE, President Xi Jinping said that last year, at the first session, he announced five measures to expand China's opening up to the outside world and put forward three requirements for further opening up in Shanghai. Over the past year, these opening-up measures have been basically implemented.

The transaction volume of the second CIIE has a new increase over the first one; in the meanwhile, the Second Hongqiao International Economic Forum was also organized in accordance with the requirements of "doing better and better" and achieved new success.

Chapter VIII Research on the Capitalization Operation of Chinese Exhibition Industry

China's economy has shifted from a high-speed growth stage to a high-quality development stage, which is a new feature of China's economic development in the new era. As the exhibition industry serves as an emerging industry, a sunrise industry, and a strategic leading industry in China, its high-quality development has become a new concept. To achieve high-quality development, capital operation is indispensable. In this chapter, staged analysis has been conducted mainly on the capital operation of China's exhibition industry in the "plane-group" stage, especially the "group" in recent ten years, from the two dimensions of time and characteristics and in combination with the "point-line-plane-group" four industrial evolution stages summarized for the 40 years of reform and opening up of China's MICE industry. According to the research on the characteristics of the four stages of capital operation in the development of China's exhibition industry, it is believed that the industry and capital complement each other and are linked to each other. Through the interaction between industrial development and capital operation and relying on the capital potential energy, the upgrade of industrial structure can be promoted, so as to realize the capital operation of increasing industrial value. The combination of industry and capital will become one of the new driving forces to advance the high-quality development of China's exhibition industry.

I. Background of the Capitalization Operation of Chinese Exhibition Industry

Under the background of global economic downturn, with increasing uncertainties in global economic development, and continual trade wars, financial wars and scientific and technological wars between China and the United States, the Chinese exhibition industry has held a series of diplomatic activities at home to further advance the "Belt and Road" Initiative. In particular, the successful holding of the second "China International Import Expo" in 2019 has enabled the exhibition industry to play a more active role in stabilizing domestic demand, stimulating consumption, and expanding opening to the outside world. The exhibition has become an important platform for building a modern market system and an open economic system, and it has become a main place for great power diplomacy and an important policy tool for economic development.

Exhibition is a staged result of social and economic development. Since joining WTO in 2000, China has accelerated the pace of opening up to the outside world and has showed the active demand of the economic market. The prosperity and development of all walks of life have prompted China's exhibition industry to present a beautiful 40-year progressively increasing curve, reflecting the characteristics that "the MICE economy is a derivative industry of the main industry"[①] . At the same time, the exhibition industry has the characteristics of a shorter core industry chain and a longer extended industry chain. After 40 years of development and under the leadership of the government, various industry factors have been rapidly allocated, and the exhibition industry chain has been quickly opened up, forming an interdependent industry, promoting China's MICE industry to quickly enter the "pre-industrialization period" of order-of-magnitude growth and scale development, and having leaped a hundred years of development process in developed western exhibition countries. This is the historical background that capital can intervene in China's exhibition industry.

There are various definitions of capital operation, which is defined as follows: Capital operation is a mode of operation that realizes value increment and benefit growth by buying and selling enterprises and assets. It mainly contains three types: First, listed and issued stocks, issued bonds (including convertible corporate bonds), rights issue, additional issuance of new shares, transfer of equity, distribution of bonus shares, conversion of share capital, share repurchase (reduction of registered capital); second, combination, trusteeship, acquisition, merger, division, venture capital and private placement; third, asset reorganization, divestiture, replacement, sale and transfer of corporate assets, or combination, trusteeship, acquisition, merger and division of enterprises, so as to achieve the improvement of capital structure or debt structure and lay the foundation for the fundamental goal of capital operation.

The exhibition industry in any country cannot be separated from capital operation in the process of upgrading from a larger to a stronger industry. Compared with the past 40 years, the current Chinese exhibition industry is unprecedentedly attractive to capital, developing from nothing, which has entered a small climax of capital operation.

In order to clearly illustrate the evolution characteristics of capital operation in the development of China's exhibition industry, staged analysis has been conducted mainly on the capital operation of China's exhibition industry in the "plane-group" stage, especially the "group" in recent ten years, from the two dimensions of time and characteristics and in combination with the "point-line-plane-group" four industrial evolution stages summarized for the 40 years of reform and opening up of China's MICE industry.

II. Four Stage Characteristics of Capitalization Operation of the Chinese Exhibition Industry

(I) "Zero" state of capital operation in the initial period of the exhibition industry (1978-1988)

The Third Plenary Session of the Eleventh Central Committee convened in 1978 has brought China into a ① Opinions on "Convention and exhibition economy is the derivative industry of main industries" are referred to Ying Lijun. Opinions on Convention and Exhibition Economy. China's Convention and Exhibition Economy and Industry in the 21st Century [M]. Chongqing: Chongqing University Press, 2003-3.

new era of reform and opening-up and the socialist modernization. The "Canton Fair" started from 1978 has opened up a channel for communication with the world, by which, mainland commodities can be exported overseas through Hong Kong. According to related reports, about 70% of China's foreign trade orders come from the "Canton Fair". Therefore, in the initial stage of China's reform and opening up, the exhibition industry has the characteristics of "point opening". This "point" mainly refers to "a major exhibition", that is, the "China Import and Export Fair" (Canton Fair). At this time, capital operation in China is at a "zero" starting point.

(II) Linear development period of capital operation in the rising stage of the exhibition industry (1989-1998)

1989-1998 is the rising decade of reform and opening up of China's MICE industry. Following the "Canton Fair" in Guangzhou, and the Xiamen 9.8 "China International Fair for Investment & Trade (CIFIT)" ②, the CIFIT for the purpose of attracting investment by the government surges. "Holding an exhibition will advance a city" then becomes a new driving force for the reform and opening up in various provincial capitals and central cities. Relying on Beijing's status as the national political, economic and cultural center and Shanghai's development prospects as an international city, and the MICE economy develops rapidly. "Guangzhou, Beijing and Shanghai" have become three emerging MICE central cities, forming a "three-line parallel" development trend in the national exhibition industry.

At the beginning of the tide of this industry, capital and the development of the industry develops in the same direction, and the "linear" breakthrough has also begun. Foreign capital has entered the Chinese exhibition industry through equity joint ventures and direct investment. For example, the Jiangsu International Exhibition Co., Ltd., established on April 1984, which is affiliated to the Jiangsu Sub-Council of CCPIT, and the American Suxing Company jointly established Jiangsu International Exhibition Decoration Engineering Co., Ltd. in 1992, and both participated in the establishment of Jiangsu East-High International Group in 1999. In 1998, China International Exhibition Center Group (CIEC Group), the first grouped international professional exhibition company in China's exhibition industry, was established, with equity investment from the United States and Hong Kong among its wholly-owned, holding and joint-stock joint ventures. The development of these leading enterprises in the exhibition industry is all related to capital operation and has become an important market force to promote the continuous development of the exhibition industry in China.

② China International Fair for Investment and Trade (hereinafter referred to as CIFIT) The China International Fair for Investment and Trade (hereinafter referred to as CIFIT), approved by the State Council of the People's Republic of China and established in 1997, takes place in September 8 to 11 every year in Xiamen, China. Themed on "Introducing FDI" and "Going Global", CIFIT focuses on nationality and internationality, investment negotiation and investment policy promotion, coordinated development of national and regional economy, as well as economic and trade exchanges across the Taiwan Strait. CIFIT is currently China's only international investment promotion event aimed at facilitating bilateral investment. It's also the largest global investment event approved by the Global Association of the Exhibition industry.

(III) Sailing period of capital operation in the scale development stage of the exhibition industry (1999-2008)

The third stage, starting with the 1999 Kunming International Horticultural Exposition and ending with the 2008 Beijing Olympic Games, is an important stage in the economic development of China's MICE industry. During the ten years, the MICE industry, known as the "model of industry development" and the "barometer" of economic development, on the one hand, has begun to play an important role in guiding the allocation of market resources, highly connecting various industries, and promoting the development of relevant industries, on the other hand, has promoted the rapid growth of China's economy and the further opening-up and development of the trade market. In addition, China's MICE industry has entered a period of scale development from the initial stage. Focusing on the specific needs of serving the organization and service of MICE activities, a preliminary industrial chain has been formed, including the organizing chain at the upstream, the venue chain at the midstream, and the professional service chain at the downstream, forming a "preindustrial" development state with scale aggregation development. Therefore, this stage is simply referred to as the "planar-aggregation stage".

From the perspective of the industrial chain at this stage, on the one hand, the division of labor has begun to be refined, on the other hand, the integration has increased, and the division of labor capacity in the industrial chain has continued to increase. From the perspective of the organizing link at the upstream, the number of economic and trade exhibitions held in 2002 nationwide has been more than 2,600, with a total indoor exhibition area of 320 m^2. In terms of the venue chain at the midstream, by the end of 2006, China has possessed a total of 170 various exhibition centers and exhibition venues of more than 2,000 m^2. The total area available for exhibitions reaches 5,365,800 m^2, and the total exhibition area has ranked among the top in the world. A number of international modern venues have been built, laying down the hardware conditions for modern venues that "invite exhibitions" to China and are open to the world. By 2008, there have been nearly 4,400 exhibition projects in China, with a total area of more than 8 million m^2. It can be said that at this time, China has become an exhibition market with the fastest growing speed in the world and a great power in the world's MICE industry.

In this decade, in addition to professional and comprehensive MICE projects, most of the representative exhibition projects with greater influence in China are organized by the government. Government-led exhibitions are mainly concentrated in economic exhibitions. For example, there are more than 10 various investment and trade negotiation exhibitions hosted by the central government, provinces, municipalities and autonomous regions. The total amount is not large, but due to the large scale and influence of these exhibitions, such as the Guangzhou "Canton Fair", Xiamen "CIFIT", Beijing "CHITEC", Shenzhen "Shenzhen Fair", Shanghai "CIIF" and other well-known government-led exhibition projects, their specifications, grades, and scale often exceed other kinds of exhibitions. Moreover, almost every year, there are world-renowned MICE activities being held successfully in China, such as the 1999 Kunming International Horticultural Exposition and the China-ASEAN Expo in October 2004 (Nanning). What particularly worth mentioning is the 2008 Beijing Olympic Games, which is a large-scale event with unique significance for China's MICE industry, and expands the narrow definition of exhibition/convention activities to the broad category of "conventions, exhibitions, festivals, performances and competitions".

From the perspective of professional supporting services at the downstream, design and construction, transportation and logistics, commerce and travel, rental and production, accommodation and catering, and other links organically match the upstream and midstream industrial chains, and the degree of marketization is much higher than that of the upstream and midstream, becoming the main link highly valued by capital operation. In addition, from the perspective of subdivided industries, the conference industry, exhibition industry, MICE tourism, MICE, MICE education, MICE scientific research consulting and training and other industries have emerged, which have greatly supported the high-speed development needs of the MICE industry at this stage.

At the same time, the construction of the industry policy, industry organization and industry activity platform has been performed. The national "Eleventh Five-Year Plan" issued in 2006 has proposed for the first time to develop the MICE industry as an important service industry, which has defined the development direction of the MICE industry from the national policy level for the first time and has become a signal to enter the "preindustrial stage". The Department of Foreign Trade of the Ministry of Commerce has promulgated the Administrative Measures for Holding Exhibitions of the Ministry of Commerce (Trial) in the same year to regulate the development of the industry. The successive promulgation of these national industrial policies has created an environment for further opening-up and development of the industry.

Finally, regional exhibition economic development is in the ascendant. Driven by the national policies of reform and opening up, especially the urbanization and regional special policies for coastal cities along the border, as well as the development of western regions and the revitalization of the northeast China, "five exhibition economic belts" of the Yangtze River Delta, Circum-Bohai-Sea, the Pearl River Delta, the northeast, the central and western China around the three "linear" convention and exhibition center cities of Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou have emerged.

China joined WTO in December 2001 and signed the CEPA in 2003 and the Ministry of Commerce promulgated the Interim Provisions on the Establishment of Foreign-funded Convention and Exhibition Companies. With the international opening of the industry, world exhibition giants such as Reed Exhibitions, Frankfurt, VNU Group and CMP have entered China, so that China's exhibition industry has entered a new stage and capital operation homeopathy goes with the trend in the competition and cooperation.

However, as Dr. Shen Danyang, founder of China Convention and Exhibition Society points out that "China's exhibition industry is still in its early stages".③ Therefore, in the ten-year development period of 1998-2008, the stage characteristics of "large scale in appearance" determine that the capital operation in this stage is mainly based on equity investment and asset restructuring. Moreover, overseas capital is not optimistic about China's exhibition industry. Take IDG Group, the world's largest information technology consulting, media, exhibition and venture capital company founded in 1964 as an example, IDG capital has been deeply cultivated in the Chinese market for nearly 25 years but there is no merger and acquisition (M & A) related to it in China's exhibition industry. Around 2000, there were very few acquisition and merger projects in China's exhibition industry, and the main way of international capital entry was direct investment.

At this stage, although there were less than 10 Sino-foreign joint ventures in equity investment, the performance of capital operation in the organization and venue could be praiseworthy.

In the organizing chain, a small but significant number of M & A events are enough to light up many exhibition enterprises which are in a situation like thousand troops cross the single-plank bridge. For example, in 2008, NürnbergMesse China and Shanghai Universal Exhibition Co., Ltd. reached an agreement to wholly acquire the international powder industry bulk technology exhibition and conference project. For example, in the case of M & A of WayAhead Expo, Shanghai UBM Sinoexpo International Exhibition Co., Ltd. was established jointly with MILLER FREEMAN (later renamed UBM) in Shanghai Waigaoqiao Free Trade Zone in 1998, becoming the first Sino-foreign cooperation exhibition company jointly established by a domestic private enterprise and an overseas multinational company. What is worth mentioning is that since then, Bohua Company has become an industry leader through continuous M & A for nearly a decade. For example, it has conducted M & A for Shanghai International Hospitality Equipment & Supply Expo, Ceramics Exhibition, Shanghai International Clean Technology and Equipment Expo and other projects, and has introduced European brand exhibitions of MILLER FREEMAN, such as "Food ingredients Asia-China" and "CPhI China". At present, the total area of the two series of exhibitions, reached 270,000 m^2 in 2019 through expansion and acquisition of related exhibitions. After 20 years of efforts, the exhibition area of WayAhead Expo and Shanghai UBM Sinoexpo International Exhibition Co., Ltd. was more than 500,000 m^2 in Shanghai in 2011. In May 2007, HIXPO, a private enterprise jointly established Reed Exhibitions HIXPO Exhibition (Shenzhen) Co., Ltd. with Reed Exhibitions. In 2013. Shanghai UBM Sinoexpo International Exhibition Co., Ltd. and Guzhen Town Government in Zhongshan City jointly established Zhongshan Guzhen Lighting Expo Co., Ltd. that hosts China (Guzhen) International Lighting Fair. Since 2014, with Shanghai International Hospitality Equipment & Supply Expo as the main exhibition, branch exhibitions have been successively held in Chengdu, Beijing, Guangzhou and Qingdao. In 2017, Huahan International Exhibition Company of UBM was incorporated into Shanghai UBM Sinoexpo International Exhibition Co., Ltd. to take over the operation of FHC China and Shanghai International Processing and Packaging Exhibition. In 2018, Shanghai UBM Sinoexpo International Exhibition Co., Ltd. boasted four joint-venture, cooperative and branch companies with more than 60 exhibition projects (including 55 Shanghai projects), a total exhibition area of 1.35 million m^2, and over 450 employees. In 2019, the total rental area will be 1.5 million m^2. This is a classic case of China's exhibition industry, which becomes a large and strong enterprise through typical M & A of capital operation.

In addition, on the exhibition hall chain, various Sino-foreign joint venture are set up mainly by means of direct investment of foreign capital. Similar to Shanghai INTEX, a Sino-British joint venture with a state-owned component and Shanghai New International Expo Centre Co., Ltd established in 1999 by Shanghai Lujiazui Exhibition Development Co., Ltd. and Germany Hannover Exhibition Co., Ltd., Messe Düsseldorf Co., Ltd.

and Messe Muenchen Co., Ltd. jointly invested in the construction of Shanghai Pudong Int'l Exhibition Corp. China and Germany each hold 50% of the shares, and Germany operates the venue.

Of course, the exhibition-related comprehensive listed companies at this stage have achieved value increment and efficiency growth in the trading enterprises and asset restructuring through the operation of listed companies, equity investment and financing and asset restructuring. For example, "BTG Stock" (600258) of Beijing Exhibition Hall, "China Trade" (600007) of International Trade Exhibition Center, and "Xiamen Jianfa" (600153) of Xiamen International Conference & Exhibition Center, and "Chongqing Development" (000514) of Chongqing Nanping International Convention and Exhibition Center are state-owned listed enterprises, mainly engaged in real estate and venue heavy-asset operation.

Among them, the construction and operation of Chongqing Nanping International Convention and Exhibition Center of "Chongqing Development" has the most typical representative meaning. The "Chongqing Development" of listed companies has solved such problems as the increment of state-owned assets and the shortening of the period of return on investment of fixed assets by means of fixed increase, which has become the benchmark of successful capital operation between listed companies and exhibition industry in China.

(IV) Capital operation during the gathering period of the exhibition industry rises abruptly (2009-2019)

Since the 2010 Shanghai World Expo, China's MICE industry has entered the gathering stage of exhibition industry, namely, the fifth industrial fluctuation period④. In the Ministry of Commerce's Guiding Opinions on Promoting the Development of the Exhibition Industry during the "12th Five-Year Plan" Period (SFMF〔2011〕No. 463) in 2012, China's exhibition industry was included in the national industrial policy document as the national "strategic leading industry"⑤ for the first time. MICE industry is promoted to the height of the strategic position of "strategic leading industry" of China's national economy, which marks the birth of the exhibition industry of version 1.0.

What is "strategic leading industry"? This concept is defined as follows: It means that it has an important strategic position in the national economic system but does not play a supporting role, and it plays a leading and driving role in the overall economic and social situation and long-term development. In the national economic planning, it develops first to guide other industries to develop towards a certain strategic goal. Obviously, China's MICE industry has the characteristics of such an industry, and only a country like China has the opportunity to give the MICE industry the strategic leading industry function. This is an emerging modern service industry formed on the basis of China's socialist market economy system, whose industrial functions have gradually developed from early commodity display and sales and marketing tools to national policy tools and then to the national brand activity platform. This is the Chinese-style MICE industry strategic positioning, which is different from other countries in the world, so that MICE industry has become an important economic sector related to the national development.

④ Ying Lijun. "World Expo" - Be About to Result in the Fifth Industry Fluctuation in China's MICE Industry [J]. Tourism Tribune, 2009,24 (2)

At this stage, most parts of the country successively included convention and exhibition in the national economic development planning system. According to the statistics in the Statistical Analysis Report on China's Exhibition Data, in 2014, in all provinces and municipalities directly under the Central Government, 49 convention and exhibition associations were set up, accounting for 31.2% and there were 98 government convention and exhibition management organizations, accounting for 62.4%, realizing the macro guidance and concrete promotion and grasp of MICE industry.

In 2015, the Important Opinions of the State Council on Further Promoting the Reform and Development of the Exhibition Industry (GF No.15) ⑥ was published, requiring "deepening reform, pioneering and innovating, and giving full play to the decisive role of the market in resource allocation; giving full play to the role of the government and actively promoting the marketization of exhibition industry. Adhering to the direction of specialization, internationalization, branding and informatization; advocating low-carbon, environmental protection and green concepts; fostering and strengthening market players; accelerating the transformation and upgrading of exhibition industry, and striving to promote China's development from a large country to a strong country in the exhibition industry in exhibition industry; and better serving the overall situation of national economy and social development". The Opinions emphasizes that convention and exhibition is an industry, which should be planned, managed, standardized and promoted according to the development law of the industrial chain. Therefore, under the strong promotion of the highest level industrial policy of the country, China's convention and exhibition has entered the fast lane of industrial development to a higher level.

At this stage, the development momentum of the government-led exhibition ⑦ is not diminished and it leads

⑥ The State Council of the People's Republic of China Important Suggestions on Further Improving Reform and Development of Exhibition Industry (No.15)

⑦ Government-sponsored convention and exhibition: Doctor Shen Danyang illustrated the definition of the government-sponsored convention and exhibition in the foreword of Green Book of Convention & Exhibition: Annual Report on China's Research Development of Government-Sponsored Convention & Exhibition: Government-sponsored convention and exhibition is an important method adopted by governments through utilizing conventions and exhibitions and considering exhibition projects as the carrier to implement public services. It is also a unique phenomenon and an important component of China's exhibition industry". The book explicitly said, "the existing and development of the government-sponsored convention and exhibition in China accord with the objectively realistic demand and have the soil for its development. Although there are different opinions from the theory field of MICE industry and people of the MICE industry, it is still an objective existence and will continue to develop and exist". Besides, Shen Danyang deems that one of the important research emphases on the government-sponsored convention and exhibition in the future is "How to play the role of government in utilizing public services provided by conventions and exhibitions, meanwhile it shall be beneficial to the healthy competition in the MICE industry, the co-existence and development with other exhibition projects. It is an issue that people concern." Relevant foreword refers to the appendix of Reference: Ying Lijun. Green Book of Convention & Exhibition: Annual Report on China's Research Development of Government-Sponsored Convention & Exhibition (2010) [M]. Beijing: People's Daily Press, 2010.11

the large-scale development of MICE industry, greatly speeding up the industrialization of China's MICE industry. For example, Shanghai World Expo (2010), Boao Forum for Asia (every year), the second China "APEC" in Yanqi Lake in Beijing (2014) and the G20 Summit in Hangzhou (2016), Summit of BRICS Leaders in Xiamen (2017), the "Belt and Road" International Summit Forum (2017), The Shanghai Cooperation Organization Summit in Qingdao Summit (2018) and Shanghai Import Expo (2018) were successfully held with higher level and greater influence through the government-led convention and exhibition platform, making China's convention and exhibition well-known throughout the world.

At this stage, the accelerated marketization and industrialization of the exhibition economy are characterized by rapid growth of market scale, increased concentration of industry, intensified enterprise competition and scattered distribution channel. Price-driven customer demand leads to price wars and squeezed profit space. At the same time, new products of growth-oriented enterprises are put into the market, which leads to wider market segmentation and expansion. Enterprises mainly realize increment through innovation in fierce competition. Influenced by the policy, the regional convention and exhibition leading enterprises will utilize their own advantages to integrate resources, expand outward and extend the industrial chain while seeking inward, and try to compete with the capital market to accelerate their own development.

Generally speaking, during the "large scale in appearance" period between 2009 and 2019, MICE industry activities in China have the following three characteristics:

First, at the industrial level, the division of industrial form and deep cultivation and the coexistence of whole industrial chain and multi-operation come first, followed by the function of departments of industrial organization. In addition, the business structure is dominated by single development and supplemented by diversified development.

In addition, convention and exhibition has become a scarce resource. The supply of venue exceeds demand and the era of large-scale construction of venue has passed. Heavy asset begins to focus on structural effects and operation benefit while light asset focuses on market segmentation and business model. The industries such as convention industry, exhibition industry and reward tourism are more clearly stratified, and the projects are moving towards industrial exhibition, special exhibition and brand exhibition. All localities pay attention to the construction of exhibition cities. Urban cultural deposits, hardware development level and the quality of employees contribute to the promotion of the exhibition destination.

Second, at the enterprise level, most of the business of China's exhibition enterprises is in the middle and lower reaches of MICE industry smiling curve with small, scattered, disorderly and poor conditions; venue operation and enterprise operation are mainly based on state-owned background, with corresponding government subsidy and weak market awareness; high-level operation and management personnel are insufficient, product R & D and brand shaping and information level lag behind, and market development ability and profitability are relatively limited. The state-owned exhibition enterprises are just emerging in China with unlimited potential to improve quality and efficiency.

Third, at the capital level, from 2008 to now, domestic and overseas exhibition industrial capital and financial capital have begun to favor China's exhibition industry. On the one hand, many enterprises are eager to have a try in the capital market, list in new OTC market or enter the main board market. On the other hand, the international capital operation further goes into China's exhibition industry market. By means of equity investment, asset sales, transfer and M & A, various types of capital have realized the realization of resources and asset appreciation, improved the capital structure of enterprises, expanded the scale of enterprises and strengthened enterprise brand, laying a foundation for achieving the fundamental objective of further capital operation.

III. Status Quo of Capitalized Operation of China's Exhibition Industry

(I) International capital steps up its efforts to seize market share of China's exhibition

Over the past decade, international exhibition giants, such as the UK, Germany and Italy, have raced to carry out capital operation, direct investment, joint venture development or M & A in China to seize market share, and achieved brilliant performance.

For example, in November 2013, ITE Exhibition Group acquired China Coating with RMB 300 million in Shanghai, setting a record of acquisition and investment in China's exhibition industry. On January 25, 2016, Shanghai Wanyao Qilong Exhibition Co., Ltd. and UBM Singapore Exhibition Co., Ltd. announced that the acquisition of Singapore International Aquarium Exhibition had been completed. This is the first time that China, as an organizer, participated in the acquisition of an overseas exhibition project and moved it to China.

Almost at the same time, ITE, which was founded in London in 1991, was listed on the London Exchange in 1998 and acquired International Fastener Show China (IFS China) on January 26, 1998. ITE (Asia) announced the acquisition of 70% shares of Shanghai Fastener Exhibition and Guangzhou Fastener Professional Exhibition of IFS China. After acquisition, ITE transformed Shangsou Exhibition Company into a Sino-foreign joint venture company in Shanghai.

In May 2017, Guangdong Bobaolong Co., Ltd. signed a Letter of Intent with PERFECTIS TRANOI to acquire the shares of France Exhibition Co., Ltd., planning to acquire 30% of the equity of TRANOI DEVELOPENENT held by the other party, at a price of no more than EUR 8 million.

For example, Informa conducted M & A of UBM ranking second in the Global Top 20 Exhibitors at the beginning of 2018, rising from No.3 in 2016 to No.1 in 2017. Then in October, Informa entered China to acquire 60% of share of Chengdu Beauty Expo. This is the second time that Informa acquired beauty exhibition after the acquisition of China Beauty Expo in 2013. Moreover, Sang Jingmin, the founder of China Beauty Expo, participated in the acquisition as a natural person. Informa became the genuine world's largest exhibition company through the integration of Chinese and foreign exhibition resources.

In August 2018, Hannover Milano Fairs China Ltd. announced the acquisition of the China (Guangzhou) International Logistics Equipment and Technology Exhibition sponsored by Guangzhou Best Exhibition, and jointly established the Hanover Milano Best Fairs (Guangzhou) Ltd. with Best. Subsequently, in October 2019, Comexposium announced the acquisition of China (Zhuhai) International Office Equipment and Consumables Expo (Remax World Expo), and set up a joint venture.

In February 2019, GL events conducted strategic cooperation with China International Exhibition Center Group Corporation and set up a joint venture company-GL events (Beijing) International Exhibition Co., Ltd. which focuses on building materials, door industry, home soft decoration and heating, ventilation and sanitary ware, etc. Each year, the exhibition covers a total area of more than 700,000 m^2, including seven related exhibitions in Beijing, Shanghai and Shaoxing. Three months later, on the occasion of the 55th anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between China and France, GL events entered into another city, and established a joint venture "GL events Pengcheng (Shenzhen) Exhibition Co., Ltd." with Shenzhen Pengcheng Exhibition Planning Co., Ltd. In the spring and autumn of each year, FASHION SOURCE Shenzhen International Clothing Supply Chain Expo is held in Shenzhen to build the China-France exhibition circle around the clothing fashion industry supply chain and actively build the technology and trade exchange platform. In addition, GL events has set up a joint venture-" GL events Exhibition (Shenzhen) Co., Ltd." with Shenzhen Zhongzhixing Exhibition Engineering Co., Ltd. to provide comprehensive services and all-round solutions for various exhibition activities, sports events, brand enterprises and exhibition venues.

Besides, the financial capital does not want to lag behind, and the capital operation of the China-invested international exhibition industry is frequent. In April 2019, Charthouse, a British private equity fund, acquired Tarsus Group, a British exhibition-hosting company, with GBP 561 million. Soon after, in September 2019, Tarsus Group announced the acquisition of a 70% of share of Touch China 3D Curved Glass & Flexible Display Touch Show (Shenzhen), which represents the first time that Tarsus has entered the rapidly growing and strategically important mobile phone 3C and communications electronics industry in Shenzhen.

In June 2019, Clarion Events, an event company owned by Blackstone Group, acquired the "Design Shanghai" and "Design China Beijing" exhibitions owned by Media 10, headquartered in the UK. Clarion Events said that it will continue to expand the scale of the exhibition with rich experience in design, fashion, home and indoor areas, so as to bring more innovation and vitality to China's design industry.

(II) Concentrated outbreak of domestic capital operation

At this stage, especially after the 2010 World Expo, the capital operation of China's exhibition industry has made an important breakthrough both in quantity and quality.

In terms of the number of listed companies, as of December 2019, there are 29 listed companies, including 11 exhibition companies listed on the new OTC market, growth enterprise market (GEM) and the main board at the end of 2015 and 10 listed companies in the exhibition industry in 2016. The trend of diversification begins to appear, and the types of listed companies expand to conference on-site services, intelligent conference equipment services, exhibition system technology services and so on, which marks that the listing of exhibition enterprises begins to become the behavioral orientation of the exhibition industry. Judging from the places where the listed companies are located, most of them are concentrated in the economically developed areas along the eastern coast, and in Beijing, Guangdong, Shanghai and Jiangsu.

Table 8.2 shows 29 exhibition enterprises listed on the new OTC market, main board and GEM between 2014 and 2019 and the enterprises providing services for the convention and exhibition (including enterprises applying for delisting and conversion during the period).

Enterprises in the new OTC market piled up and listed during 2014-2017, with almost no market-making capability except for very few companies. After 2017, the increase in the number of listed companies per year slowed down significantly. In 2019, only one company- Meorient (30079) was transferred from the new OTC market to the listed GEM. This is the first listed company mainly engaged in exhibition business in China's exhibition industry so far.

Table 8.3 lists the financial data disclosed by 24 enterprises in the middle of 2018 according to the public data. In 2018, the 24 exhibition enterprises recorded a total revenue of RMB 8.474 billion, with an average revenue of RMB 353 million, up 4% year on year. The net profit of shareholders totaled RMB 513.41 million, and the average net profit of shareholders was RMB 21.39 million, a decrease of 5.2% year on year.

Of the listed enterprises, there are three enterprises with annual revenue of RMB 1 billion, 11 enterprises with annual revenue of over RMB 100 million but below RMB 1 billion, accounting for 58% of all enterprises with annual revenue of over RMB 100 million. There are eight enterprises with annual revenue of over RMB 10 million and two enterprises with annual revenue of over RMB 1 million. There are 16 enterprises with revenue growth, accounting for 67%. There are 10 enterprises whose net profit of shareholders increases, accounting for 41.7%.

Among them, ESUN (stock code: 2751) listed on the main board has a total market value of RMB 4.131 billion since its listing in 2015 as of December 22, 2019. In 2019, Meorient (30079) newly transferred to GEM has a total market value of RMB 2.848 billion. Both have a combined market value of about RMB 7 billion.

Judging from the comparison of the income, profit and growth rate of the exhibition industry with the overall level of the new OTC market during the same period, the exhibition industry has been speeding up its entry into the capital market.

In addition, according to Annual Report on China's Exhibition Industry (2018) issued by China Council for the Promotion of International Trade (CCPIT), there are 14 exhibition or conference and event hosting or undertaking companies among listed companies, accounting for 50% of the total number of listed companies; there are 13 exhibition engineering companies, accounting for 46.43% of the total listed companies; five exhibition technology service companies, accounting for 17.86% of the total number of listed companies, four of which overlap the main business. Of the 14 exhibition or conference and event hosting or undertaking companies, 2 are mainly engaged in overseas exhibition business.

In recent years, some exhibition-related enterprises have gradually landed in the capital market, but most of them do not take the exhibition organization business as the main income source. Compared with the whole industrial scale, the proportion of exhibition enterprises entering the capital market is also very low.

In addition to the new OTC market, the capital operation of China's exhibition industry is more diversified in investment. For example, WIT-MICE won RMB 2 million of angel investment in January 2018; in the same month, Baidu AI preempted the layout of "Wit Exhibition", and first appeared in the CEFCO conference with enthusiastic response. Previously, the exhibition industry Internet platform "Zhanxiaoer" also won millions of angel investment. It can be said that among the top 10 Internet enterprises, there are many internet enterprises investing in exhibition projects. Besides, the scale of capital operation is becoming larger and larger.

For example, in April 2016, Lingnan Garden Company (hereinafter referred to as Lingnan Garden, stock code: 002717) acquired Shanghai Demage Exhibition Company and issued an announcement. China Securities Regulatory Commission approved RMB 375 million for acquisition of 100% of share of Shanghai Demage International Exhibition Co., Ltd. Hangzhou Shunwang Technology Co., Ltd. acquired 51% of share of Shanghai Howell Expo in June 2016 with cash of RMB 575 million.

Among them, the most striking is Sunac's huge amount in exhibition industry again. In November 2019, Sunac Southwest Group acquired 51% of share of Chengdu Global Exhibition & Tourism Group and Chengdu Times Global Industry Co., Ltd. at the price of RMB 15.269 billion. The former New International Convention & Exposition Center Chengdu Century City is owned by Oriental Universal (Kunming) Convention & Exhibition Co., Ltd. with a registered capital of RMB 1 billion in October 2015, which is a member of YMCI. Its operation adopts the capital operation mode of investment or acquisition of controlling shares, such as "four centers and five halls" i.e. Kunming Dianchi International Convention & Exhibition Center, Kunming International Convention & Exhibition Center, New International Convention & Exposition Center Chengdu Century City, Wuhan International Expo Center and Hainan International Convention & Exhibition Center. The exhibition area of the hall is over 800,000 m^2. Among them, Hainan International Convention & Exhibition Center is entrusted for operation and management, and other venues are invested or acquired by YMCI.

In terms of the above-mentioned projects, most of them are M & A of upstream exhibition projects, two of which involve M & A of venue chain, and one has the amount of funds exceeding RMB 10 billion.

In June 2019, the first industry fund of China's exhibition industry took a trial voyage. The Shanghai Exhibition Industry Equity Investment Fund, China's first equity investment fund focusing on the exhibition industry, was launched at the Shanghai Summit of CEO of the International Exhibition Industry in Shanghai, with a total target size of RMB 3 billion and a first-phase size of RMB 1 billion. The fund is operated by a management company jointly established by Donghao Lansheng (Group) Co., Ltd., Ruili Investment and Hualin Capital. The arrival of the exhibition industry fund will undoubtedly become a new force to promote the capitalization of the exhibition industry.

However, the capital operation of China's exhibition industry is in the early stage of development on the whole. At the same time, the isomorphism of exhibition resources, lack of individuality and sufficient attraction hinder the capital from entering the exhibition industry smoothly. On the other hand, the difficulty of social funds entering the exhibition industry lies in the restrictions on direct investment and indirect financing. Therefore, China's exhibition industry lacks innovation in industrial investment mode on the whole. Mutual integration of information chain, industrial chain, people flow chain and capital chain has not been formed yet. With the help of capital force, the value of industry diversification, the value of product brand, the value of enterprise internationalization and the value of capital market need to be fully explored urgently.

IV. Advantages and Problems of Capital Operation of China's Exhibition Industry

(I) Advantages of capital operation

By analyzing the above international capital operation cases related to China's exhibition industry, it is not difficult to find that the reason why international capital is favorable to China's exhibition industry in the past decade is that China's exhibition industry has three advantages of attracting foreign investment to participate in M & A:

First, 89% of the exhibition organizers are local small and medium-sized enterprises, which is very attractive to the international organizers wishing to explore the Chinese market.

Second, China's local organizers lack international senior professionals, especially senior management talents, so that the international organizers globally gather professionals with a deep understanding of China's exhibition industry to overcome this obstacle through M & A activities.

Third, M & A activities of China's exhibition industry are gradually expanding from the exhibition hosting company to the acquisition of the exhibition service company.

Of course, crazy grab is bound to bid up the price of the target. After a wave of M & A harvest, there are few high-quality targets left, so that the future development of international capital in China's exhibition industry will enter the deep-sea area.

Therefore, restricted by the characteristics of the exhibition industry itself, the efficiency of the capital operation of the exhibition industry is not obvious at present, and even becomes the black hole of the profit of the enterprise capital, which has not been fully favored by the capital market.

(II) Problems of capital operation

Due to various reasons, the domestic exhibition enterprises have the status quo of decentralization and low concentration, and the main problems restricting the capital operation of China's exhibition industry are as follows:

First, the mode of capital operation needs to be diversified and stratified.

Second, leading large-scale capital operating institutions with international competitiveness are lacking.

Third, the efficiency of the merger and restructuring of the exhibition is not obvious. The number of listed companies is small with low returns and low market value.

Fourth, under a round of capital acquisition, price has been driven up, and quality resources have become increasingly scarce.

Fifth, the industry lacks the talents who understand the capita operation, which is also the main reason that restricts the development of the industry towards capitalization.

V. Countermeasures and Suggestions on Capitalization Operation of China's Exhibition Industry

China's exhibition industry has experienced the evolution of four periods: the "zero" state of capital operation in the initial period of the exhibition industry, the linear development period in the stage of industrial rise, the sailing period in the stage of large-scale development and rapid development period in the stage of industrial agglomeration. In the past 40 years, especially in the past 20 years, China's exhibition industry has achieved a period of development from nothing to existence, and the future should be a period of "from existence to good".

Under the background of further deepening reform and opening-up in China, the positive role of the exhibition industry as a strategic leading industry will be further released. Such diplomatic activities as "Import Expo" and "China International Garden Flower Expo" have become an important window for displaying China's image and corporate brand. At the same time, capital operation will play an increasingly important role in the exhibition industry. Therefore, in the next five-year plan, the capital operation of China's exhibition industry should be arranged in advance from the following five aspects, so as to better play a positive role in promoting the high-quality development of the exhibition industry.

(I) Forming the new concept of structured development from capital operation to industrial investment

Capital is the blood that the industry can develop healthily and continuously. Without the maintenance of capital, it is difficult to realize the development of scale economy. Industrial structure is the economic structure expression of a country's national economic operation, which is the logical relationship between industries and within industries. Seen from its literal meaning, the structure of industrial investment refers to the distribution of the quantity and proportion of capital among various industries. Thus, the industrial structure is the basis of industrial investment and the two are closely related. Sufficient industrial structure is conducive to the formation of a reasonable industrial structure, and in turn, the adjustment of industrial structure promotes industrial investment. In order to form a new concept of structured development of industrial investment, on the one hand, we should actively introduce foreign capital and make reasonable use of it. On the other hand, while actively introducing foreign capital, the government should formulate some corresponding countermeasures and policies, adjust the transformation and upgrading of the exhibition industrial structure with the help of capital operation as the transformation driving force, accelerate the development of the science and technology innovation industry, and improve the international capital operation ability of the exhibition industry.

(II) Further opening up new investment areas

The merger and acquisition-based investment method is currently prevalent in the world. China shall try boldly and encourage the capital to invest in China in the way of acquisition and allow foreign merchants to invest in China by holding shares. Some industries may also consider introducing foreign capital in the reform of state-owned enterprises to strive for an early realization of the comprehensive transformation of state-owned enterprises.

(III) Accelerating the formulation of regulations and policies of relevant industries

The foreign investment shall be reasonably protected. Besides, some weak subdivided industries in China and intellectual property shall be protected, and attention shall be paid to the project value and goodwill value assessment.

(IV) Gradually realizing the transfer of capital from coastal areas to inland areas

The capital shall be actively introduced to backward inland areas as the western and northeastern China. Moreover, preferential policies shall be given to investment and financing projects to create a good investment environment.

(V) Actively improving the international competitive force of capital operation

Economic globalization, trend of scientific and technological innovation, and the national initiative of "Belt and Road" are of great importance for China's exhibition industry to enter the international market. Competitive exhibition enterprises in China shall actively improve their international competitive force and think about the way to invest overseas and to be involved in the competition of capital operation in the economic globalization.

All in all, against the background of significant change of domestic and foreign economic situation as well as domestic and foreign difficulties, China's exhibition industry has won the industrial advantage of "strategic and leading industry" by virtue of its infrastructure construction for 70 years and reform & opening-up for 40 years. It has achieved great progress based on the ever-optimized policy environment and more perfect system and regulations. In addition, the capital operation developing in the direction same as that of the China's exhibition industry has achieved the phased progress after four-period evolution. In the future, China's exhibition industry in the structural adjustment from the quantity-based growth to the high-quality development further shows its industry integration trend and potential opportunity, the output value will be further increased, the structural adjustment of industries will be intensified and the competition among regional exhibition cities will be fiercer. The new round of industrial integration will be carried out during the 14th Five-Year Plan and China's exhibition industry is expected to have a new development opportunity for the capital operation in 5 to 10 years.

Chapter IX The Historical Process of Building an Exhibition Powerhouse from 1949 to 2019

— Overview of the Development of the Exhibition Industry in New China

During the 70 years since the founding of New China, economic and trade exhibitions have played an indispensable role in promoting the country's social, economic and cultural construction. In the meantime, economic and trade exhibitions have also undergone great changes. They have now been held in more than 100 cities in China instead of only in Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou, and held by enterprises of various ownerships rather than by state-owned enterprises only. The venues have also changed from open spaces to large exhibition halls. Instead of relying on administrative mobilization, a complete industry chain has been formed. At present, the scale of the exhibition venues, the number of exhibitions and the exhibition area of China have jumped to the top of the world. China has become a world-recognized exhibition powerhouse.

Looking back at the development process of economic and trade exhibitions in the past 70 years in New China, taking 1978 as the boundary, it can be roughly divided into two historical periods.

I. A Period of Exploration and Development (1949-1978)

The twenty-nine years between the founding of New China and the reform and opening up is an important period for China's economic and trade exhibitions to explore the development path. The development of this period can be divided into three stages:

(I) The beginning (1949-1957)

At this stage, the socialist system was newly established in China. During the economic construction and the breakthrough of the blockade of external contacts, the economic and trade exhibitions played a positive role in promoting trade, enhancing exchanges and publicizing New China.

From November to December 1949, the new people's government successively held industrial exhibitions in Tianjin and Dalian, agricultural machinery and tools exhibitions or agricultural exhibitions in Shenyang and Shanghai. Among them, Dalian Industrial Exhibition opened on September 18 and closed on November 30. It was the first economic and trade exhibition since the naissance of New China.

From 1950 to 1957, the people's government used economic and trade exhibitions to promote economic development in five aspects:

— Material fairs were held to promote economic recovery. At the beginning of the founding of the People's Republic of China, maintaining market circulation was a top priority for economic recovery. By summing up the experience of holding material exchange meetings in urban and rural areas in north China, the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China issued the Instructions on Holding Local Specialty Meeting to Promote Sales of Local Specialties on March 22, 1951. It is pointed out that the key to solving the marketing problem of agricultural and sideline special products in rural areas is to convene meetings on local specialties in a planned manner, organize the exchange of materials between cities and villages and between regions, to open up the domestic market and to invigorate the urban and rural economy. The Instructions required that all major administrative regions, provinces (cities), special districts, counties (cities), districts and townships should be ready to hold meetings on local specialties within two months. ① Since then, the whole country started the craze of holding exhibitions and exchanging materials. On November 28, 1951, People's Daily published a report entitled Achievements of Material Exchange Exhibition in north China, "Thirty-one material exchange exhibitions have been held by major administrative regions, provinces and municipalities. According to incomplete statistics, among which, the number of visitors of 21 exhibitions has reached 10.7 million and the value of goods traded in 23 exhibitions is more than RMB 5.22 trillion". Due to the impact of the "movement against three evils" and the "struggle against five evils" on industrial and commercial enterprises, the problems including poor material circulation and stockpiling of unsold products were generated. The Finance and Economic Committee of the State Council issued the Instructions on Immediate Production, Resumption of Exchanges, and Economy Revitalization in March 1952. ② It emphasized that "organizing the acquisition of local specialty and restoring material exchanges were the basic keys to promoting production and activating the market." Subsequently, the second boom of exchange of goods between the city and the countryside was risen throughout the country. According to incomplete statistics, 7,789 high, medium and primary level material exchange meetings were held throughout the country, with a turnover of RMB 33.93 trillion, more than twice that of 1951. ③

— New exhibition venues were built in Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou and Wuhan. In order to receive the exhibition of Soviet economic achievements, the CPC central committee decided to build venues in Beijing and Shanghai in February 1952. After that, Guangzhou and Wuhan were listed as the cities to build venues. The Russian classical architectural style "Soviet exhibition hall" was completed in Beijing in September 1954 after 11 months of construction. The project cost RMB 24 million and the indoor exhibition area was 22,000 m^2. This was the first large building dedicated to exhibition in modern Chinese history (the current Beijing Exhibition Center). Thereafter, the venues named "China-Soviet Friendship Building" or "China-Soviet Friendship Palace" were successively completed and put into use in Guangzhou, Shanghai, and Wuhan in 1955 and 1956 respectively. Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou and Wuhan became the earliest exhibition cities of New China.

— Outbound exhibitions (outbound) and inbound exhibitions (in China) were combined to expand international cultural and economic exchanges. In March 1951, Ministry of Trade organized a delegation to attend the GDR Leipzig (Spring) International Fair. This was the first time for New China to organize a delegation to participate in an overseas international exhibition. In October 1952, China's industrial and agricultural exhibition was held in Ulan Bator, capital of the People's Republic of Mongolia. The Chinese Commodities Fairs held in Tokyo and Osaka, Japan in October and December 1955 were the first economic and trade fairs hosted by New China in Western country. By 1957, the central government had organized delegations to West Germany, Czechoslovakia, India, Pakistan, Mongolia, Bulgaria, Syria, Poland, France, the United Kingdom, Malaysia, Switzerland, Austria, Yugoslavia, Hungary and other countries, and held Chinese product exhibitions in Mongolia, Soviet Union, Japan, Egypt, Vietnam, Cambodia and other countries.

At the same time, Romania, the German Democratic Republic, Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Japan, India and other countries had successively come to China to hold exhibitions. The Soviet Union Economic and Cultural Construction Achievements Exhibition and Japanese Commodities Exhibition were held in Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou and Wuhan. Party and state leaders Mao Zedong, Liu Shaoqi, and Zhou Enlai visited the two exhibitions in Beijing. When Mao Zedong visited the exhibition of Japanese goods, he sent out positive signals for the improvement of China-Japan relations through talks and inscriptions, which became a major international news event. After 1954, professional exhibitions with themes of prospecting equipment, textile machinery, atomic energy technology, telecommunication and electrical equipment, instruments and meters, fiberglass, and plastics became the mainstream of foreign exhibitions in China.

— Canton Fair was founded to break the western economic blockade. On April 25, 1957, Chinese Export Commodities Fair (Canton Fair) was established in Guangzhou. The first exhibition, covering an area of 9,600 m^2, was divided into five exhibition venues for industrial products, textiles, food, handicrafts and local specialty. 13 trade delegations of foreign trade companies directly under Ministry of Foreign Trade and 27 enterprises from Jilin, Liaoning, Guizhou, Hunan, Zhejiang, Jiangsu, Guangxi and Guangdong provinces participated in the exhibition with 10,900 kinds of commodities. A total of 1,223 overseas merchants from 19 countries and regions attended the meeting to discuss trade. The export turnover was USD17.54 million. On October 15 2019, the 2nd Canton Fair was held. 1,923 overseas merchants participated in the trade (of which 55% were from Hong Kong and Macau), and the export turnover was USD69.33 million. Among the traded goods were domestic Jiefang vehicles, papermaking equipment, sewing machines, pianos. So far, Canton Fair had been held two sessions a year as a routine. This was the first state-level trade fair organized by the New China government, aiming to open up a channel for exporting China commodities to western markets by taking advantage that Guangzhou is adjacent to Hong Kong and Macau. Zhou Enlai, Premier of the State Council, personally directed the establishment of the Canton Fair. He said, "The biannual Canton Fair was held as a last resort when we were blocked. We had to invite others to come in and see." ④

— A management structure was initially formed, with the central department directly managing the economic and trade exhibitions. In the early days of the founding of New China, the central government relied on two departments for the management of economic and trade exhibitions: China Council for the Promotion of International Trade and Ministry of Foreign Trade. China Council for the Promotion of International Trade was established in May 1952 to organize exhibitions. In February 1953, Government Administration Council authorized Ministry of Foreign Trade, Ministry of Heavy Industry, and Beijing Municipal Government to establish Foreign Economic Exhibition Committee in China to take charge of the exhibition reception. In 1956, the committee was reorganized into the Exhibition Department of China Council for the Promotion of International Trade. The management of economic and trade exhibitions by Ministry of Foreign Trade focuses on the organization and management of Canton Fair in addition to cooperating with CCPIT in exhibition management. In addition, the central government departments involved in economic and trade exhibitions, such as Ministry of Heavy Industry (renamed as Ministry of Machinery), Ministry of Light Industry, and Ministry of Agriculture, had set up exhibition offices to take charge of the organization of domestic and overseas exhibitions of enterprises and products. During this period, important exhibitions must be previewed in Beijing. Premier of the State Council Zhou Enlai, Deputy Premier and Foreign Minister Chen Yi and other leaders had come and inspected many times to put forward specific opinions.

(II) Resilience and consolidation (1958-1965)

At this stage, economic and trade exhibitions served the needs of development of international exchanges and domestic political and economic situation, and new changes were also generated.

— Outbound and inbound exhibitions worked closely to match the diplomatic work. In terms of outbound exhibitions, China’s economic construction achievement and trade exhibitions were held in Sudan, Guinea, Egypt, Ghana, Algeria, Mali, Central Africa, Cambodia, Myanmar, Laos, Mexico, Cuba, Chile and other countries, becoming an important part of China’s diplomatic activities in Africa, southeast Asia and South America. China Agricultural Reclamation Exhibition, held in Hanoi, Vietnam in December 1958, was the first professional exhibition held abroad by New China. In terms of inbound exhibitions, the exhibitions held by East European countries of Soviet Union turned to professional exhibitions of technical exchanges and trade negotiations. Denmark, the United Kingdom, France, Switzerland, Sweden, Italy and other European countries had successively held economic and trade exhibitions in China in the process of establishing diplomatic relations with New China.

— Domestic economic and trade exhibitions showed various changes: First, three categories of supplies ordering were held all year round. Under planning system, the material distribution plan is managed by classification. Among them, national plans fall into category 1, central departments and provincial (regional and municipal) plans fall into category 2, and materials not included in national, ministerial and provincial plans fall into category 3. Due to diverse demands of three categories of supplies, the central department (mainly the three systems of commerce, materials and industry) connects the supply and marketing through the organization of ordering meetings. Hundreds of national purchasing fairs in department stores, clothing, knitwear, sugar and wine, Chinese medicinal materials, sports equipment, electronic products and other industries were held all year round. Manufacturers brought samples to the exhibition, which gradually became a common phenomenon. In 1964, the national sugar, tobacco and alcohol commodity purchasing meeting was held in Shanghai. This move became the beginning of the China Food and Drinks Fair's transformation into an economic and trade fair after the reform and opening up. At the same time, ordering fairs or trade fairs of three categories of supplies were held in various places.

Second, the number of exhibitions reflecting the achievements of economic construction and the level of industrial development increased. The National Agricultural Exhibition (three sessions), the National Industrial Transportation Exhibition (two sessions), the National Industrial New Products Exhibition, the National Farm Tools Exhibition, and the National University Scientific Research Exhibition were successively held in Beijing. Industrial and technological innovation exhibitions had been held in Shanghai, Tianjin, Shenyang, Guangzhou, Wuhan, Chengdu, Chongqing and other places. Although these exhibitions had no trade function, they had played the role of exchanging technical information. In August 1958, Chairman of the CPC Central Committee and the State Mao Zedong visited the Import and Export Commodities Exhibition Hall and Tianjin Industrial Technology Revolution Exhibition in Tianjin. After the visit, Mao Zedong proposed that "We should find our own way to establish an independent industrial system."⑤

Third, the "Great Leap Forward" campaign had an impact on Canton Fair. Due to the shortage of supplies, a large number of export contracts signed on the 5th session held in April 1959 could not be fulfilled, arousing strong resentment of foreign merchants. The role of Canton Fair as a window and platform for the country's foreign trade had thus become prominent.

Fourth, progress was made in the construction of exhibition venues. The National Agricultural Exhibition Center in Beijing, one of the top ten buildings in the capital on the tenth anniversary of the founding of the PRC, was completed and put into use in September 1959. This is the first exhibition venue designed by Chinese people, in the style of a classical Chinese garden. Industrial, agricultural or commodity exhibition halls were successively built in Shanghai, Guangzhou, Shenyang, Tianjin, Chongqing and other places.

— The central government put forward requirements on the administration of economic and trade exhibitions. In March 1959, Zhou Enlai approved the State Council's Instructions on Works of Economic Exhibition Abroad": I, China Council for the Promotion of International Trade is entrusted by the State Council to organize overseas exhibitions; II, Central ministries, companies, and provinces, municipalities, and autonomous regions should actively complete designated tasks in accordance with the annual plan for overseas exhibitions and the principle of offering both products and cadres; III, The principle of the exhibition abroad is to publicize the achievements of China's socialist industrial and agricultural construction, to enhance the understanding and friendship of people of all countries, and to promote the development of economic and trade relations between other countries and China; IV, Every exhibition must be carefully prepared and done well. When organizing or participating in exhibitions in socialist, nationalist or capitalist countries, the focuses of publicity should be different."⑥ This is the first guiding document for the exhibition work of the central government of New China. In December 1963, the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China issued the Summary Report on the China Export Commodities Fair in the Autumn of 1963, stating: "The facts have proved that the Fair is not only a regular place for international trade, but also a publicizing venue for China's achievements in foreign policy and socialist construction. Therefore, it was of great political and economic significance to run Canton Fair well, and we must do it better in the future." ⑦ This instruction reflected that the central leadership had a clear understanding of the functions of the New China economic and trade exhibition.

(III) Turmoil and wandering (1966-1978)

Ten years of "Cultural Revolution" triggered civil unrest in China, making the national economy to fall to the brink of collapse. During this period, the organization and reception works of exhibitions continued with the main purpose of cooperating with diplomatic work, but they were often disturbed. Due to the "extreme left" ideology, the political review of the exhibitions was difficult to pass, and some projects were forced to be postponed or canceled. The propaganda of the "Cultural Revolution" caused discontent among the host countries.

Domestic economic and trade exhibitions were basically in a state of stagnation after 1967. Canton Fair, which was held persistently, was seriously impacted. The 20th session, held in October 1966, had to receive more than 300,000 "red guards", and the composition and layout of the exhibition were criticized. On the eve of the 21st session in April 1967, the preparatory work was paralyzed due to mass struggle. On April 13, with the approval of the Chairman of the CPC Central Committee, Mao Zedong, the CPC Central Committee, the State Council, the Central Military Commission, and the Central Cultural Revolution Group issued Several Notices on Holding Guangzhou Export Commodities Fair in Spring. It was clearly stipulated that people who did not work for Canton Fair should not be organized to visit the venue and should not seize power within Canton Fair and its affiliated organizations. Three things (Free airing of views, Poster, and Debate) were suspended during Canton Fair; It was also not allowed to post posters in the exhibition venues of export commodities and hotels inns that receive foreign businessmen. ⑧ In the early morning of the 14th, Premier Zhou Enlai flew to Guangzhou to convey the spirit of the Notice and eliminate interferences to ensure that the Canton Fair could be held as scheduled. This session of Canton Fair was full of "revolutionary" atmosphere: huge portraits of Chairman Mao and political slogans were hung outside the venue, and Quotations from Chairman Mao Zedong were spread across various exhibition halls; foreign guests attending the meeting were required to purchase Quotations from Chairman Mao Zedong; on the first day of the opening ceremony, the worker there introduced the "Cultural Revolution" movement instead of arranging trade negotiations. In 1967, the 22nd Canton Fair in autumn was postponed to November because of the "fighting" between mass organizations in Guangzhou. On November 3rd, Zhou Enlai met with representatives of the two mass organizations of Guangzhou in Beijing and demanded them to strictly implement the requirements the central government and ensure the holding of Canton Fair. On March 8, 1968, the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, the State Council, the Central Military Commission, and the Central Cultural Revolution Group issued the Notice on Holding the 1968 Spring Export Commodities Fair, and put forward that we should not impose Mao Zedong thought onto others. ⑨

During 1977-1978, after the "Cultural Revolution", order was restored in the management of economic and trade exhibitions. Ministry of Light Industry held a national light industry new product fair in Beijing in September 1978. The exhibition lasted for one month and received 800,000 visitors. It was the first of its kind in the domestic consumer goods fair. China Council for the Promotion of International Trade held a foreign agricultural machinery exhibition in Beijing in October 1978, inviting 320 agricultural machinery manufacturers from France, West Germany, Britain, Italy, Netherlands, Denmark, Sweden, Switzerland, Romania, Australia, Canada, Japan and other countries participated in the exhibition, with an exhibition area of 30,000 m^2. This is the first international exhibition organized by domestic organization after the "Cultural Revolution" and the largest agricultural machinery exhibition since the founding of New China.

II. Industry Development Period (1979-2019)

After 1979, New China entered the period of reform and opening up. The 41 years from 1979 to 2019 are an important period for China's economic and trade exhibitions to enter the industry and become one of the world's major exhibition countries. The development of this period can be divided into four stages:

(I) Help invigorate the economy (1979-1988)

The Third Plenary Session of the 11th Central Committee of the Chinese Communist Party started the journey of China's economic restructuring. Opening to the outside world and invigorating the domestic economy became the initial driving force for institutional reform. At this stage, in order to promote opening up and invigorating the domestic economy, the trade exhibition had played a positive role in setting up a platform, exchanging information and promoting trade.

— Attract investment to promote the pattern change. In January 1980, Guangdong Provincial Import and Export Corporation jointly held Guangdong Provincial Import and Export Fair in Hong Kong, becoming a pioneer in organizing exhibitions by local institutions. On the exhibition, the matters of cooperation on compensation trade and processing with Hong Kong merchants reflected the reform intention of Guangdong province to promote the opening up by inviting investment. Since then, many local governments and central import and export companies have held economic and trade exhibitions abroad, attracting investment has become an important appeal for holding exhibitions. In 1981, Chinese ambassadors in Japan and Xinhua News Agency reporters in the United States successively reflected the following data through internal reference materials. In June, delegations of more than a dozen provinces and cities in China went to Tokyo and Osaka to held Chinese commodity fairs; In July, there were multiple Chinese Commodity fairs held in New York, the United States within one week. In 1982, the State Council approved the Provisions on Several Issues Concerning Organizing Economic and Trade Exhibitions Abroad by China Council for the Promotion of International Trade, Ministry of Foreign Economics and Trade, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs, requiring to solve problems in the exhibition holding. Not all exhibitions were held by China Council for the Promotion of International Trade then.

— Trade fairs and foreign economic and trade fairs came into being. In June 1979, the first Tianjin Commodity Fair (renamed as Tianjin Spring National Commodity Fair) was held. In September 1982, the first Shandong Export Commodities Fair (renamed as China Qingdao Foreign Trade Fair) was held in Qingdao. In June 1983, the first Shanghai foreign trade fair was held. Hereafter, trade fair or foreign trade fair were held throughout the country. The Export Commodities Fair held in Dalian in July 1987 was jointly organized by the four provinces of Heilongjiang, Jilin, Liaoning, and Inner Mongolia, as well as the three cities of Harbin, Shenyang, and Dalian, and became the leader of regional trade fairs (Regional trade fair was listed as "small trade fair" by Ministry of Foreign Economics and Trade). Most of the trade fairs in the same period have economic and trade exhibitions as supporting activities.

— Consumer goods fairs invigorated the domestic market. With the development of light textile industry, the supply of consumer goods continues to increase, and the trade fair has become an effective carrier for enterprises to connect with the market and break through the restriction of the planned distribution system. In October 1980, the National Commune and Brigade Enterprise Products Exhibition and the National Land Reclamation, Industry and Commerce Industrial Products Exhibition were held in Chengdu and Beijing, respectively. The latter one had been held in Beijing, Shanghai, Wuhan and Guangzhou for seven consecutive sessions by 1987. In August 1981, a textile product fair covering 20 cities in China was held in Tianjin. In that September, the National New Fashion Clothing Fair was held in Beijing. In September 1982, the National Minority Products, Textile Products and Chinese Medicinal Materials Fair was held in Beijing. This is the first time for China to hold an exhibition of ethnic supplies. Driven by national trade fairs, consumer goods fairs have sprung up all over the country. The commodities fairs held in various regions including coastal region, central and western regions were also included. The following passenger car and commercial housing exhibitions had become a sign that large amounts of goods had entered the market consumption field. In the mid-1980s, the national ordering fair of commercial system gradually weakened the planned material distribution function and tried to transform into a trade fair.

— Professional exhibitions promoted technological progress. During this period, the number of professional exhibitions introducing foreign advanced products, equipment and technologies gradually increased, and the exhibition topics covered machinery, electronics, textile and apparel, chemical industry, building materials, mining, national defense industry, marine engineering, tanning, printing, scientific instruments, medical treatment, musical instruments and industrial design. It is hosted by both foreign institutions, including well-known foreign companies, and domestic institutions. These exhibitions have become important places for domestic enterprises to learn international advanced technology, negotiate investment and trade cooperation, and promote new domestic products. Most of the fairs were held in Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou. Many Hong Kong companies were involved in organizing or participating in overseas exhibitions. On February 16,

1984, Deng Xiaoping, Chairman of the Central Military Commission of the Communist Party of China, visited the Shanghai Microelectronics Technology and Application Reporting Exhibition in Shanghai. When watching the computer performance of primary school students, Deng Xiaoping pointed out: "the popularization of computer should start with children." ⑩

— Progress has been made in exhibition venues, enterprises and civil societies. China International Exhibition Center, whose name was given by Deng Xiaoping, was completed in October 1985 in Chaoyang District, Beijing. With an indoor exhibition area of 60,000 m^2, it was the largest exhibition venue in China. Guangzhou Foreign Trade Center, as the permanent working body of Canton Fair, was established with the approval of the State Council in 1981. It had been transformed from public institution to enterprise. In addition to serving Canton Fair, it was authorized to operate the halls of Canton Fair. After the adopting fee-based operation model, Canton Fair was no longer funded by the government. Jiangsu International Exhibition Corporation, Shanghai International Trade Information and Exhibition Corporation, China International Exhibition Center, and Guangzhou Foreign Trade Advertising and Exhibition Corporation were registered in 1984-1985 successively (the first three belonged to the CCPIT system, Guangzhou company belongs to the Municipal Light Industry Bureau), becoming the first batch of state-owned companies mainly engaged in exhibition business. Registered with Ministry of Civil Affairs of the People's Republic of China, China Association for Exhibition Centers was established in Hangzhou in June 1984.

(II) Motivate endogenous power (1989-2001)

The political turmoil of the spring and summer of 1989 led western countries to impose economic sanctions on China. The impact on economic and trade exhibitions was reflected in four aspects: most exhibitions in western countries had been suspended; the number of foreign visitors dropped precipitously, and all projects in western countries had been canceled; foreign companies (mainly Hong Kong companies) participating in domestic exhibitions basically quitted; the number of merchants participating Canton Fair reduced.

In order to continue the development of foreign trade, the domestic economic and trade exhibition became one of the breakthroughs to break the economic sanctions. In July 1989, Beijing International Expo was opened at China International Exhibition Center. More than 3,000 manufacturers from 24 countries and regions were invited to participate in the exhibition, with an exhibition area of 40,000 m^2. The exhibition received nearly 600,000 visitors in 10 days. This was the first large-scale international economic and trade exhibition held in China after the political turmoil. It was also the first comprehensive exhibition organized by CCPIT in China, and it only took more than one month to organize the exhibition. In that November, China Foreign Investment Enterprises Achievements Exhibition was held in Beijing, and more than 850 foreign companies invested in China were invited to participate. Jiang Zemin, General Secretary of the CPC Central Committee, and Li Peng, Premier of the State Council, visited.

The new prospect of overseas exhibition was opened up with the help of professional international conference.

⑩ Deng Xiaoping's Inspection of Shanghai: the Popularization of Computers must be Started with Children . Xinmin Evening News (2014.8.22).

The 14th World Mining Congress and International Exhibition on Mining Equipment and Technology, hosted by the International Organization Committee of the World Mining Congress, was opened in Beijing in May 1990. More than 3,700 delegates from 69 countries and regions participated. Its supporting exhibition was held in National Convention Center, and 409 companies from 21 countries and regions participated in the exhibition of new mining technology and equipment, covering an area of 17,000 m^2. In October of the same year, China electrical and electronic products exhibition opened in Asian Sports Village International Convention Center, Beijing. The exhibition was the supporting activity of the 54th Annual Meeting of International Electrotechnical Commission. 457 enterprises and research institutes participated in the exhibition. After 1991, exhibition projects in Western countries gradually resumed, and Japan, Germany, and Singapore became the first batch of Western countries to receive Chinese trade fairs.

Deng Xiaoping's southern tour and his speech in 1992 set off a new upsurge in China's reform and opening up. In the construction of the socialist market economy system with Chinese characteristics, economic and trade exhibitions had entered the fast track of development, the number of exhibitions had increased rapidly, and the industry situation had changed in many aspects.

— Private enterprises and their commercial exhibitions suddenly emerged. After 1992, privately registered exhibition companies were established in Shanghai and Guangzhou, and later emerged in various large cities. Bohua, Qilong, Guangya, Huabo, Zhenwei, Bomei, Haobo, Dianyi Space, Kunlun Yifa and other companies later became the leading companies of Chinese private exhibition companies. By 2000, the number of private exhibition companies across the country had exceeded 1,000, becoming the main component of Chinese exhibition companies. In the meanwhile, private enterprises held exhibitions all over the country, not only in Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou. These exhibitions focused on clothing, home appliances, building materials, food and other fields, but the same kind of exhibitions were held repeatedly. Subject to the administrative approval system, although these exhibitions were organized with the title of government departments, CCPIT, or other state-owned institutions, the project was invested and operated by private companies in a market-based manner as the organizers.

— Associations, chambers of commerce and societies participated in the exhibitions. In the period, a lot of associations, chambers of commerce and societies were established. The administrative department in charge entrusted and held meetings to increase supporting activities and enrich the funds of association, which had become the main driving force for the non-governmental associations to organize exhibition. China International Machine Tool Exhibition, China International Bearing Industry Exhibition, China International Chemical Industry Fair, China International Battery Fair, China International Clothing and Accessories Fair, China International Exhibition on Pro Audio, Light, Music & Technology, China International Metallurgical Industry Expo, China International Trade Fair for Fabrics and Accessories, World Elevator & Escalator Expo, China International Casting Expo and other professional expos were successively established in Beijing and later became national associations or long-term institutionalized brand exhibitions.

— Government-led exhibitions developed in multi directions. First, investment and trade fairs were held all over the country, and comprehensive exhibitions, special forums and cooperation projects were the basic components of the fairs. Second, the holding of trade fairs tended to be institutionalized. For example, Shanghai, Jiangsu, Zhejiang, Anhui, Jiangxi, Nanjing, Ningbo integrated resources to jointly host the East China Fair. The first "East China Fair" was held in Shanghai in March 1991. Third, the establishment of professional exhibitions for the manufacturing industry. China International Aerospace Exhibition (Zhuhai), China Hi-Tech Fair (Shenzhen), China International Industry Fair (Shanghai), China International Machinery & Electronic Products Fair (Wuhan), International Furniture Fair Chengdu, China International Consumer Electronics Show (Qingdao) and other projects were promoted by the local government. Fourth, special exhibitions had been established according to local conditions. Such as Xiamen - Taiwan exhibition, Shaanxi Yangling agricultural science fair, Yiwu commodity fair, Shandong Shouguang vegetable fair. Tourism exhibitions were also held in many places.

— Well-known multinational companies entered the Chinese market. In September 1995, Munich Expo Group, Nuremberg International Expo Group and CIEC established Jingmu International Exhibition Company. This was the first joint venture exhibition company in China. The Chinese government promised that the exhibition industry would be completely open to the outside world during the WTO negotiations, encouraging foreign companies to come to China. Among German companies, Hanover and Dusseldorf established wholly-owned subsidiaries in China in 1999, and Frankfurt, Munich and Krohne in 2001. British UBM and Reed Exhibitions established joint venture exhibition companies in China through capital acquisition in 1998 and 2001 respectively. After negotiation between the Chinese and German governments, the construction of Shanghai New International Expo Center jointly constructed by Chinese and German enterprises was started in 1999. The China branches of multinational companies had positive impact on the professionalization and internationalization of China's exhibition industry.

— Industry administration was on the agenda. From 1991 to 2001, General Office of the State Council, Ministry of Foreign Trade and Economic Cooperation, Ministry of Domestic Trade, State Administration for Industry and Commerce, Ministry of Science and Technology, Beijing Municipal Government and Guangzhou Municipal Government issued a number of documents (including the administrative regulations) to make regulations of holding economic and trade exhibitions abroad, economic and trade activities in Hong Kong and Macao, economic and trade exhibitions of Taiwan in the mainland, economic and trade exhibitions in China, and international scientific and technological conferences and exhibitions. Strengthening examination and approval management was the central content of these documents. Dalian Municipal Government set up a leading group for exhibition work in 1996, and promulgated the Interim Measures for the Management of Dalian's Exhibitions in 1999. It was the first local government to establish a coordinated management mechanism for the exhibition industry and issue corresponding regulations.

— International exchanges were expanded. In May 1993, Bureau of International Expositions passed a resolution agreeing to accept the People's Republic of China as its 46th official member. With the approval of Bureau of International Expositions, World Horticultural Exposition with the theme of "Man and Nature - Towards the 21st Century" was held in Kunming on October 1, 1999. In December 1999, the Chinese government officially announced its bid for the 2010 World Expo.

(III) Comprehensive and continuous expansion (2002-2012)

In September 2002, the newly revised national standard National Economic Industry Classification (GB / T4754-2002) was listed into the "Conference and Exhibition Service Industry" for the first time, marking that the exhibition industry had officially become a part of China's service industry. Within ten years after that, China's exhibition industry had maintained a comprehensive and rapid growth. During this period, the preparation and holding of Shanghai World Expo played a publicity role for the development of the exhibition industry.

— Industry development was included into national and local planning. In May 2005, General Office of the CPC Central Committee and General Office of the State Council held a forum in Beijing to learn about the development of the exhibition industry. Since then, Ministry of Commerce has launched investigations in nine cities including Beijing and Shanghai. In September, the Survey Report was completed. It was believed that there were many problems in China's exhibition industry, such as "too many exhibitions, small venues, complicated situation, lack of management" and lack of planning for the construction of exhibition venues. The Eleventh Five-Year Plan for the National Economic and Social Development of the People's Republic of China issued in March 2006 put forward that "We should promote the development of the advertising industry, rationally plan the layout of exhibition venues, and develop the exhibition industry." This was the first time that the national five-year plan had mentioned the development of the convention and exhibition industry. In December 2011, Ministry of Commerce issued the Guiding Opinions on Promoting the Development of Convention and Exhibition Industry during the Twelfth Five-Year Plan. Before and after that, many local governments formulated development plans for the exhibition industry.

— Industry regulations and support policies were issued in succession. In March 2005, Shanghai Municipal Government issued Administrative Measures on Shanghai Exhibition Industry. This was the first local regulation on exhibition industry in China. In the same year, Shanghai Intellectual Property Office promulgated Implementation Rules for Strengthening Patent Protection of Exhibitions. In the next January, Ministry of Commerce, the State Administration for Industry and Commerce, Intellectual Property Office, and National Copyright Administration jointly issued the Administrative Measures on the Protection of Intellectual Property Rights in Exhibitions. In January 2011, the Glossary of Economic and Trade Exhibitions (GBT26165-2001) was released with the approval of Standardization Administration of China Standardization Administrate. It had become the first national standard in China's exhibition industry. After 2000, many regions (especially city governments) introduced policies to support the exhibition industry intensively, and special financial funds used to subsidize or reward exhibition projects had become an important motivating measure.

— National trade and economic exhibitions formed a new project layout. Under the leadership of Ministry of Commerce, the pattern with 11 national-level economic and trade exhibitions, including Canton Fair (trade in goods / Guangzhou), CIFIT (investment trade / Xiamen), CIFTIS (service trade / Beijing), CSITF (technical trade / Shanghai), CPTPF (processing trade / Dongguan), China-Eurasian (Urumqi), China-ASEAN (Nanning), China-Northeast Asia (Changchun), China South Asia Expo (Kunming) (border trade) and Central China Investment and Trade Expo were formed. In addition to Canton Fair and CIFIT, other projects are either new or upgraded on the basis of the local economic and trade fair.

— Exhibition architecture construction became a fashion all over the world. The exhibition venues in Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou, Tianjin, Nanjing, Zhengzhou, Wuhan, Hefei, Jinan, Hangzhou, Changchun, Harbin, Shenyang, Xi’an, Hohhot, Lanzhou, Yinchuan, Kunming, Guiyang, Shenzhen, Suzhou, Wuxi, Ningbo, Taizhou and other large and medium size cities have been completed and put into use. That was the first venue construction boom since the founding of the People’s Republic of China. Among them, the Canton Fair Pazhou Complex had undergone three phases of construction, with a total indoor exhibition area of 338,000 m², which was the largest exhibition venue in the country; Chengdu Century City New International Convention and Exhibition Center was the first conference and exhibition complex in China that was invested by private enterprises and built in the form of industrial park.

— Large exhibitions generated brand effect. With the scale of the exhibition venues increased, the large-scale exhibition of more than 50,000 m² appeared in “Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou”. By 2012, there were nearly 100 ultra-large exhibitions of more than 100,000 m² in China. Among them, each session of Canton Fair can be divided into three phases, with a total exhibition area of nearly 1 million m², becoming the world’s largest economic and trade show; the auto show has become the first large-scale exhibition project in various places.

— Project acquisition boosted the capital market growth. During this period, British and German exhibition companies acquired and merged more than 10 exhibition projects or exhibition companies in China. Joint venture exhibition companies had appeared in Shanghai, Beijing, Guangzhou, Shenzhen, and Wuhan.

— The industrial system was becoming more complete. The exhibition industry system consisting of exhibition organization, exhibition venue operation, exhibition display engineering, exhibit logistics, and exhibition information service institutions were basically formed, with related companies spreading all over the country. Among them, there were more than 5,000 exhibitors, more than 20,000 exhibition contractors and more than 400 venue operators. Private enterprises accounted for more than 98% of organizers and exhibitors.

— Industry exchanges became professional and international. In January 2005, China Council for the Promotion of International Trade, International Exhibition Management Association and Society of Independent Show Organizers jointly held the first CEFCO. More than 600 people from 17 countries and regions attended the exhibition. Wu Yi, Vice Premier of the State Council, delivered a keynote speech at the meeting, proposing development goals for the industrialization, marketization, legalization, and internationalization of the Chinese exhibition industry. China Council for the Promotion of International Trade (CCPIT) released the China Convention and Exhibition Economic Development Report (2004) for the first time. The report provided statistics on the national exhibition industry. In February 2006, the inaugural meeting of China Convention and Exhibition Event Society (CCES) was held in Beijing. In July 2005, Ministry of Commerce requested for establishment. Wu Yi, Vice Premier of the State Council, and Hua Jianmin, State Councilor, signed and approved it. In December, 2005, a Government-led Exhibition Innovation Development Forum was held in Beijing, with more than 300 participants. Since then, CEFCO and CCES Annual Meeting had become international and national large-scale professional conferences held annually by the national exhibition industry. In 2004, Chen Ruowei, Vice President of CIEC, was elected as Vice Chairman of UFI and Chairman of the Asia Pacific region. In 2012, Chen Xianjin, Deputy Director of Shanghai Commerce Commission, was elected as the Chairman of UFI in 2013. It showed China's growing influence in the international exhibition community.

— Education and scientific research began to take shape. In 2002, Zhejiang Provincial Department of Education approved the establishment of the majors of exhibition and advertising by Zhejiang Institute of Economic and Trade. In 2003, Beijing International Studies University established the Department of Exhibition Management. This was the first time that a domestic higher vocational college or undergraduate college had established the major of exhibition. In January 2004, the national seminar on new century exhibition textbooks for colleges and universities in China was held in Beijing. During the year, 11 textbooks for the exhibition major of higher vocational college were published by China Commerce and Trade Press. Vocational training began to take place. In December 2003, China Council for the Promotion of International Trade and IAEE jointly hosted a training course for registered exhibition managers in Beijing. It adopted the training system of IAEE, the lecturers included Chinese and foreign experts, and the trainees were awarded with the international certificates of exhibition project manager.

(IV) . March toward exhibition powerhouse (2013-2019)

Since 2013, the Chinese economy has entered a new stage for restructuring, transforming growth drivers and improving quality. We would deepen economic restructuring and open wider to the outside world, driving the development of socialism with Chinese characteristics. At this stage, the exhibition industry in China continued to grow bigger and stronger in the process of pursuing high-quality development goals.

— The State Council clarified the objectives for the reform and development of the exhibition industry. In 2015, the State Council issued Several Opinions on Further Promoting the Reform and Development of Exhibition Industry, requiring the exhibition industry to adhere to the directions of professionalism, informatization branding, and internationalization, advocate low-carbon, environmental protection, and green concepts, cultivate more market players, accelerate transformation and upgrade, strive to promote China's development from a big country in the exhibition industry to an exhibition powerhouse and better serve the overall national economic and social development. This is the first time since the founding of the People's Republic of China that the State Council put forward guiding opinions on the reform and development of the exhibition industry. Meanwhile, progress has been made in clearing and regulating works of government-led exhibitions, which started in 2013. In 2015, General Office of the CPC Central Committee and General Office of the State Council issued administrative measures on exhibitions hosted by the Party and government organs. By 2019, the number of government-led exhibition projects at the provincial level (including capital city level) would be reduced from 559 to less than 300.

— The scale of the industry continued to expand, while the growth rate slowed down. According to the statistics of China Convention and Exhibition Event Society (CCES), by 2018, there were 181 exhibition cities nationwide; 286 exhibition venues, with a total indoor exhibition area of 11.3 million m²; 10,900 economic and trade exhibitions, with a total exhibition area of 1.43 trillion m²; more than 28,000 organizations, more than 3 million employees- China has become the largest country in the world exhibition industry. The growth rate of the exhibition industry slowed down significantly after 2015. The growth in the number of exhibitions is lower than the growth in exhibition space. The development of the exhibition industry in the central and western regions is faster than in the eastern regions. During this period, there were more than 300 ultra-large exhibitions with an exhibition area of 100,000 m² or more. The quantity of exhibitions in China was the largest in the world. Among them, nearly 50 exhibitions are among the top three exhibitions of the same theme in the world.

— Shanghai became the international exhibition capital. In 2018, with 1 million m² of available exhibition space, 994 exhibitions and a total exhibition area of 19.06 million m² (accounting for 9.13% and 13.19% of that of the whole country respectively), Shanghai ranked first among all exhibition cities in China. At the same time, it was also the city with the largest number of internationally renowned exhibitions.

— The pattern of exhibition changed. The number of overseas exhibitions held or participated by Government (CCPIT) delegations had decreased, and more enterprises participated in overseas exhibitions (including through agency). It had become the norm for Chinese companies to participate in well-known foreign exhibitions, for example, more than 600 companies attended Consumer Electronics Show (CES) each year since 2016. The number of self-organized outbound exhibitions in developing countries has increased. In 2018, the total exhibition area reached 840,000 m², becoming an overseas platform for the implementation of the “Belt and Road” Initiative.

— Capital operation promoted enterprise development. During the period, 20 companies were listed in National Equities Exchange and Quotations. Zhejiang Meorient Business Exhibition Co. Ltd., which operates the exhibition business, was successfully listed on the Shenzhen Stock Exchange in October 2019, becoming the first stock listed on the main board of China’s exhibition organizing companies.

— CIIE became a symbol that China is becoming a major exhibition power house. The first China International Import Expo (CIIE) held in Shanghai in November 2018 is the world’s first national-level exhibition with the theme of imported products. General Secretary of the Communist Party of China and President Xi Jinping attended the opening ceremony and delivered a keynote speech. CIIE, which is both a trade platform and a diplomatic platform, attracted 172 countries, regions and international organizations to participate in the exhibition. More than 3,600 enterprises participated in the exhibition, with the total exhibition area of 300,000 m². More than 400,000 domestic and overseas professional visitors visited and negotiated business. The further openness of China shown by it had a significant impact on the future development of the international exhibition industry.

III. Conclusions

(I) The government attaches great importance to the development of economic and trade exhibitions in New China. Over the past 70 years, the government's participation, guidance and support in different periods have been important driving forces for the emergence and sustainable development of China's exhibition industry.

(II) Serving politics and economic construction are the distinctive features of New China's economic and trade exhibitions.

(III) The development of economic and trade exhibition in New China is closely related to the policy environment of opening to the outside world. After the reform and opening up, the pattern of holding and participating exhibitions formed at the beginning of the founding of the People's Republic of China played an international trade function until the establishment of the CIIE. Promoting the opening-up and economic and trade exchanges is the driving force and historical mission of China's exhibition industry.

(IV) China ranks among the major exhibition countries due to the national policy of reform and opening up, the establishment of market economy, industrialization and urbanization, the sustained development of China's economy, and the learning and innovation of Chinese exhibitors.

(V) China still has a long way to go before becoming an exhibition powerhouse. In this process, we should not only continue to give full play to the institutional advantages of socialism with Chinese characteristics, but also make innovations in marketization, specialization and internationalization to keep pace with the times.

III. Development Advantages of Guangxi MICE Industry

As an important gateway for the organic connection of the "21st Century Maritime Silk Road and the Silk Road Economic Belt", Guangxi enjoys development advantages in location, resources, policies, ecology, and industry.

1. Location advantages. Guangxi is along the coast, along the border and along the river. It is located at the intersection of the South China Economic Circle, Southwest Economic Circle, Pan-Pearl River Delta Region, and ASEAN Economic Circle, and is the most convenient access to the sea in Southwest China. It has the geographical advantages of backward-facing Southwest China, facing Southeast Asia, adjacent to Guangdong, Hong Kong, and Macao, as well as the huge market advantages of covering Guangdong and Guangxi provinces, and connecting ASEAN. At the same time, Guangxi, as the only province connected to the sea route of ASEAN, has a unique geographical advantage of being connected to the sea route of ASEAN and located in the core area of the Maritime Silk Road. It will be an important gateway for the organic connection of the "21st Century Maritime Silk Road and the Silk Road Economic Belt".

2. Resource advantages. Guangxi is located in the subtropical zone. It has local unique resources such as various agricultural and sideline products, non-ferrous metals, tourism products, traditional Chinese medicine products, forest products, sugar industry, folk culture, etc., which provides strong support for the development of exhibition themes and has laid a profound resource base for the development of exhibitions. In addition, Guangxi is one of the five provinces and autonomous regions of ethnic minorities. The area is inhabited by Zhuang, Yao, Miao, Dong and other ethnic minorities, with rich cultural resources for development and excavation, such as the Zhuang bronze drum, the Huashan petroglyph, and Lingqu Canal in Guilin, tourism culture such as Guilin landscape, Leye Tiankengs, Beihai Silver Beach and Weizhou Island, as well as red culture, folk song culture, frontier culture, etc. These are all valuable cultural resources of history, tourism, nationalities, and regions of Guangxi, which can provide rich materials for exhibitions.

3. Policy advantages. In addition to common policies of all provinces and regions in the country, Guangxi also enjoys the policies of opening up coastal areas, policies for the development of western regions, policies for autonomous regions for ethnic minorities, and policies for border areas that are not available in most provinces. The political potential and advantages are very obvious in Guangxi, which has provided an important guarantee for the development of the MICE industry. In 2008, the State Council formally approved the Development Plan of the Guangxi Beibu Gulf Economic Development Zone, and the "zero tariff" was applied to more than 7,000 kinds of commodities, which greatly promoted the economic, trade and cultural exchanges between China and Southeast Asian countries. In 2016, "13th Five-Year Plan" for the Development of Modern Service Industry in Guangxi proposed to vigorously develop the MICE industry, take advantage of the permanent presence of China-ASEAN Expo in Nanning, integrate regional exhibition resources, improve exhibition halls and supporting facilities, and cultivate and strengthen exhibition enterprises. In 2019, Guangxi formulated the Three-year Action Plan for the Development of the Guangxi MICE Industry (2019-2021) to further promote the transformation and upgrading of the MICE industry, comprehensively improve the quality and efficiency of the development of the exhibition economy, and promote the high-quality development of the service industry in the autonomous region. This policy pointed out the development direction of the MICE industry and supported the development of the MICE industry in Guangxi.

4. Ecological advantages. Guangxi is located in the subtropical monsoon region, with sufficient sunshine and abundant rainfall. The climate is mild throughout the year, the air quality is stable, and the ecological environment is beautiful and comfortable. The annual average temperature is above 20.0° C in about 65% of the whole region, which is above 22.0° C in Youjiang River Valley, Zuojiang River Valley, and coastal areas, and as high as 23.1° C in Weizhou Island. The annual average temperature in the northeast of Guilin City and areas with higher elevations including Leye, Nandan and Jinxiu is below 18.0° C. In addition, the Guangxi Zhuang Autonomous Region is one of the provinces with the most abundant precipitation in China. The annual precipitation is 1,080~2,760mm in various places, and 1,300~2,000mm in most areas. The annual sunshine hours in various places are 1,169~2,219 hours, compared with neighboring provinces, which is more than that in Hunan, Guizhou, Sichuan and other provinces, but less than that of most parts in Yunnan, and equivalent to that in Guangdong. Guangxi has long been known as the "place for conferences". Guilin, Nanning, Beihai and other cities have excellent environmental conditions for hosting conferences, which are unique in China and suitable for meetings at any time of the year.

5. Industrial advantages. The traditional competitive industries of Guangxi include sugar industry, aluminum-based non-ferrous metal industry, equipment manufacturing industry mainly based on automobiles, engineering machinery and shipbuilding, metallurgy industry, petrochemical and chemical industry, building materials and construction industry, paper-making and wood-processing industry, textile industry and electronic information industry. On the basis of competitive industries, Guangxi has also established major industrial bases, integrated industry-city development cities and parks, which are conducive to the development and expansion of competitive industries. China-ASEAN Information Harbor vigorously promotes the key industries of the new generation of information technology such as the Beidou Navigation Satellite System, big data, e-commerce, Internet finance, and smart city, and strives to form an international communication network system and information service hub with Guangxi as the core, facing ASEAN and serving Southwest China and South Central China by 2020, so as to achieve a high degree of connectivity between China and ASEAN information networks and build the "Information Silk Road". At present, with the continuous implementation of the national develop-the-west strategy, the construction of the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao Greater Bay Area, the construction of the China-ASEAN Free Trade Area, and the joint construction of "Two Corridors and One Ring" by China and Vietnam, the increasingly accelerated progress of Guangxi's participation in the Greater Mekong Sub-region economic cooperation, as well as the establishment of Beibu Gulf Economic Development Zone, Guangxi will be developed into a regional commercial and trade center, industrial center, export processing center, tourism center, information center, and logistics center, which will drive the development of related industries and provide good conditions for the development Guangxi MICE industry.
